WOMAN AND HER HOME.

CAGES.

I AM watching my canaries, as they hop and peck and chirp . . . soft little bits of fluff. . .

We are all, well just that—soft bits of fluff, hopping, pecking and chirping, as they are. We all dwell in cages, as they do, albeit of a different substance; some are large and roomy—large enough not to oppress, nor to seem to imprison; other are small, narrow, cramping, maiming us in body and soul—crushing us into something we know to be only a semblance of our true selves.

Who has dared to rob us of our liberty? Who has fashioned these cages of ours? Who is responsible? We try, in all our impotence, to fix the blame on someone, on some thing.

And yet, and yet . . . we know, but refuse to admit, that the cage is our salvation; in our unconscious wisdom, we ourselves have fashioned it; it is on our plan, and ours alone, it has been built. This, the ridiculous truth.

Consciously or unconsciously, we build our cages big or small, according to the strength we believe to be in our wings—according to the flight we believe we can safely take.

Liberty, unfettered liberty, is only for the truly strong, and the truly strong are the infinitesimal few. If we, who strain so cruelly against the restricting meshwork of our cages, could but for a single instant be vouchsafed a glimpse into the depths of the deep sea of free, unfettered liberty, we would wearily, sighingly, gratefully flutter back to the narrow limits of our deserted cage, for in the blue depths of that alluring sea of liberty lie the skeletons of many poor birdlings, who had been lured to their destruction—their only fault, that they had misjudged their own powers of flight.

But, whilst few there are who dare taste of liberty in all its fullness, many there are who, clinging to the cage they know they have outgrown, flutter their precious lives away, peeping through the meshwork with frightened eys, afraid, afraid, always afriad to try their wings, and seek a wider cage. And they languish, languish.

So we, many of us, just languish through life, until something happens, something sufficiently startling, to penetrate and banish tha numbing fear, and we awake with a start to know, to know with a certainty that leaves no shadow of doubt, no possibility of evasion, that we have grown too big for our cage, and must fly—or die. And, with all the throbbing life that is in us, we start the building of just another cage—one that will yield that degree of liberty we crave for and can safely take—no more; a cage in which we can freely flap our wings, and blithely sing, until we grow strong enough for a larger one—and so, by slow and painful stages, we prepare for full flight.

BORROWED BOOKS.

GOOD resolutions! They crowd in upon us in the virtuous mood of spring cleaning, in that season that so ruthlessly exposes the secret defects of our households.

In the average home the book-shelf alone reveals startling discoveries, for few of us can claim complete exemption from censure in the matter of borrowed books.

It is so fatally easy to accept a loan of some book of passing interest, and then, having read it, to place it amongst our own books, and promptly forget its existence.

Yet a book of but passing interest to us, may be a valued possession to its owner, who naturally hesitates to remind us of our forgetfulness, or it may be in the widespread generosity of her lending of books has completely forgotten its whereabouts.

The plan of reserving a special shelf or drawer for borrowed books in the home often proves an effective reminder of their return, and is, in our mood of good resolutions, a method at least worth trying.

Yet, more dreaded still by the lover of books is the type of borrower who recognises no responsibility in the care of another's property.

The attractively bound volume, left carelessly lying from room to room, subject to the inroads of nurseryland, "dog-eared," and, perhaps, even annotated, and marked by various members of a family, pays dearly for the generosity of the lender, and is surely a lasting tribute to the cost of thoughtlessness.

True, a privileged genius, like the poet Coleridge may have enriched the books borrowed from his friends by his annotations, but there are few Coleridges among us today, and it is wiser to confine our personal notes to our own property.

It is, however, the public libraries which are, perhaps, the worst sufferers in the treatment allotted to borrowed books. There are a number of people who are under the impression that a library subscription exempts them from all responsibility for the wear and tear of books which are not their own. The mere fact that such books are public, not private property, seems to lull their consciences to rest, even in the cases of books which have come in contact with infectious diseases.

Surely, such a lack of civic responsibility calls for higher ideals in the home.

PARIS FASHIONS.

A frock for the races, or some other smart occasion. The corsage part is in rose-beige satin, the skirt in lace of a matching colour, and the collar, which fastens at the back with a bow, topping a rakish little cape of the same lace.

THE LEARNING OF THE IGNORANT.

THIS is an age of handbooks and handbook knowledge; and handbooks are dangerous things. There are too many of us who have, I admit, never taken hold of life except through the theory of books, or, in other words, with gloved hands. We are too ignorant of the real feel of things—the naked touch. We expect to find a handle by which to grasp our daily tasks, and we are woefully nonplussed when it is absent. The unlettered woman—the woman of the masses—on the contrary, is more used to taking things as they are, and making the best of them. As a rule she has expedients and ways and means for sudden emergencies.

There is such a vast amount of knowledge in this world, which it seems utterly impossible, for no very apparent reason, to reduce to black and white. Take the art of cooking, for example. I have heard of some few good cookery books; never of a really perfect and reliable one. All my friends to whom I have applied for statistics on the subject decline to place implicit trust in any of them. The flow of information seems apt to fail at criticial junctures; the specification of quantities lapses into vagueness; the writer veils her meaning in such terms as "a little," "sufficient," and the like. So that it seems that, however, one's culinary education may be "finished" by means of these well-intentioned manuals there is necessary a previous "grounding" by experience and oral tradition.

Who has not admired the "magic" fingers of the working girls?—the deft housemaid, who lays and lights in a few minutes the obstinate fire with which we have struggled for an hour and more. This is a moment when the average woman, who is ignorant of hand dexterity, whose livelihood is her pen or inherited fortune, should feel herself abashed.

William Godwin is said to have divided women into two classes: those who had written a book and those who had not. Without going so far as to accept this distinction, with a reversed estimate of his divisions, it does appear that better standards might be found. Perhaps, already the high-water mark of public opinion as to the all-powerfulness of mere book-writing and book-learning has been reached. There are not wanting critics who suggest that something more is required for the "coming" woman than the ability to pass a difficult examination. The pendulum has swung, perhaps, to an opposite extreme as to the proper place of games in school life, but no doubt an ultimate mean will be found. Hazlitt's dictum, that anyone who, having passed the prescribed course of a classical education without being made a fool thereby, should congratulate herself on a narrow escape, may be an unpleasant way of placing more than a grain of truth before the learned world.

THE NEW FELLOW.

Kenneth Claude Bailey, born in the year 1896, was educated at St. Andrew's College, Dublin, where he won exhibitions in all grades of the Intermediate examinations, including first place in all Ireland in Classics in the Senior Grade, 1913. In 1914 he came to Trinity with first Junior and School Exhibition and a Classical Sizarship. During an undergraduate career of great brilliance he won the following honours and prizes:—A Classical Scholarship as a Junior Freshman, numerous first of first class honours in Classics and Experimental Science, honours in English and French, the William Roberts Prize, the Berkeley Medal, the Vice-Chancellor's Latin Medal and first place at the Final Freshman Examination.

He graduated in 1921 with a double Senior Moderatorship (two large gold medals) in Classics and Experimental Science, thereby becoming the University student of his year. In the same year he was elected Auditor of the College Classical Society, and was appointed Lecturer in Chemistry, with leave of absence for one year to carry out Chemistry research work in the University of Toulouse. In December, 1922, he received the Doctorat de l'Université de Toulouse, and at the Midsummer Commencements of 1925 the degree of Doctor of Science (Sc.D.) was conferred upon him by the University of Dublin. He is the author of a number of papers in the Proceedings of the Royal Irish Academy (of which he was elected a member last year), the Royal Dublin Society, l'Academie Française, and in other scientific journals. Dr. Bailey interrupted his College career to serve in the Great War.

THE MADDEN PRIZEMAN.

James Bell, M.A., Sc.B., was born in Belfast and educated at the Royal Academical Institution. He gained there several scholarships, and was awarded Intermediate Exhibitions in every grade. Entering Trinity College in the year 1916 with a Junior and School Exhibition, he specialised in Mathematics and Experimental Science. He gained first of first-class honours in Experimental Science right through his College course, as well as many first-class honours in Mathematics, and was elected first Foundation Scholar in Experimental Science in 1918. Having been awarded the Ekenhead Scholarship in 1920, he graduated in that year with a Senior Moderatorship (Large Gold Medal) in Experimental Science and a Moderatorship in Mathematics, and was awarded the Brooke Prize of that year. The following year the degree of Sc.B. was conferred on him for research work.

Mr. Bell joined the teaching staff of the College in 1919 as a Demonstrator in Chemistry, and in 1921 was made Assistant to the Professor of General Chemistry, which post he has held ever since.

He is the author of a number of papers on original research work, published in the Journal of the Chemical Society and elsewhere. These papers have recently been submitted and accepted for the degree of Sc.D., to be conferred at the next Commencements, and Mr. Bell will be one of the youngest recipients of this high distinction.

BELFAST HOUSING SURPRISE.

WRITS OF SUMMONS FOR CONTRACTORS.

Writs of summons have been issued at the instance of the Belfast Corporation against Messrs. Robb Bros., timber contractors, and Mr. David Ingram, who also had been a contractor, in connection with the Corporation housing schemes.

It is understood that in their third interim report the Special Committee of the Corporation recommended that this course of action should be taken.

The writs do not specify any particular sums of money as being sought from the defendants named. This will, however, it is understood, form part of the general claim to be investigated by the Court.

LUCAN TRAMWAY.

POSSIBLE RE-OPENING.

Mr. Marshall Harriss, manager of the Dublin United Tramways Company, informed a deputation representing the unemployed of Dublin and Lucan yesterday that the relaying of the tramway to Lucan, which is expected to provide work for 600 men, will be undertaken as soon as possible.

At the moment, however, the prospects of the line's re-opening are not very bright. The Tramways Company estimates that, owing to the unsuitable gauge, worn-out rolling stock, and an obsolete power station, an expenditure of £70,000 would be needed to put the Lucan line into working order.

The company, however, has decided to re-open the line provided that the Borough Commissioners and the Councils in the townships grant an extension of their lease of the lines in the city. The City Commissioners, the Dublin County Council and the Blackrock Urban Council have agreed to the extension, but the Rathmines, Pembroke, Kingstown and Dalkey Councils still withhold their consent, the obstacle being the payment by the Tramways Company of a road grant. If the consent of these Councils should be obtained, legislation would still be necessary. Both are essential preliminaries to the re-opening of the line.

"A CITIZEN OF THE WORLD."

GOLDSMITH A FORERUNNER OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

A COMMEMORATIVE DISCOURSE.

The usual Festival Service was held in the Chapel of Trinity College, Dublin, at 6 o'clock last evening, when Canon Horace Monroe, M.A., Vicar of Wimbledon, delivered a commemorative discourse on Oliver Goldsmith, who took his B.A. degree in 1750.

Canon Monroe said:—We are called upon to-day to carry our thoughts back into the middle of the eighteenth century, and to think in the terms of the period of history when Oliver Goldsmith appeared upon the stage of literature. It was not until he had reached his twenty-seventh year that he actually found his way into the presence of Voltaire; yet even before the progressive forces of that great man's mind had played upon Goldsmith's understanding his heart was beating in tune with the new thought of his age. He delighted to call himself a member of that grand society which comprehends the whole human race, and he gloried in the title, which he eventually claimed as his own—"A Citizen of the World." So Europe became to him a country without frontiers, his passport being his own love of humanity, his maintenance depending upon humanity's love of him. Preparing and making ready the way for the League of Nations, this citizen of the world was seeing his vision and dreaming his dream. While frontiers were ignored abroad, social barriers were being broken down at home. Goldsmith walked along paths untrodden by less sympathetic natures, where poverty, sorrow, oppression, and even shame made their most tender appeal. His great heart was moving towards social reform half a century before the pauper's funeral had stirred the Harrow boy, of the House of Shaftesbury, to awaken England to her social responsibility. "The question," said Edmund Burke, on one occasion in the House of Commons, "is not whether you have a right to render your people miserable, but whether it is not your interest to make them happy." With Goldsmith it was far more than an interest; it was a passion which found expression in both his poetry and his prose.

HIS RELIGION.

In regard to his own religious beliefs, little is to be gleaned from his writings, though it cannot be denied that he wrote to exalt virtue and to condemn vice. This is obviously not sufficient proof of his religious sentiments, but the creator of the "Vicar of Wakefield" was undoubtedly influenced by a belief in the truth, and a reverence for the character of religion—on one occasion his dislike for a man who condemned religion gave evidence of his own belief. He wrote of religion as a noble principle, and of superstition as the bastard sprout of this heavenly plant, and not its natural or genuine plant—but the Church of that time could not satisfy a heart so hungry for the peoples' good.

Turning from the religious to the literary life of Goldsmith's day, Canon Monroe said—It was a difficult period for any poet to make his appearance in England: it was a time of transition: the patron had almost gone, the public had not come, and the critic had begun to discover his value without being able to measure his limitations. Goldsmith was too sensitive to all these difficulties, and he blamed fortune for much that a greater spirit might have overcome. It was a pity that he was not cast in a more heroic mould.

Canon Monroe then narrated the early history of Goldsmith, and gave an account of his college career, mentioning that he entered Trinity College at the age of fifteen years as a sizar, and he recounted how the cause of the poor in the Dublin streets captured his imagination. Some wisdom he learnt here, and but for his follies he might have learned more.

"THE TRAVELLER."

The wanderings of this child of imagination, said Canon Monroe, were instrumental in giving to the world a poem which Fox called "one of the finest poems in the English language." "The merit of 'The Traveller'" said Johnson on being told of this appreciation, "is so well established that Mr. Fox's praise cannot augment it, nor can his censure diminish it." As for himself, by his own confession he is both philosopher and vagabond at the same time, esteeming his own wisdom and despising his own folly as he draws the character of the philosophic vagabond in the "Vicar of Wakefield."

While delighting the imagination, he makes no serious demand upon his reader. His language is not elaborate, nor are his creations magnificent; he does not attempt to carry the understanding of his reader beyond certain limitations. He scarcely ever departs from the ordinary habits of thought, while he almost unconsciously awakens associations which make their unerring appeal as they steal into the recesses of the human heart. He shows singular consideration of men's feelings, and, though ever humorous, he never snatches a joke out of a misery.

IN LONDON.

At length the wayward wanderer returned to London "without friends, recommendations, money, or impudence," to quote his own description of his unhappy condition. When once his genius became known, changed circumstances opened the way into the most congenial company. His desire for recognition when in the company of other men was the occasion of his sometimes appearing to disadvantage, and indignation against an unappreciative public made him ridiculous even in his own eyes. On one occasion he was tempted to burn his whole manuscript, but on reflection he refrained from this folly. The world would have had less risk of such a catastrophe had he allowed his imagination to picture the possibility of posthumous fame. We ourselves, who honour his memory, hardly know how many thoughts familiar as household words we owe to the genius of Goldsmith. In ignorance of his own greatness, and with little thought of all that his pen was bequeathing to posterity, he was at times inclined to be jealous of those who in his presence were receiving more attention than he thought to be their due. His own character was so strange a compound as to make it impossible for him to enjoy in any great measure the happiness that life had to offer. Goldsmith's life was humoured and coaxed too late. He did live to win the world's applause, to earn a good income with his pen, and to enjoy the friendship of many great men: yet melancholy seemed to have marked him for her own.

Experience had introduced to Goldsmith so many human sorrows as to overshadow the hope, cherished in early days and developed in his writings, for the happiness of all mankind. Oliver Goldsmith, mourning over some mens undiscovered agonies and on other men's opportunities, is asking us all "How long?"

"Ye friends of truth, ye statesmen who survey
The rich man's joy increase, the poor's decay,
'Tis yours to judge how wide the limits stand
Between a splendid and a happy land."

PRESENTATION TO THE REV. J. T. CUMMINS.

On Friday last presentations were made to the Rev. J. T. Cummins, M.A., late Senior Curate of St. George's Parish, Dublin, who has been appointed Incumbent of the Parishes of Athy and Kilberry. The Rector, the Rev. H. G. Forde, who presided over a large assembly, expressed regret that since coming to the parish as Rector he had not the benefit of Mr. Cummins's experience and help.

Mr. William Smyth spoke of the presentation from St. Aidan's district, which was also contributed to by friends from the parish church, and referred to Mr. Cummins's work in St. Aidan's.

Mrs. Forde made the presentation—a wallet, with notes amounting to a substantial sum.

On behalf of St. Augustine's congregation a similar presentation was made. Mr. Rupert Giltrap was the spokesman.

Mr. A. E. Murphy, for St. George's Y.M.C.A., gave expression to the members' regret at Mr. Cummins's removal. Miss Staveley gave the Y.W.C.A. presentation, which was a barometer. The Men's Club was represented by Mr. C. Porter, who handed Mr. Cummins a cheque as a token of the members' regard.

Mr. Cummins, in his reply, thanked all for the tokens of affection, and for the sympathy and co-operation given to him in his work at St. George's.

Canon Greer spoke in appreciative terms of Mr. Cummins's labours as curate of the parish.

ILLEGAL FISHING IN THE LIFFEY.

POACHERS' ACTIVITIES BY NIGHT.

An application made by the Dublin Board of Conservators to the Free State Minister of Fisheries to prohibit all fishing for salmon or trout by means of nets, between sunset and sunrise, in the tidal waters of the River Liffey to the westward of the mouth of the River Dodder, formed the subject of an inquiry held yesterday by Mr. C. Green, Inspector, and Captain Spicer, Assistant Inspector, of the Department of Fisheries, at 24 Kildare street, Dublin.

Mr. T. H. R. Craig, solicitor, appeared as a riparian owner, and the net fishermen were represented by a large deputation.

Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor to the Board of Conservators, said that his clients had experienced a most unusual amount of trouble and expense in watching illegal fishing with nets to the westward of the mouth of the River Dodder. For several years past the Board had to exercise continual vigilance, through the water bailiffs, and a great many prosecutions resulted in convictions. Most of the offences had taken place at night, usually between midnight and daybreak. In two cases the offenders could only be captured with the aid of Civic Guards, who had to fire shots over the boats before they would come ashore. The bailiffs were exposed to considerable risk, and the Board had incurred considerable expense because of the numerous prosecutions.

NETS USED BETWEEN BOATS.

Nets, for which the holder had only a drift net licence, had been constantly used between two boats, and stretched across the river. This made the position of the Conservators in maintaining the fishery laws in that part of the river impossible, as virtually all the offences took place under the cover of darkness. The offenders had invariably shown great hostility to the water bailiffs when challenged for their names and addresses. To end this state of affairs, his Board had asked for a by-law to prohibit all net fishing between sunset and sunrise for salmon and trout.

Evidence was given by Mr. B. J. Newcombe, clerk to the Board, that there were at present 27 drift net licences and three draft net licences issued for the tidal portion of the Liffey. Most of the bailiffs nights were spent in watching that portion of the river west of the Dodder to prevent illegal fishing.

Michmael McNamara, head water bailiff to the Conservators, said that the bailiffs had considerable difficulty in watching the river, particularly at night time, owing to the method of fishing adopted. He had seen these operations going on on dozens of occasions, and motor boats and motor cars were used to give warning to fishermen.

MOTOR CARS WARN BOATS.

Motor cars went along the road, and, though he did not see the signals given, he was satisfied that they warned the boats of the bailiffs' approach. Fishing went on from nine o'clock at night till seven o'clock the following morning, and between these hours he had frequently found nets stretched across the river between two boats. Within the past two years there were three or four convictions. From February 2nd to April 3rd this year, 194 fish, weighing 2,276 pounds, were sold by one fisherman to a dealer, and by another twenty fish were sold to the same dealer between February 24th and April 3rd.

Mr. Woodnutt, Hon. Bailiff, gave similar evidence, and said that this method of fishing at night was detrimental to the fishing industry.

Mr. T. H. R. Craig, a riparian owner, gave evidence of men coming from Ringsend and dragging a net between two boats down the river, which no fish could possibly pass in that part of the river. If that were allowed to continue, in about four years, when the existing fish and fry were done away with, there would be no fish in the river. The river would never be any real use until some scheme was adopted for the whole river.

SHOTS FIRED OVER BOATS.

Mr. J. H. Browne, Hon. Bailiff, said that he had seen motor cars working in conjunction with illegal fishing between Island Bridge and the Metal Bridge. The cars circled that part of the river—along the roads and over the bridges—where two boats were dragging the river. On one occasion he heard the motor horn being blown. The boats went to the opposite side of the river and the nets were taken in. On two occasions armed Civic Guards had to fire shots over the boats to get the men to come into the quay side.

Mr. Maguire, speaking on behalf of the Ringsend fishermen, said that no doubt this fishing up river would be detrimental to fishing on the Liffey, but if this ground were taken away it would leave them with an area of 2,000 yards to fish with 7,000 yards of net. The fishermen suggested that they should get the river from Butt Bridge to half a mile west of the Poolbeg Light. The river Dodder, he said, was no advantage to salmon fishermen, as there were no salmon to be found there.

WEIR STOPPED WITH WIRE.

James Kearney, a Ringsend fisherman, said that the bailiffs, instead of watching the lower reaches of the river, should go up the river, where the salmon that were going to spawn were killed. He had seen poaching at the Salmon Leap, and saw the weir stopped with wire.

Mr. Burne—Why did not you report it?

Mr. Kearney—I am not paid for that. He added that more poachers would be got in one month in the upper reaches than in the lower reaches of the river in twenty years.

The inquiry closed.

SANDFORD CENTENARY FETE.

This year Sandford Parish Church, Dublin, celebrates its hundredth birthday. Such an occasion was thought to be a fitting one to buy four shares in the Diocese Scheme for the stabilising of the curacy. This purchase necessitated an overdraft on the bank of £1,200, and it is to liquidate this liability that a grand fête is being held on the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th of this month.

The fête will be opened on each day, commencing to-morrow, at 3 p.m., by prominent Dublin citizens, including Lord Glenavy, Sir Simon Maddock, D.L. Sir James C. Percy, and Major Sir Robert W. Tate, K.B.E., F.T.C.D. There will be stalls of great variety, and popular amusements and entertainments of every description, of some of which Lady Tate has kindly consented to take charge. A large dance marquee has been erected on the grounds adjoining the schoolhouse. The band of the Civic Guard (Metropolitan Division) will be in attendance.

GAME PROTECTION.

SUCCESSFUL MOVEMENT IN NORTHERN IRELAND.

FURTHER GIFT OF PHEASANTS' EGGS.

Under the guidance of the Wildfowl, Game and Fish Protection Society of Ulster, considerable progress has been made with game preservation in the North.

In the next session of Parliament a bill is to be introduced to assist those who wish to preserve game and add to the resource of the province, from a financial point of view, and also as a pleasure-ground for visitors.

It is estimated that if compact shooting preserves can be established throughout Ulster for pheasant and other game, which would provide a good mixed bag, the province might become as attractive a shooting centre as Scotland, where grouse is available for a limited period every year, and deer is available on a restricted scale.

Something has been done towards forming such preserves, and farmers, who see the financial possibilities of the movement, are giving cordial co-operation. In various parts of the province they are combining and forming preserves of several hundred acres in extent, in some cases in association with sporting men, who have rented the shooting rights. Notices have been put up declaring that the lands are reserved, and efforts are being made to keep the vermin in check. Partridges and pheasants are being imported to form the nucleus of stock. It has been found by experience that these imported birds' nest on the lands when they are liberated, and, as they are very prolific, the stock is quickly increased.

Hungarian partridges which were recently imported by a syndicate and liberated in County Down immediately settled in their new quarters, and were soon sitting on good clutches of eggs.

Sporting clubs are also contemplated in some districts to arrange with farmers for the letting of lands, the preservation and propagation of stock, and the forming of regular "shoots," which may be open to visitors on daily or weekly fees.

Recently 1,000 pheasants' eggs, presented by Captain Freeman, of the Captain Freeman Game Farm, to the Wild Fowl, Game and Fish Protection Society, were balloted for, and distributed by Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., and Mr. Lloyd Campbell, M.P.

The Hon. Secretary of the Game Protection Association has received a further letter from Captain Freeman, in which he expresses delight at the interest taken in the game preservation movement in Ulster, and increases his offer of free eggs. He states that he is sending another 1,000 immediately, and that more will follow. The Society hopes to despatch the second thousand eggs early next week to the persons whose names come next in order in the ballot already mentioned.

AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND VISITED.

DUBLIN ROTARIAN'S IMPRESSIONS.

At the meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club at Clery's Restaurant, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. M. P. Rowan presiding, Mr. P. J. Duffy, honorary secretary of the newly-formed Irish Musical Society, appealed for support for that organisation by reading his letter which was published in the Irish Times last Thursday.

Mr. J. R. Coade said that here was an opportunity of conferring a great benefit upon the community, and of utilising the musical talent of those young persons who had received the imprimatur of the Feis Ceoil.

Mr. William A. McConnell, honorary secretary of the club, gave a graphic description of his voyage to the Antipodes, and his travels over 38,000 miles of land and water since he left Dublin four and a half months ago as the chosen representative of 220 clubs, composed of 11,000 members in Great Britain and Ireland, to carry the message of Rotary to the Rotary Clubs of Australia and New Zealand.

The first view that he had got of Australia, he said, really horrified him. The land was the colour of brown paper, and not a patch of green was visible in the landscape. He visited the principal towns in Australia and New Zealand, and messages and deputations came in advance to greet and welcome him, and the hospitality of the Rotarians everywhere was unbounded. The people had a high conception of Rotary and its objects.

If there was anything in particular that the people of Australia and New Zealand were after, it was efficiency in increasing the products of their country and finding markets for them. He had seen some wonderful fruit farms, and, as an instance of what could be done, he had seen a factory in which they turned out tinned fruit at the rate of 600 cans per minute.

Dr. Fannin mentioned that the Belfast and Derry Clubs would be the guest of the Dublin Club about the end of next month, and that they were to have a golf engagement at Portmarnock on the day following the dinner.

MISSIONARY WORK IN UGANDA.

DUBLIN MANSION HOUSE MEETING.

Presiding at a meeting in support of Roman Catholic Missions in Uganda, in the Dublin Mansion House last night, Mr. F. J. Macken said that there were now more than half a million Catholics in that country. He knew most of East Africa well, and wherever he travelled he had met Irishmen who had given a good account of themselves. In the Union of South Africa, where most of the European population was gathered, Catholicity had made wonderful strides during the past eight or nine years.

Among Protestant missionaries, he said, from whom he had received many courtesies, he found that some of their most zealous workers were Irishmen.

The Rev. B. J. MacLoone, of the Mill Hill Fathers, then described his experiences during fourteen years on the mission in Uganda. He pointed out that his Society was international, including among its members English, Scottish, Irish, Germans and Austrians; and, with the aid of lantern slides, he gave his audience some idea of the country and its people. The natives were coming from far and near to be baptised, and their trouble was to cope with the numbers.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION.

ANNUAL MEETINGS IN BELFAST.

The annual meetings of the Congregational Union of Ireland began last evening in Donegall street Church, Belfast. Great interest attaches to the visits of the English and Scottish delegates. The Rev. Dr. Grieve, who represents the English Union, is the distinguished principal of Lancashire Independent College, Manchester. He graduated M.A. of Oxford, and is a D.D. of London University. For a time he was Registrar of the University in Madras. On returning home he was appointed Professor in Yorks College, Bradford, and later became principal of the Theological Hall, Edinburgh. A few years ago he was appointed principal of the Lancashire Congregational College, Manchester. The Rev. J. I. McNair, of Edinburgh, the Scottish delegate, was twenty-five years in India as a missionary, but is now acting as secretary for the Christian Literature Society of India, and spends much time in Scotland and Ireland on its behalf. In May, 1925, on his return from the mission field, he was unanimously called to the Chair of the Scottish Union, and became the first missionary President of that Church. The Rev. A. M. Chirgwin, M.A., representative at the meetings of the London Missionary Society, was some years ago induced to give up an important pastorate in order to promote the interest of this historic society. His visit also is eagerly anticipated.

Now Feels So Well

Miss Gertrude Lawrence, writes:

The World-Famous Revue Actress and Musical Comedy favourite is enthusiastic about Phosferine:

"ACTING in Revue must always be of a strenuous character, especially during the hot summer, and is a very severe tax upon one's endurance; usually this kind of stage work leaves one feeling positively limp and exhausted after each performance. It would be quite easy for the system to acquire the habit of lassitude and sleeplessness, but fortunately a timely dose of Phosferine always enables one to avoid that risk, and continue work with unabated energy. Being a devotee of many sports, I get a fair amount of outdoor recreation, and I know that Phosferine keeps me feeling so well that I get a real benefit and enjoyment out of my pastimes."

From the very first day you take PHOSFERINE you will gain new confidence, new life, new endurance. It makes you eat better, and sleep better, and you will look as fit as you feel. Phosferine is given with equally good results to the children.

Aldwych

CLASSICAL AND OTHER DANCES.

A GRACEFUL DISPLAY.

It must have been gratifying to Miss Dorothy T. Forrest to find at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, last night an audience at once so large and appreciative of the delightful programme that she and Miss Dorothy Searle presented.

Miss Forrest is known as a teacher of dancing, both classical and national, but only those who are in intimate touch with her are aware of the excellent work she is doing. It is pleasing to know that here in Dublin there is a school devoted to the revival of an art that, in Ireland at any rate, has shown signs of decay.

Miss Forrest's programme could scarcely be described as a concert or a recital. It was a charming hotch-potch, a variety of beautiful things splendidly done. As there were fourteen items and dozens of performers, each of whom was really a principal, it would be difficult to write of the best. All were good, from the opening—"A Spring Fantasy"—down to the close—"My Heart is in the Sea," a classical ballet, in which Miss Forrest (Land Child), Miss Booth (Spirit of Earth), Miss O. Conway (Seagull), and Miss Dorothy Searle and corps de ballet (Sea) took part. Two of the most charming things of all were Miss Searle's "Cymbal Dance," done with a rare vigour and abandon, and "The Robin's First Adventure." The children in the last-named dance deserved the rounds of applause which they received.

"Et Puis Bon Soir," a mime sketch (music by Coleridge-Taylor), was a number of rare beauty, in which Pierrot suffered his usual fate. Master Buster Fay, as the Call-Boy, was really funny. There followed a processional of friezes, tragedies, funeral movements and offerings, to the rhythm of the spoken word, in which the words were recited by Miss Dorothy T. Forrest. These were performed with rhythmical grace, and were not without a thrill for the lover of the beautiful.

"Mad Patsy" (music by Schumann) and half a dozen other items filled a programme such as is all too rare in Dublin. Mr. Arthur Darley, with his violin, played up to his usual high standard, and Mr. Norman O'Connell Redmond, who has a useful tenor voice, sang several songs excellently.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

MILK PROSECUTIONS.

DUBLIN VENDOR FINED £10.

(BEFORE MR. LITTLE.)

John Kelly, 26 Coombe, Dublin, was summoned on a charge of selling new milk from which 26.7 of its fats had been abstracted on April 22nd last.

Mr. J. F. Lalor, solicitor, appeared for the defendant, whose case was that he purchased the milk from another man and sold it as he received it.

Mr. Little said that he would not send the defendant to Mountjoy this time. He fined him £10.

William Fogarty, of Clonough, Inch, Co. Wexford, was fined 20s. for supplying milk to which 4.7 per cent. of water had been added. The sample was taken by the inspector at Westland row railway station, and the defendant said that he put the milk on rail himself and put no water at all in it.

Inspector Tannim said that he took a sample of the defendant's milk a few days afterwards and it was all right.

Arthur Smith, Keane's court, Gloucester street, was summoned for selling milk from which 6.7 of its fats had been abstracted on May 8th last.

Mr. Gerald Byrne, who appeared for the defendant, said that his client got the milk from the country, and did not interfere with it in any way. The percentage was very small, and there had been nothing against Mr. Smith before.

Defendant was fined 20s.

John Roberts, 16 Watkins's Buildings, Dublin, was charged on two summonses with selling milk on April 9th and 20th which was adulterated by the addition of 4.7 and 5.9 per cent. of water respectively.

The defence was that the milk was sold in the same condition as received from the country.

Defendant was fined 20s. in the first case and 40s. in the second.

Mr. Burke, solicitor, prosecuted on behalf of the Borough Commissioners; and Inspector Tannim gave evidence of having taken the samples.

CRUELTY TO A DONKEY.

Joseph Kelly, driver, and William Royal, owner, Whitefriar street, Dublin, were each fined 10s. on a charge of cruelty to a donkey.

ALLEGED WORTHLESS CHEQUE.

(BEFORE MR. COLLINS, K.C.)

David J. Power, of Ellis's quay, Dublin, was remanded on bail until next Monday on charges of obtaining a bullock and sheep, value £31 17s. 6d., from Thomas Walsh, Moore street, by means of a worthless cheque on April 2nd last, and of obtaining meat value £25 by similar means from the same person in November last.

It was submitted on behalf of the defendant, for whom Mr. O'Brien solicitor, appeared, that he was a customer of Mr. Walsh and that he did not know that there was no money to meet the cheques. He promised that the amounts would be paid to Mr. Walsh.

Detective Officer Durkin had charge of the case.

PEDLAR FINED.

Thomas Dwyer, a pedlar, was fined 10s. for causing an obstruction last Saturday evening in Lower Sackville street, where, it was stated, he was selling rings and had a crowd of about two hundred people round him.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Chapman, of Salford, was killed at Rhyl yesterday in a motor cycle sidecar, driven by her husband, which overturned when he attempted to avoid a collision with a motor lorry.

IRISH VERSUS AMERICAN BACON.

Through a typist's error, the published reports of his speech in the Dail last Friday represented the Minister of Agriculture as saying that "quality for quality" American bacon was 3d. per lb. better than Irish bacon. Mr. Hogan's statement should have read: "American bacon is, as a rule, about 3d. per lb., quality for quality, cheaper than Irish bacon."

In a collision at West Hartlepool yesterday between a motor cycle combination and a motor lorry, Thomas Wilkinson, a grocer, who was riding in a sidecar was killed, and Thos. Robson, who was driving, was badly injured.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES.

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN STEADY.

BRITISH FUNDS STRONG.

There was a fair share of give-and-take price fluctuations on 'Change yesterday, with a slight increase in the amount of business current, while in other sections there was still a marked absence of dealing. Government Loans on balance tended to ease after last week's strength. British Funds were quite buoyantly disposed on indications pointing to a cessation of the coal strike and the continued influx of foreign money for investment. Banks show a couple of irregular price changes in a very limited market. Among Breweries, Guinness Ord. Shares were again sellers for choice. Grand Canal Pref. were held for a substantial further advance. Marconi Shares were quietly absorbed. There was some bidding for Great Southern Railway Stocks towards the close after, apparently, a dull and nominal opening. Trams were idle, but nearly all shares were firm and bid for without being so marked. Provincial Deb. Shares were good at the close, with a sharp rise. Dunlop Rubber Ord. were actively supported at the opening, and then eased. An odd lot of Switzers Ord. was picked up at 80s., and the price bid. As regards Manufacturing Shares, Textiles on balance tended to ease, but Courtaulds were firm at the close. Tobaccos marked time. Goulding and Lever Bros. issues were wanted. Bagots Hutton Pref. further improved. Oils and Swedish Match "B" Shares met with attention.

LONDON INACTIVE.

SLUMP IN INDIA STOCK.

The volume of business transacted in the London Stock Markets yesterday remained on a small scale, but despite the lack of interest a generally steady tone was manifest. The accumulation of orders over the week-end proved to be of very moderate dimensions, the public still awaiting developments in the coal position before entering into fresh commitments, and after these transactions had been carried out the markets experienced an extremely lean period. Two features were a sharp reaction in India Government Stocks and the slump in Armstrongs owing to the poor report. Apart from Indians, the gilt-edged market showed little change on the day Foreign Government Stocks were not altered to any great extent, but quotations where changed were, with the exception of French Loans, a shade easier. An extremely quiet tone ruled in Home Rails, but a steady appearance was maintained. Colonial and Foreign Rails, on the other hand, were a trifle firmer in places. In Industrials the chief feature was the sharp decline in Armstrongs on the position as disclosed in the report, and at the close some heavy losses were registered. Textiles were steady, but Tobaccos were marked forward, while Dunlops displayed a firm appearance. Oils were firm in tone, but among Mines South Africans were content to repeat previous levels.

SIR W. G. ARMSTRONG, WHITWORTH AND COMPANY'S BIG LOSS.

Losses of hundreds of thousands of pounds in the great undertakings controlled by Armstrong, Whitworth, one of the world's biggest armament and steel combines, require to be written off with the sanction of the shareholders at next week's meeting. The losses are attributed to bad trade, foreign competition, and production costs. A sum of £900,000 has been decided upon by the directors as necessary to be transferred from the reserve. "The greater part of this amount will be required to write off losses already incurred," they state. Five directors have resigned, including the chairman. They are Sir Glynn H. West (chairman), Mr. J. M. Falkner, Sir G. H. Murray, Rear-Admiral Sir Charles Ottley and Lord Sydenham. Over ten million pounds in share capital is issued and paid up, and outstanding debenture stocks amount to over seven millions. The City yesterday was discussing this latest sensation in the repercussion from the post-war boom. After many firms had felt its effects, the greatest and most drastic reconstruction of any came about last December, when the other great armament concern, Vickers, wrote down their capital from 26 to 18 millions. Sir W. G. Armstrong, Whitworth and Co., Ltd., whose report for 1925 has just been issued, state that the full amount of the losses is not yet known. "The directors regret to report," states the report, "that a continuance of adverse conditions, particularly as regards bad trade, the costs of production, and foreign competition, have materially affected the results of the year. Moreover, the efforts to secure business to compensate for the serious reduction in armament orders, for which Elswick and the other main plants of the company have been specially equipped, are not giving the results which were expected. A close investigation of certain accounts has been made, from which it is evident that the original estimates of profit in connection with important contracts will not be realised, and that instead heavy losses, due to the above-mentioned and other causes, will result. The extent of these losses is difficult to estimate and the full amount is not yet known, but the directors have considered it essential to transfer from the general reserve the sum of £900,000, as it was considered that the greater part of this amount will be required to write off losses already incurred." The annual meeting of the shareholders is this day week, at Newcastle, and the directors will be able to explain the results of consultations with the largest shareholders and with bankers. Armstrong, Whitworths paid dividends at 13½ p.c. at the beginning of the war, and for the remainder of the war of 12½ p.c. In 1920 they paid 10 p.c. and up till 1924 5 p.c.

"THE MONEY-MAKER."

This is the attractive title of a small volume by the Financial Editor of London Opinion (George Newnes, Ltd., 1s.). Its object is to provide many hints and helps towards successful investing, and tells investors what to do and how to do it. Needless to say, the field has been often covered by our financial guides, and, no doubt, it will be gone over again for the benefit of succeeding generations. This can be said, however, for "The Money-Maker"—that it covers familiar ground in a style and language absolutely suited to the most average person who has money to invest. It is simple almost to a fault, and yet this is what is required; for it is notorious that many people investing thousands have only the vaguest idea of the form and validity of a transfer or how it should be signed and witnessed. For the "old stagers" there are chapters on the "Romance of Courtaulds" and the "Romance of Tobacco Companies"; many mouths will water over the reminiscences of the fortunes from these sources that might have come their way.

QUICK OVER-SUBSCRIPTION.

The subscription lists for the issue of £6,000,000 New Zealand Government £5 per cent. Inscribed Stock, 1946, were closed at 11 o'clock yesterday morning (Monday). The prospectus was advertised in the Irish Times yesterday morning.

INDUSTRIAL AND GENERAL TRUST.

The directors of the Industrial and General Trust, Ltd., have decided to offer to the Ordinary Stockholders on the register on June 10th, by way of rights, 250,000 shares of £2 each at the price of £3 per share. The shares will carry a fixed dividend for the period ending March 31st, 1927, of 1s. 3d. per share, less tax, and will be converted after payment of this dividend into £1 of Preference Stock and £1 of Ordinary Stock. Letters of rights will be posted on June 12th. For the year ended March 31st last the company paid a dividend on its Ordinary capital of 15 per cent., against 14 per cent. for the previous year and 13½ per cent. for 1923-24. There are unissued 750,000 shares of £2 each. The Ordinary Stock is marked at round 306½, and the Preference Stock at 83½.

RIVER PLATE TELEPHONE.

It is announced by the directors of the United River Plate Telephone Company that heavy capital commitments will necessitate further funds, and it is proposed to increase the nominal capital from £5,000,000 to £6,000,000 by the creation of 200,000 shares of £5 each. The Board state, however, that it is not their intention to make any immediate issue. The share capital of the company was increased from £500,000 to £4,000,000 by the creation of £500,000 each time in 1904, 1910, 1912, 1920, 1923 and 1924—January and June—and to £5,000,000 in June, 1925.

Six cattle, including a valuable pedigree Aberdeen-Angus cow and calf, were destroyed in an Aberdeenshire farm fire.

LONDON MOVEMENTS.

With the exception of Indias, which suffered a rather sharp reaction, the gilt-edged market maintained a steady to firm appearance. Among War Loans the only movement was that of a rise of ⅛ in the 3½ p.c. to 98½. India 3½ p.c. dropped back sharply to 71½, or 2½ points easier, while the Threes at 61 were 1½ points down. The 5½ p.c. shed ½ to 103½, but the 7 p.c. were steady at 104.

Among Foreign Government Stocks French Loans had a firmer appearance, and at the end of the day the Fives were ½ higher at 11 x d., while the Fours repeated 8½. Greek Sevens lost ¼ to 89⅞, and Egyptian Unified at 81½ were ½ down. Chinese 5 p.c. 1912 were a heavy spot, the closing level of 57½ being 2½ points lower on the day. Portuguese Threes also went back, being a point lower at the close at 32.

FOREIGN RAILS RISING.

A firm tone continued evident in Colonial and Foreign Rails, and quotations were marked further forward in some directions. B.A.G.S. at 92 and the Western at 82 were both a point up, while Central Argentine at 71 were ½ better. United Havana were marked 2 points harder at 76, but Mexican Rails went off a trifle to 7½, or ½ easier. Cordoba Central Pref. at 77 were also ½ lower. "Canpacs" and Grand Trunks were without material alteration, as were Leos and San Paulos.

RUBBER SHARES WEAK.

Business continued on a restricted scale in the Rubber Share market yesterday, and, although a fair number of advances were recorded the majority of movements were against holders, some of them being of a rather substantial character. A quiet tone ruled in the commodity market, and the quotations for the raw material, after being a trifle harder at one time, went back again. Spot to June sold 1s. 8½d. per pound, while July-September fetched 1s. 8¼d., 1s. 8¼d., 1s. 8¼d., and then 1s. 8d. per pound. October-December commenced at 1s. 8¼d., but later on went back to 1s. 8½d. per pound, at which level the market closed. London stocks of the raw material show an increase on the week of 1,148 tons at 20,048 tons. In the share market Sendayan were a firm spot, the final quotation of 51s. being 1s. above the week-end level. Sialang also hardened appreciably, being 2s. 5¼d. firmer at 71s. 2¼d. at the close. Golconda at 57s. 6d. and F.M.S. Planters at 71s. 3d. were exceptionally firm spots, the former gaining 3s. 9d., while the latter closed 1s. 3d. to the good. Batu Tiga, on the other hand, dropped back to 57s. 6d., or 2s. 6d. down, while B.N.B.R. Trust and Bukit Rajah were both 6d. easier. Eastern Trust dropped 2s., and Damansara at 25s. 3d. were 1s. down. Kapar Para shed 3s. 4½d. to 68s. 6d., and Sungei Krian Pref. at 68s. 9d. and Tandjong Malim at 36s. 3d. were both 1s. 3d. lower on the day's business. Tali Ayer shed 1s. to 38s. 4½d., and Bukit Kajang at 68s. 6d. to 38s. 4½d., and Bukit Kajang at 68s. 6d. were 1s. 3d. lower.

TEA SHARES FIRMER.

A firmer tendency was evident in the Tea Share market yesterday, but the volume of business put through showed no material expansion from that transacted the latter part of last week. Price changes were not numerous. Amalgamated Estates went ⅛ better to 41⅜, and Cons. Tea and Lands at 33⅜ were ⅞ above their previous closing quotation. Dimbula Valley were a firm spot, and here an improvement of 1s. 10½d. was recorded to 73s. 1½d. Eastern Assam at 74s. were 1s. 6d. better, and Eastern Produce gained a similar amount to 103s. 4½d. Nedeem spurted to 62s. 6d., or 2s. 6d. better, and Singlo jumped to 72s. 1½d., or 2s. 1½d. above the week-end level. Upper Assam were another firm spot, and here an increase of 1s. 7½d. was registered to 58s. 9d. Majuli, on the other hand, went back rather sharply, the final level of 74s. 4½d. being 2s. 7½d. below the previous quotation, while Chargola at 27s. 6d., and Chubwa at 92s. 6d., were 1s. 7½d. and 1s. 3d. lower, respectively.

OIL SHARES IRREGULAR.

A fairly active business was transacted in Oil shares during the early hours of yesterday, due to the execution of orders accumulated over the week-end. With the demand in this connection satisfied the market became quiet, and, while firmness was maintained by the recognised leaders, an irregular tendency developed among the more speculative favourites. In the absence of advices from New York, the Stock Exchange in that centre being closed on Saturday last, the market lacked a lead in regard to international counters, although it cannot be said that they suffered in any respect. Paris was hardly a factor in regard to Mexican Eagles. Shells were a firm market throughout the day, and after having been bid for at 4 11/16, left off either side, the price showing a gain of 1/16, the bearer shares being up to a like extent at 4⅝, and the 7 per cent. Prefs. strengthening to 25s. 3d. Royal Dutch rose at one time to 33⅞, and were finally ¼ up at 33⅝. A good demand was experienced for Burmahs, following the publication of the report, and the shares advanced to 6 11/16, while at the end a gain of 1/16 was recorded at 6 7/16. There was little of interest among Venezuelans, apart from Lagos, which met with a strong demand, causing the price to advance to 4 11/16, a gain of 1/16.

INDUSTRIALS RATHER QUIET.

The outstanding feature in the Industrial market yesterday was the weakness displayed by Armstrong Whitworth issues on the position disclosed by the report. While shareholders had been prepared for a poor showing by the passing of the final Pref. dividends, the losses now disclosed will come as a heavy burden to many. At one time the Ord. Shares were offered at 6s. 3d., being finally 2s. down on balance at 7s., with the Second Prefs. 9d. lower at 8s. 9d., the Third Prefs. 1s. 9d. at 7s. 6d., while the Debs. were more or less nominal at 69-74 for the 4 p.c., 90-95 for the 6½ p.c. Seconds, and 83-89 for the 6½ p.c. Consolidated, the last-named showing a loss of 7½ on last Friday's closing quotation. Other kindred descriptions were dull in sympathy. Textiles had a steadier appearance, the North sending along a few buying orders for Bleachers, which hardened to 43s. 9d., and for Courtaulds, which gained a fraction at 6⅜. Coats at 62s. 7½d., Hoyles at 29s. 4½d., and Snias at 47s. 6d. were exceptionally dull. Linen Threads were a better market at 33s. Some profit-taking occurred among Electrical Equipment issues. Less activity was seen in the Tobacco favourites, but the tone of the market was steady to firm. "B.A.T.'s" changed hands between 118s. 9d. and 119s. 3d., closing unaltered at 119s., with "Imps." finally 3d. harder at 103s., after being offered at 102s. 10½d. Carreras had received quiet support throughout, and closed ⅛ higher at 13, with the "A" Shares 1/16 to the good at 12 11/16. Godfrey Phillips held firm at 3⅞, but Copes at 3 11/16 and R. and J. Hill at 36s. 3d. were both slightly easier.

The demand for Breweries continued. City of London were dealt in at 70s., Courage at 50s. 6d., Distillers at 56s. 6d., Hoare and Co. at 50s. 6d., and Ind Coope at 66s. 3d., and Ashby Staines Ord. at 41s. were in request; while Watney Def. changed hands up to 295, closing 2 higher at 294½. In the Stores department Waring and Gillow Ord. were in renewed evidence at 9s. 3d., and buyers for the Pref. at 15s. Foodstuffs were favoured, Liptons being in demand at 14s. 6d., and Lovell and Christmas at 1 13/16 were 1/16 better. Good support was again witnessed for Shipping descriptions, where Royal Mails changed hands up to 85, closing 2 higher at 82½. P. and O. Def. were dealt in at 255. Cunards at 17s. 9d., Furness Withy at 31s. 9d., with the Pref. bid for at 8 11/16. A fair turn-over was again recorded in home Banks, though on balance quotations were unaltered. Insurance shares maintained a firm front, with Alliance a further fraction to the good at 16⅛. Apart from Allied Ord., which rose 1s. 4½d. to 32s., there was not a great deal doing in the Newspaper department. Some of the Nitrate shares improved. Marconi Prefs. were inquired for at 1 1/16, with Canadian Marconis the turn harder at 4s. 4½d. Motor shares were quiet. Among Miscellaneous descriptions Dunlops were bid up at one time to 26s. 7½d., closing 3d. harder at 26s. 6d. James Finlays gained 6d. at 77s. 6d. on the report. An inquiry for Nobel Deferred lifted the price 3d. to 12s. 9d.

Among Manufacturing Shares, Bradford Dyers fell 1s. 6d. to 54s., and Coats Ord. 6d. to 62s. 6d.-62s. 3d. Bleachers again fetched 44s. Courtaulds were dealt in at 132s., and then hardened to 132s. 3d., while the Pref. realised 19s. 7½d. Gouldings repeated 55s. 6d., the Pref. 66s. 9d., and the Debs. 70s. for odd lots. Imperial Tobacco Shares were steady at 103s. 3d. Lever Bros. 8 per cent. Pref. improved 4½d. to 19s. 9d. Dublin Brick Ord. were sold at 6s. for an odd lot, compared with 7s. 8d. x.d. the last price.

In Trading, etc., Bagots Hutton Pref. rose 1s. to 41s., while Brooks Thomas Pref. at 14s. 9d. and Burke Ord. at 80s show no change. Oils were good. Burmah realised 128s. 1½d. Shell Transports opened unchanged at 93s. 6d., but then advanced to 94s. 9d., while the 2nd 7 per cent. Pref. realised 25s. Gresham Hotel Shares realised 6½.

MINING REPORTS.

Selukwe G.M. and Finance Company.—B.C. Silver Mines. Cablegram received dated Vancouver, 29th May, 1926—"In 10ft. easterly cross-cut from winze 352 encountered high-grade ore body, 5ft. wide, 50ft. below level No. 3. 78 is downward extension of high-grade ore body in drift No. 334. Assays later." (Office note—78 strike is in centre of the property. See plan issued with report.)

Shan States Silver Lead Corporation.—"281ft. level, S.E. winze, D cross-cut—Winze sunk 25ft. in good ore. 331ft. level—S.E. drive advance for month 21ft. in well mineralised ground. Ore raised 65 tons."

LONDON MINING MARKET BRIGHTER.

KAFFIRS IN GOOD REQUEST.

Some bright features were noticeable yesterday in the Mining market, and there were signs of an expansion of public interest in one or two directions. The Kaffir department was without the assistance of Johannesburg, the Stock Exchange there being closed, while Paris was in very uncertain mood. However, Central Mining were a very strong spot, and a persistent demand lifted the price to a substantial extent. "Johnnies" were also in good request, mainly in connection with the improved outlook for the diamond industry. Another centre of activity was provided by Sub Nigel on reports that further encouraging news had come to hand regarding developments. No official announcement was made during business hours, but some excellent values were mentioned. Nigel were sympathetically affected. Anglo-American were wanted, and Generals were a good market, while Modder "B" and Modder East responded to a fairly general buying tip. T.C.L. lost their recent buoyancy, and this brought down Transvaal "Devels," but other Platinum issues were hardly mentioned. Dealings in the Onverwacht Platinum Shares are expected to commence to-morrow. There was not a great deal doing in the Rhodesian, and Chartered, Tanks, Zams and Cam and Motor were all unaltered, while Rhodesia Congo Border suffered from profit-taking, and Shamva fell away. Bwana M'Kubwa came to the front and went ahead, and there was a little nibbling at some of the other Northern issues. Selukwe were helped by the receipt of a message reporting the discovery of high-grade ore in the centre of the B.C. property. Diamonds were easier in the morning, but braced up later, the De Beers issues closing higher on balance. Consolidated Diamonds were in good request and went ahead. Although the price of tin fell £1 8s. 9d. to £267 2s. 6d. per ton, there was quite an active business in progress in some of the Eastern Shares. Rio Tinto, in the Copper list, were unaltered, but Mount Lyell were bought from the other side and moved up. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS IN DEMAND.

Yesterday being the last day of the month, there was a good demand for money, but the pressure was not so great as had been anticipated, especially in view of the fact that there were again no Treasury bill maturities. Calls on new issues amounted to £2,500,000, against which there were dividend disbursements of about £1,250,000, while some of the joint stock banks refrained from calling in their balances. It was found necessary to borrow only a small amount from the Bank, while in the open market short loans were generally obtainable at 4¼ up to 4½ p.c., with 5 p.c. occasionally paid. Renewals went on at 4 to 4½ p.c. for a day and 4 p.c. for a week. There will be some large disbursements today, amounting to nearly £57,000,000. There was little going on in discounts, and rates were not materially altered, most houses quoting 4 9/16 to 4⅝ for both commercial and Government paper.

The Bank of England yesterday sold £15,000 of bar gold. The spot price of silver remained at 30 1/16d., but forward was 1/16d. lower at the same figure. The China banks sold, but there was a demand from the Indian Bazaars. The market price of gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per fine ounce.

French francs finished a little cheaper at slightly above 151, the same remark applying to the Belgian currency at 157, but lire were better at 128⅞, and the slight fall in pesetas shown on Saturday was made good. The exchanges of Denmark, Sweden, Greece and Roumania moved against us. Polish zloty were offered at the higher figure of 53, and Austrian schillings and Turkish piastres were cheaper. New York fell 1/16 to 4.86½. The Brazilian exchange was firm, but Argentine and Uruguayan dollars were a little cheaper. The principal Eastern exchanges were steady.

IRISH FAIRS.

NAVAN.—The Navan fair yesterday showed a little better prospect than has been the case for some time past, and farmers and dealers are beginning to feel that they have turned the corner, and that there are good times ahead. This optimistic feeling will, it is hoped, materialise. Certainly, for some time past the farming community has had some pretty bad prices in all departments, and they were beginning to feel that some change was necessary if disaster was to be averted. The fairs, as stated, show a gleam of hope. The foreign cattle are reaching England in large numbers, but, nevertheless, they cannot excel our home finished article. There was a good supply of cattle, mostly stores. Lambs were down to the extent of 5/-, as compared with last fair. The prices at yesterday's fair were:—Three-year-old stores, £20 10/- to £16. Mr. C. Casey sold some at the former price, and Mr. H. Cullen got the latter for a lot he had on the market; two-year-olds, £14 to £15 each; 1½-year-olds, £10; best beef, 52/- to 48/-; cow beef made 42/-; Mr. J. Reid got the latter figure for his animals. The top price for lambs was 55/-.

BRITISH CONTROL OF MARCONIS.

EXPLANATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

WAR SERVICES GRANT.

An extraordinary general meeting of Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company, in London, yesterday, unanimously passed a resolution altering the Articles of Association by the insertion of a provision that the company shall continue to remain under British control.

Senatore Marconi, who presided, explained that the Postmaster-General, in granting the company a licence to establish services with certain Continental countries and with all other foreign countries outside Europe, made it a condition that the company should remain under British control. The alterations in the Articles of Association proposed had been drafted in consultation with the General Post Office, and they carried out the Postmaster's intention. The directors cordially agreed with the view of the Postmaster-General that the Government should have an absolute guarantee that the company which is to conduct the wireless telegraph service between the United Kingdom and foreign countries ought to be under British control, and that an adequate safeguard should be provided that at no time should it cease to be a British controlled company. The proposed alterations would provide that at no time shall more than 25 per cent. of the issued capital of the company be in the hands or under the control of persons not of British nationality. The amended articles also provided that no person other than a British subject shall be qualified to hold office as a director or other officer of the company, or be employed in a managerial capacity, except in a foreign country, and that no person shall be employed by the company in the management or working of any of its stations in the United Kingdom or India, or any British Dominion, Colony, or Dependency who is not a natural-born British subject. These provisions do not apply to directors or officers holding office or employed by the company on December 31 last.

Mr. Burrowes Shiel (Dublin) said that the shareholders had been promised over and over again that when the Government paid the compensation for the company's services during the war the shareholders would receive something. The compensation had now matured, and he ventured to ask what was going to be done.

Mr. Kelleway said that the Government's award would be the subject of arbitration by Lord Buckmaster. Against this the Government were claiming a sum for income tax. When the money was received it would be distributed in a manner best serving the interests of the company.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the Methodist College, Belfast, held under the presidency of Professor J. A. Lindsay, M.A., M.D., very cheering reports were presented of the continued prosperity of the school. The number of pupils on the roll is 723, the highest on record. More distinctions in the public and university examinations were obtained than in any previous year. A sum of £20,000 has been expended during the last ten years in extension and improvement of the premises and equipment. The entire premises have been recently valued at £190,000. The thanks of the Board were presented to the Principal, Mr. J. W. Henderson, M.A., and the members of the staff for their services during the year. Mr. G. H. Fulton, Hon. Treasurer, was appointed to represent the Board at the ensuing Conference.

On the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton a large party of ministers and laymen met in Rockfort, Dalkey, to welcome home on furlough the Rev. R. H. Foster, B.A., D.C.M., from Madras. Mr. R. W. Booth presided, and an informing address was delivered by Mr. Foster, who afterwards answered a number of questions bearing on missionary work in India. The large number of friends present were interested to learn from Mr. Fullerton that the Rev. James Calvert, pioneer missionary to the Fiji Islands, had delivered an address in the drawingroom in which they were assembled.

The jubilee services of Carlisle Memorial Church, Belfast, were continued on Sunday, the special preacher being the Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D., a former minister of the church. There were large congregations. Altogether the jubilee services are said to have been among the best the Church has known. At the request of the trustees a delightfully written history of the Church has been prepared by Mr. Cole.

The Rev. W. L. Northridge, M.A., Ph.D., having intimated his intention to retire from the Secretaryship of the Sunday School department of the Church, the Committee for Work Amongst the Young has sent forward to the Conference the following names for the selection of his successor—the Rev. John McCaffrey (Belfast), the Rev. J. R. Wesley Roddie (Londonderry), and the Rev. R. L. M. Waugh, M.A., B.D. (Belfast).

The Rev. Alexander McLarg, M.A., B.D., will attend the forthcoming Conference in Belfast, as representing the United Church of Canada.

The Rev. Henry Howard, D.D., the well-known Australian Methodist minister, who conducted the re-opening Services of Brighton road Church, Rathgar, a year ago, has been appointed minister of Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, the church in which Dr. Jowett ministered with such success.

At a meeting of the Dublin Methodist Church Extension Committee—the Rev. J. W. R. Campbell, M.A., presiding—the Lay Treasurer, Mr. A. M. Fullerton, reported that, after existing claims on the Extension Fund had been met, a sum of approximately £400 would remain. It was decided to make a grant of £100 towards the proposed extension and improvement of the premises of the Dublin Central Mission, South Great George's street.

It was unanimously agreed to ask the forthcoming Conference (to be held in Belfast in June) to transfer the functions of the Extension Committee to the General Committee of Management, and to sanction the balance of the funds being handed over to the trustees of the Methodist Church in Ireland. Since the formation of the Church Extension Committee, 26 years ago, to deal with the sum of £8,000 allocated from the Twentieth Century Fund for church extension in the Dublin area, a considerable number of schemes for the erection or improvement of church premises has been aided from the fund, and its interest accruing thereon, with very beneficial results. The Committee at this, their final meeting, desired to place on record their appreciation of the value which the fund had been to Dublin Methodism, and also of the good services which had been rendered by the officers of the fund in its administration during the past quarter of a century.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Last Friday night the Moderator-elect of the General Assembly, the Rev. R. K. Hanna, M.A., was presented with the robes necessary for the office by the ladies of Adelaide road congregation. The gifts included the Moderator's Court suit, complete with beautiful Irish lace, and the Moderator's robes and bands. To Mrs. Hanna they presented two beautiful water-colours of Irish scenery.

Sir J. C. Percy presided at a crowded meeting. After tea, the Rev. Dr. Johnston led in prayers for the blessing of God to be bestowed on the Moderator during his arduous year of office. Mrs. Blackader and Miss Taylor made the presentation. Mr. Hanna, in returning thanks, gave an interesting account of the home of his childhood, located in the parish of Connor, where in 1859 the Revival started, and his indebtedness to godly parents; of his college days, during which he had combined a Christian life with participation in sports; and of the joy of his ministry in Whiteabbey, and especially in Adelaide road.

Mr. McConnell, for the Adelaide road congregation, and the Rev. J. L. Morrow, for the Dublin Presbytery, testified to the esteem in which Mr. Hanna is held by his people and by his brother ministers.

Mrs. Batchen and Mrs. Pringle made the presentation to Mrs. Hanna, and speeches by the chairman, the Rev. Dr. Osborne, the Rev. J. J. Macaulay, and the Rev. G. T. C. Clements combined to make a happy meeting.

On Wednesday evening the Presbytery of Dublin and the Presbyterian Catechists of Trinity College were "at home" at the Church House, 16 St. Stephen's Green, to the students of the Church now in Trinity College. Over one hundred invitations were issued. The Ladies' Committee of the Clontarf Church kindly provided the refreshment table, and Mr. Harold R. White, organist of Clontarf, with Miss Robertson and Messrs. Milne and Norman Allen, from his choir, provided, with the help of Mr. Mairs and the students themselves, a varied musical programme, which was much enjoyed.

COST OF BEET SUG

When the Immature Spirits (Restriction) Bill was presented to Dáil Eireann yesterday for second reading Major Bryan Cooper suggested that, as the object of the measure was to improve the reputation of Irish whiskey, the Government of Northern Ireland should be asked to pass similar legislation. The bill provides that whiskey must be five years old before it can be sold for consumption.

A vote of £152,000 was passed as a subsidy to the beet-sugar undertaking. The Minister for Agriculture mentioned that a supplemental vote of £30,000 would be required. There were ten thousand acres under beet.

Major Bryan Cooper moved a reduction of £16,108, the cost of the stations at Athenry and Ballyhaise, in the general vote for the Department of Agriculture. He suggested that the educational work and experimental work done at the stations should be separated.

The Minister for Agriculture defended the present arrangement, and took the opportunity to reply to certain statements that had been made concerning the work of his department. He referred particularly to statements made by the Chairman of the County Cork Committee of Agriculture.

The vote was passed.

A sum of £693,000 was voted to meet the expenses of the Land Commission. The Minister stated that there was an increase of £100,000 under the heading "Grants and Loans." There was no use in giving a man land unless he was provided with money for a house.

About 60,000 acres of land had been divided; prices had been accepted for 200,000 acres, and 80,000 acres had been priced.

RAILWAYS BILL.

LABOUR MEMBERS' FINAL PROTEST.

In Dail Eireann yesterday, Mr. P. McGilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, moved the final stage of the Railways (Existing Officers and Servants) Bill.

Mr. W. Davin (Labour) said that he could not allow the bill to pass without registering a personal protest against a measure that was reactionary and confiscatory. It was a bad bill, because it was retrospective, and because it confiscated the rights of railway servants who had been found to be redundant. Several amendments had been proposed which would have made the bill less unacceptable, but they were refused by the Minister. One of those amendments would have made it possible to pay pensions at the same periods as the redundant employés had received their wages or salaries. It was turned down by the Minister apparently for no other reason than that the railway company might have the use of the money for a year to their own advantage.

THE MEN'S CLAIM.

He wanted it to be clearly understood that the railwaymen did not claim anything more than had been granted to them by the Act of the Oireachtas. Compensation had been granted to redundant Local Government officials and to civil servants who refused to serve the Free State, but in neither case had there been any attempt to repeal the law, so as to curtail the rights secured by those people. The only repealing bill was one to take away the rights granted by law to the railwaymen. The reading of the debates on the bill showed that the Minister himself did not understand some of the issues that it raised. He hoped that when the other House came to consider those issues they would turn down the bill.

When the arbitrator under the original Act resigned, no one had been appointed in his place. He took it that the failure to make an appointment was due to the Government, who did not want to prejudice by decisions their intended amending legislation.

Mr. McGilligan said that the Government had nothing at all to do with the appointment.

The Speaker said that the arbitrator was appointed by the Chief Justice, and he reminded Deputy Davin that it was a serious thing to insinuate that it was because of Government policy that the appointment had not been made.

DANGEROUS STATEMENT.

President Cosgrave said that the Government had not directly or indirectly approached any member of the judiciary in connection with the matter. He did not know if the Deputy recognised the danger of his statement that the judiciary might be subject to political influence.

Mr. Davin said that if there was anything unfair or unjust in his statement he would withdraw it unreservedly.

In the course of further discussion the matter was cleared up, when Mr. McGilligan stated that it was not until the beginning of May that the arbitrator resigned.

Mr. Johnson associated himself with the protest against the bill, which, in effect, he said, deprived railway servants of their rights under the last Act. Referring to delay in the conclusion of certain compensation cases, he said that but for that delay many servants who were now to be affected by the bill would have had their claims decided under the existing statute.

Mr. McGilligan said that he found by clear statements by people who had spoken definitely against retrospection that the clause now embodied in the bill met with their approval, and was what they meant when they spoke on second reading. With regard to the arbitrator, he had never suggested, nor until Mr. Davin made his remarks, had he heard anybody suggest that that arbitrator had not discharged his functions as the terms of the original Third Schedule required.

He scouted the suggestion that because he had information as to judgments and cases that could be obtained from the Registrar of the Court there was evidence of his connection with the railway company. He pointed out also that the Third Schedule which the bill was to amend had nothing to do with the higher officials alluded to by Mr. Davin. With regard to delay, there would have to be a great deal more evidence before there could be any acceptance in the Dail of what Deputy Johnson wanted to imply—that there had been cases where the railway company deliberately held up the cases.

On the division 28 voted for and 9 against the passing of the bill, which was then ordered for transmission to the Senate.

IMMATURE SPIRITS.

SUGGESTED ARRANGEMENT WITH THE NORTH.

Mr. Blythe, Minister for Finance, moved the second reading of the Immature Spirits (Restriction) Bill, which was intended, he said, to amend the Act of 1915 by substituting a period of at least five years for the three years stated there. For the future, after the passing of the bill, and subject to the exceptions which he detailed, no spirits that had not been warehoused for at least five years could be delivered out of bond for use as beverage. At present the greater quantity of spirits taken out of bond had been warehoused for five years, but 15 to 20 per cent., chiefly whiskey, had not been under bond for so long.

It was felt that potable whiskey ought not to go into consumption under five years. Many persons thought that the period ought to be greater, but, in view of the cessation of distilling during the war, it would not be possible at present to compel the maturing of whiskey for longer than five years. IMMATURE SPIRITS.

SUGGESTED ARRANGEMENT WITH THE NORTH.

Mr. Blythe, Minister for Finance, moved the second reading of the Immature Spirits (Restriction) Bill, which was intended, he said, to amend the Act of 1915 by substituting a period of at least five years for the three years stated there. For the future, after the passing of the bill, and subject to the exceptions which he detailed, no spirits that had not been warehoused for at least five years could be delivered out of bond for use as beverage. At present the greater quantity of spirits taken out of bond had been warehoused for five years, but 15 to 20 per cent., chiefly whiskey, had not been under bond for so long.

It was felt that potable whiskey ought not to go into consumption under five years. Many persons thought that the period ought to be greater, but, in view of the cessation of distilling during the war, it would not be possible at present to compel the maturing of whiskey for longer than five years. A further increase of the period was a matter that might be considered after some years.

So far as they could do so by legislation they must see that the reputation of Irish whiskey for quality and character was maintained. The competing whiskey was made in the main by a cheaper process: it was a blended whiskey, consisting mostly of patent spirit. The Irish whiskey trade could not compete on the mere basis of price. If it was to compete in the future it must do so on the basis of quality. Just as they had certain provisions on the Statute Book to see that Irish butter and eggs were up to a certain quality, it seemed to be proper and desirable that corresponding steps should be insisted on with regard to Irish whiskey, at any rate so far as consumption in the Free State was concerned.

ALL IRELAND.

Major Bryan Cooper said that the great obstacle to the desire to increase the reputation of Irish whiskey by a measure of that kind was the fact that all Irish whiskey was not made in the Free State. Unless a similar measure were passed in Northern Ireland they would not enhance the reputation of Irish whiskey. The customer abroad asked for Irish whiskey, and did not know whether it came from the Free State or from Northern Ireland. That was one of the things that might have been contemplated in the negotiations in connection with the London Agreement of last December for common action. He urged the Minister to get in touch with the responsible authorities in Northern Ireland as soon as possible, in order to persuade them to take a similar step.

President Cosgrave asked whether the deputy was aware that pot-still whiskey was manufactured in Northern Ireland.

Major Cooper—The deputy is not aware.

The Minister for Finance said that the question of taking direct action towards increasing the reputation of Irish whiskey outside was a bigger one, and would have to be thought over a good deal. What they felt they could do at the moment was to increase its reputation at home. He did not know whether anything could be done in regard to Northern Ireland. Certainly, the greater quantity of whiskey produced in Northern Ireland was patent still whiskey, which, if it improved at all by maturing, did not improve to the same extent as pot-still whiskey.

Major Cooper asked whether patent still whiskey from Northern Ireland could not be brought to the Free State and sold cheaper than pot-still whiskey made in the Free State.

The Minister replied that, at any rate, it would have to be kept for the period of five years, during the greater part of which it would not be improving.

The second reading was agreed to, and the Committee stage was fixed for Friday.

BEET SUGAR PROJECT.

SUBSIDY OF £152,000.

When the debate on the Estimate for the Ministry of Lands and Agriculture was about to be resumed there were only three deputies on the Farmers' benches—Messrs. Heffernan, Conlan and Vaughan.

Mr. Heffernan requested that the debate should be postponed. One of the members of his party who intended to speak was absent owing to a bereavement in his family. Other deputies were absent owing to other difficulties.

Mr. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, agreed to defer the main estimate till later, and to take first the vote for sugar beet.

Mr. Blythe moved that a sum of £152,000 be granted to pay the subsidy in respect of beet sugar.

Mr. Hogan said that the vote provided for a subsidy of 24s. 6d. per cwt. on sugar manufactured, and it was expected that it would provide the whole subsidy, with the exception of £30,000, which would be asked for in a supplementary vote. The Sugar Company expected to get between 9,000 and 10,000 acres of beet this year. Originally it was expected that not more than 7,000 acres would be grown in the first year. After some time it became evident that a larger acreage could be obtained, and it was decided that it would be bad policy to discourage anybody from growing beet in the first year. Consequently all contracts were accepted.

SUPPLY OF SEED.

Special arrangements had been made for the supply of seed to growers direct, and the sugar manufacturing company would also supply seed through retailers. The manufacturers would also supply manures and fertilisers to farmers at £3 5s. per ton. As a result of experiments carried out in thirty-five centres in different counties last year with four classes of seed, it was found that two classes of seed were particularly suitable, and arrangements were made to supply to the growers all over the country the particular seeds that did best in the experiments.

The experiments would be continued next year and the year after to get all the information possible, but gradually they would be less necessary. The results of the experiments would be published in pamphlet form in the course of a few weeks

The experiment in sugar beet growing was, therefore, beginning under excellent auspices. The growers had all the advantages of last year's experiments. Growers were not in the position of knowing nothing about sugar beet, and the factory itself would be the most efficient and up-to-date factory in Great Britain or Ireland.

Mr. Conlon (Farmers) said that the fact that 9,000 to 10,000 acres had been cultivated with beet showed that the farmers were not slow in adapting themselves to changes. He took it that the factory would be run on the best lines, and would be a success if certain conditions obtaining at present with regard to prices of sugar were forthcoming. He asked the Minister to consider the desirability of having an analytical chemist acting for the farmers—not that he suggested that the company would set itself out to be unfair to the farmers, but his suggestion, if acted upon, would give the farmer greater confidence.

FREIGHTS.

Mr. Heffernan (Farmers) asked for information in regard to freights, and whether the present arrangements for reduced rates was permanent. The farmers, he said, would require an assurance that freights would not be raised later on. He thought that the subsidy would have to be continued for ten years, because he did not see how sugar manufacture could be an economical proposition, in view of over-production that had taken place. He was not keen on subsidies, except in regard to an experiment and starting new ideas among the farming community. He hoped that the industry would be the success that its promoters claimed.

Mr. J. Good said that he would like information about the Government's policy. Was the factory to be experimental? Would the Government encourage others to embark in the industry at this stage?

Mr. Hogan said that in reference to the points raised by Deputy Conlon it was a matter for the farmers to see that samples for examination were fair samples of the crop and of average sugar contents. There was no necessity for a chemist to represent the farmers. In regard to freights, the railway company and the sugar company had agreed to a rate, between 60 and 70 miles, of one penny per ton. That was a reasonable arrangement.

He hoped that the experiment would be a success, but he would not be so pessimistic about the hope as Deputy Heffernan was. They could never get anywhere if they never made an experiment, unless they were absolutely certain of its success. That was the line that Deputy Heffernan took about experiments. There was no use in mobilising all the excellent qualities of wisdom and caution in connection with an experiment. He could only hope that the results would show that Deputy Heffernan was wrong in his pessimism.

The experiment was begun to show, first, what sort of beet could be grown; secondly, to see whether the farmers would grow it at all; and, thirdly, to see if foreign capital could be induced to come into the industry and provide the factory. They had passed the experimental stage, as far as the second and third reasons were concerned, but it would take three or four, or five years to ascertain what sort of beet could be grown with the best advantage. He took it that even after the experiment was over it would be necessary to continue some subsidy. It was not generally known that the subsidy to their beet-growers was less than that at present paid in England, where they had been growing beet under subsidy since 1912. For the first three years in the Free State the subsidy is 24s. 6d. per cwt., while that in England is 26s. 9d.

The vote was passed.

AGRICULTURAL STATIONS.

REDUCTION IN THE VOTE PROPOSED.

The debate on the general vote for agriculture was resumed.

Mr. O. G. Esmonde said that it was a matter of amazement to him that on the one day when the agricultural estimates were under discussion there should be such an extraordinary absence of farmer deputies, including the whole front bench.

Major Bryan Cooper moved to reduce the vote by £16,108, the estimated cost of the agricultural stations at Athenry and Ballyhaise. They were, he said, travelling in the bad old rut of ruining those stations in a way that entailed a substantial call on the taxpayers. In 1925 those two stations cost £18,063, and 19 pupils were educated there.

Mr. Hogan interrupted to say that the Deputy must know that the stations were not entirely educational, and that experimental work was carried on at them.

Major Cooper said that when he raised the matter before the Minister mentioned Glasnevin and Clonakilty as places where experiments were carried out. In Ballyhaise and Athenry the average cost per pupil was £950 a year, in Glesnevin £219, and in Clonakilty £323. It cost the country £950 a year to train a farmer, whereas the cost of training for the highly technical professions of the British Navy and of the British Air Force was £300 and £500 a year.

CO-ORDINATION.

The Minister had put it forward in defence of their cost that those stations carried out experimental work and that they bred high-class bulls and boars for distribution to farmers. Experimental work ought to be co-ordinated in a single centre like Glasnevin, where they were carrying on invaluable work. Neither had he anything to say against Clonakilty. It was altogether wrong to mix up experimental and educational work. Boys went to Ballyhaise and Athenry with little education, and in very few instances could they discriminate between what it was that they were required to learn and what was only an experiment. It was, therefore, a very dangerous thing to mix up experiment and education.

He wondered whether they were justified in using public funds to supply breeding stock at half the market price. He would like to know by what system farmers were selected to get the bulls and boars. He believed in a model farm in every county, run so as not to be any charge on the taxpayers. A farm to teach farmers what they should do on their own farms would be no good if it did not pay its way. The great fault of their system of agricultural education, so far, was that it left out the questions of profit and marketing.

Mr. Heffernan said that the two stations as they stood did not justify themselves, but he could not support the amendment. He asked the Minister for information as to why the number of pupils had fallen so much.

Mr. Roddy said that the experimental work carried on at Athenry was most important. As a result of experiments there it had been demonstrated that it was possible to feed pigs more economically on dry food than on boiled food, and a number of farmers had taken to dry feeding of their pigs. It was to be remembered also that many county committees of agriculture organised parties to visit the stations annually.

MIXED FACTS.

The Minister said that Deputy Cooper had mixed his facts, and he had not taken appropriations in aid into account. Deducting £8,000 appropriations in aid, they had £10,000 as the cost to the State of education, experimental work, and breeding of live stock for resale at a loss. It was said that the cost of education was £950 per pupil. That was the sort of thing that people remembered—he would hear the changes being rung on it through the country for the next three months—and he thought that it was an unfair statement. It was quite impossible to disentangle the three parts of the work; but if he were to take the same line as the Deputy and use the figures to support debating points, he could show that the average cost was about £30 per pupil.

In the course of detailed explanation of the work carried on at the colleges, the Minister announced that it was intended to make Ballyhaise a girls' school of the same kind as the Munster Institute. For a long time past the Munster Institute had been kept filled, and there was a waiting list of 200. The delay in making the change at Ballyhaise was due to the fact that the water supply at Athenry went wrong, and the pupils had been transferred to Ballyhaise while the matter was being set right. As regards the colleges generally, the number of pupils was on the increase and the colleges were almost full.

The bulk of the experiments were not done primarily for the pupils. It was useful for the students to see the experiments going on, but the experiments were done for other purposes. The results were published in leaflets, which were printed and circulated in thousands.

GOOD BUSINESS.

Dealing with Deputy Cooper's criticism of subsidising small farmers for live stock breeding, Mr. Hogan said that he regarded the subsidy as absolutely good business and essential. If they did not continue the policy, in the congested districts particularly, the stock would deteriorate. That was not a new policy, but was a continuation of what they had been doing for generations. As a result they had the best stock, from the point of view of quality, in the world, and he had not the slightest hesitation in saying that but for the schemes they would have been driven out of the British market long ago.

How many, he asked, of the 1,300 people who got premium animals would come up to buy them if they were not subsidised? Their live stock schemes cost £70,000, and no money was better spent. If it was £140,000 it could not be better spent even if they were three times as poor as the most pessimistic would lead them to believe they were. When they considered what had been done by the constant introduction and spread through the country of first-class breeding stock during the last fifteen years, and how little it had cost, he marvelled that Deputies did not get up and press that the estimate should be, not for £50,000 or £60,000, but for £100,000.

His aim was to extend that side and to introduce high-class stock of bulls, boars and sheep into the country. They would then have stock that they would not be ashamed to market anywhere.

COST OF PUPILS.

The pupils in the colleges did not cost more than £30 each, and he said that their numbers were increasing.

Mr. P. McKenna said that he thought that the money spent in the colleges was very usefully expended. Everybody could see the improvement in the quality of livestock. It was certainly due to the work of the Department and of the colleges. He was pleased to hear that Ballyhaise was to be opened for girls, but was sorry that the boys were not taking more advantage of the other schools.

In reply to Mr. Conlon, the Minister said that the Chantilly Stud Farm was merely a clearing station, where the animals were kept for a certain time to see that they were free from disease before being distributed through the country.

Mr. Dalton urged that the Department should set up one or two demonstration farms in every county.

A STINGING REPLY.

Mr. Hogan said that Deputy Roddy had reminded him of a statement made by the Chairman of the Cork County Committee of Agriculture. That statement was to the effect that there were 22 teachers in Clonakilty, and that some officer there was getting £1,200 a year and another a pension of £900 a year. That statement was untrue, and it was not the first of the kind that that gentleman had made. The fact was that there were three teachers and 26 pupils at Clonakilty. No officer of the Department of Agriculture, except the Secretary, had a salary of £1,200 a year, not to speak of a pension of £900 a year.

"On Friday last," said Mr. Hogan, "when I was introducing the Estimate I referred to the good farmers as being unorganised, and I pointed out that every mountebank with a bee in his bonnet who claimed to be the spokesman of the farmers got away with it. Here is Cork County, one of the best farming counties in Ireland, and in it some of the best farms in the country. And who is the Chairman of the County Committee of Agriculture? Mr. D. L. O'Gorman, a man who comes strictly within the term of the mountebank class, with a bee in his bonnet—a man who grows the largest crop of thistles between here and where he comes from."

A PROTEST.

Mr. Heffernan—I protest. Mr. O'Gorman, whatever his capacity, was elected Chairman of the County Council, and he is now elected Chairman of the County Committee of Agriculture. Is it fair for the Minister to attack Mr. O'Gorman here under the privilege of the House? Let him come out and do it where Mr. O'Gorman can attack him.

Mr. Hogan said that he had something else to do than go out pursuing Mr. O'Gorman. He was perfectly entitled to make the statement. They were suffering from a minority of disgruntled individuals with bees in their bonnets, and, because of the fact that the farmers were unorganised, every mountebank became a spokesman of farmers, and got away with it.

Mr. Hogan went on to say that Mr. O'Gorman was a farmer, whose bull was rejected under the Live Stock Act.

Mr. Heffernan said that the Dail was not the place for attacks on men who could not reply to them.

Mr. Hogan said that the reason for the protests of the deputy was that the charges were true. He could not understand why it was that people should be free to make untrue statements all over the country, and that it should be bad taste for Ministers to state the truth in reply. Deputy Heffernan made no protest when Mr. O'Gorman made his untrue statements about the Department and its officials, but he was loud in his protests about bad taste when they were answered. Mr. O'Gorman's policy was to abolish the bonus paid to the instructors, who worked from early morning to late at night for salaries of £150, rising to £350 after 25 years. Those men had to go through four years' training in the College of Science.

A CHALLENGE.

Mr. Heffernan began to explain at some length that he did not stand for all the statements made by Mr. O'Gorman, when Mr. Hogan asked him to shorten the matter by denying any one of the statements that he (Mr. Hogan) had made. "Will the deputy deny any one of them?"

Mr. Heffernan—No. (Laughter.) He went on to say that Mr. O'Gorman's statements were made outside the Dail, and the Minister should challenge them in a place where his statements were not protected from an action. (Loud laughter.)

Major Cooper said that his attention was drawn to Mr. O'Gorman two years ago when he learnt that every time he made a speech Mr. O'Gorman repeated it soon afterwards. (Laughter.) It was probably those speeches that got Mr. O'Gorman into the public positions held by him in Cork. (Laughter.) He went on to complain that the form in which the estimates was presented was not sufficiently informative. They had, he said, got from the Minister's statement that afternoon a great deal of information which was new to every Deputy in the House.

The amendment was negatived.

FLAX GROWING.

Sir James Craig asked for some information on the subject of the vote for £3,444 for the improvement of flax-growing. Were the instructors employed in the colleges, or did they go round the country? Was there any practical result from the expenditure.

Mr. Hogan said that there were six or seven instructors employed, chiefly in the three Northern counties; but the work was carried out in some other counties, chiefly Cork and Waterford. Flax was one of the crops in which there had been a decline in acreage.

On the item of £18,940 for improvement in milk-production, Mr. Heffernan asked for an increase in the grants to cow-testing associations.

The Minister said that the State gave 4s. for every 3s. put up by the farmer himself for cow-testing. It was an extraordinary thing in this country that in order to induce farmers to do something directly for their own profit the Government had to give a subsidy—"and look," he said, "at the size of the subsidy." He would like to see the supervisors better paid, but the people who were to blame for not giving them more money were the farmers. It was a matter of getting a larger number of farmers to join the associations.

Answering questions concerning the item of £10,000 (compared with £4,000 last year) for grant-in-aid of the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society, the Minister said that the operations on which the grants were expended were not supervised by the Department, but there was control in the sense that it was open to the Department to consider the whole case.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Replying to Mr. MacCurtain, the Minister said that for the twenty weeks—January to May of this year—in the London market Irish eggs were in the position of top quotation for 17 weeks. On the other three occasions they were second. In Manchester they were at the top except on four occasions. The best testimony was shown by the return of the London Egg Exchange, which during the recent strike period fixed the price of Irish eggs immediately after the English new-laid and above all others.

Dr. Hennessy drew attention to the delay in the appointment of a bacteriologist under the Dairies (Produce) Act. He said that if a bacteriologist had been appointed during the eighteen months since the passing of the Act the Government would have got about £5,000 in fees. At present there was an advertisement for a bacteriologist, but the salary was such that they would get no man worth the name to accept the position. The salary was from £300 to £400 and the applicant must be a Bachelor of Science, with a medical degree and a knowledge of veterinary practice. Other conditions were that the bacteriologist must be 35 years of age.

If a lady were appointed the salary would be reduced to £200, although she had to pay as much as a man in order to qualify and she had to do the same work as a man. If a bachelor were appointed the salary would be further reduced. The conditions were such that he believed that no first, second or third-class man could apply. It all came from the interference of an official of the Department of Finance who fixed these scales in such a way that it was becoming a public danger, especially where professional work was concerned.

CAUSE OF DELAY.

Mr. Hogan said that the delay in making the appointment was due to the delay in getting the other portions of the Act into operation. He agreed with Dr. Hennessy that a bacteriologist, if appointed, could do very useful work, especially in connection with the creameries. But in this matter they were in a dilemma.

They were expected to tackle the big task of placing Irish butter at the top of the market in competition with such countries as Denmark, where they paid for their scientists and spared no expense, and were undoubtedly quite right in adopting that attitude. Money saved in this connection might prove the very worst economy. He was afraid that he must leave the matter between the Deputy and the Minister for Finance.

BLACK SCAB.

On the sub-head dealing with the Destructive Insects and Pests Acts and the Black Scab in Potatoes Orders,

Mr. Johnson moved a reduction of £10 in the vote for the purpose of calling the attention of Ministers to the condition of the potato growers in the North Louth area, who were unable to dispose of their produce because of the prevalence of black scab.

Mr. Hogan, in reply, said that the case of the Louth potato growers was a hard one, and they had tried many means to relieve it. They had examined whether the potatoes could be used for the Army or other institutions, but were forced to the conclusion that the danger from the refuse was too great to adopt that measure of relief. Black scab was very widespread all over the Northern area, but, so far, it had been confined to portions of Louth and Donegal in the Free State area, and it was absolutely necessary that every precaution should be taken to keep it under control.

Even from the soil attached to the potato the infection could be carried into other land. In the Cooley district they had induced the people to grow new varieties, to grow beet, for which they were assured a good price, and they had set up a credit society. Last year's crop had been all cleared, except in the Bellurgan district, and the people there could have cleared them also but for their attitude—they would not sell except at what they considered a good price.

Mr. White (Farmers) complimented the Minister on the comprehensive and optimistic statement made by him in the Dail on Friday last.

Mr. Johnson withdrew his amendment.

WEEDS AND SEEDS.

Mr. Hall (Labour) drew attention to the item of £850 for the salaries and expenses of inspectors under the Weeds and Seeds Act. He stated that the Act was useless in the counties where it had been adopted. In his own County of Meath for many years an inspector had not been seen in parts of the county, because one man could not cover his whole area during the period for weed destruction. The present system was not fair to the good farmer, who destroyed the weeds in the natural course of his farming, while his neighbour across the fence allowed the seeds of the weeds to scatter. He suggested some sort of new legislation to make the Act effective.

Mr. John Conlan said that the Act should be administered properly, or dropped altogether.

The Minister said that he was discussing with the Minister for Justice the possibility of having the administration of the Act handed over to the Garda Siochana.

Mr. Doyle (Farmers') said that the Wexford County Council would not adopt the Act, which only increased the cost to the ratepayers.

On the grant of £3,600 for the faculty of dairy science for University College, Cork, Mr. John White suggested that a scheme should be worked out whereby the larger proportion of county council scholarships should go to the sons and daughters of farmers, to enable them to pursue a university course in dairy science and agriculture.

Mr. Hogan said that it was for the county councils to recast their schemes.

The vote, as a whole, was then agreed to.

LAND PURCHASE.

WORK OF THE COMMISSION.

Mr. Blythe moved the grant of a sum sufficient, with the sum voted on account, to fulfil the estimate of £693,600 for the salaries and expenses of the offices of the Land Commission.

Mr. Hogan explained that only one item was increased, and the increase was one of £100,000 for grants and loans. It was no use, he said, to hand over land to a congest or a "landless" man without giving him a house and helping him to stock and equip the farm. Operations under the 1923 Act were more expensive than those under previous Acts, and it had become necessary to give a larger proportion of grants as against loans. The rate at which land could be divided was increasing, as the preliminary work that had occupied the first year or two was being put over them. About 60,000 acres had been divided; there were 80,000 acres "priced," and between 150,000 and 200,000 for which prices had been accepted. A very large amount of land had thus reached the point where there were only a few steps to division.

Mr. Heffernan said that he was sorry that the Minister had not stated the acreage vested in tenants under the Act of 1923. There was a good deal of dissatisfaction in the country at the slowness of the Land Commission in completing land purchase under the Act.

Mr. Davin said that cases had been brought to his notice where people put in possession were not the most suitable, and certainly not the most desirable. He asked the Minister to state what proportion of the 60,000 acres actually divided was land of which the owners had refused originally to accept the offer of the Land Commission on the grounds of price, and in how many of these cases were the offers brought before the Judicial Commissioner. He said that in his county every obstacle had been placed in the way of the Land Commission by the landlords.

NOTHING DONE IN NORTH-WEST.

Mr. White said that nothing had been done in North-West Donegal, and that on the Leitrim estate an official of the Land Commission had not been seen since the passing of the Act of 1923. He said that on the Leitrim estate the tenants were being "persecuted just as bad as 50 years ago, before the other old fellow was shot." He read a notice which, he said, had been published, forbidding the tenants to cut turf or collect seaweed without the permission of Lord Leitrim, under penalty of prosecution. "I advised the people," said the deputy, "to take the seaweed on their own land. I did not tell them what to do with the bailiff when he came to protest."

His information was that no untenanted land in Donegal had been acquired since the passing of the Act of 1923. There was a considerable number of landlords in the county who had not returned their untenanted land, and there had been sales of untenanted land to evade the Act. So far as his information went, the landlord influence was still strong with the Land Commission.

COLLECTION OF ANNUITIES.

Mr. White proceeded to speak of the amount of costs put upon tenants through the action of the State Solicitor in suing for annuities, when the Minister for Agriculture interrupted to say that he was not responsible for the actions of the State Solicitor.

The Speaker—That settles the question under this vote, because the Minister cannot be made responsible for the actions of the State Solicitor.

Mr. White—It is a very technical point, which could only be raised by one who is a solicitor himself. I maintain that I am perfectly within my rights in raising the question.

The Speaker—Let us hear the question.

Mr. White—It is about the State Solicitor of the county, acting for the Land Commission.

The Speaker—What kind of acting?

Mr. White—Discharging all the legal business assigned to him by the Land Commission office. Here is one process issued by him for hearing at the Court in Letterkenny on Sunday, the 29th February, 1926. (Laughter.)

Continuing, he said that one poor man had been put to £2 1s. 11d. costs for the recovery of annuities amounting to 12s. 4d.

The Minister asked if the amount included the costs of the Sheriff's seizure.

Mr. White—There was no seizure, but the man had to pay 25s. costs to a gallant and distinguished soldier who was the supernumerary Sub-Sheriff. The costs incurred in the collection of annuities in Donegal would be a disgrace to a country auctioneer's office. People have been asked to pay twice over. It was alleged that I prevented them from paying. I never did anything of the sort, but I prevented them from paying twice.

THE "NIMBLE" MINISTER.

Mr. Blythe—Had you much trouble? (Laughter.)

Mr. White—I must say that the Minister for Agriculture is the nimblest rogue of you all, and will get the better, right or wrong.

Mr. Nally stated that nothing at all had been done for the congests in Mayo, of whom there were over 5,000, with valuation under £5. He asked the Minister to say whether one congest had been migrated under the 1923 Act, which, as far as Mayo was concerned, was a disgrace to the country.

Mr. Morrissey asked the Minister to make it clear that it was not necessary to have capital to get a division of land, and also that tenants of labourers' cottages were not excluded from receiving portion of divided land. He referred to a statement by Deputy Heffernan as to what sort of land should, and what sort should not, be divided, and said that the deputy probably had in mind a particular ranch in his constituency, the owner of which held 600 acres at his residence and another 600 acres at a distance where there were a number of people with not enough land to grow a head of cabbage. There was no justification for leaving 1,200 acres with that man.

Mr. Heffernan said that he had not in view that particular ranch, in connection with which there were many facts other than the statements made by some leading public men.

GREAT DIFFICULTIES.

Mr. McKenna (Farmers) said that he had no complaint to make about the work done by the Land Commission in his constituency of Longford and Westmeath. Progress, of course, had not been as rapid as people had expected, but anyone of knowledge knew that in many cases the Land Commission had great difficulties to contend with before they could divide the land. He asked the Minister to consider the cases of those who bought untenanted land through the National Land Bank, and of those who bought in the same way through loans from the joint stock banks. The Greville Nugent estate near Delvin had been bought by the latter means and apportioned to 32 people, but the two men who bought it were still responsible to a bank for £11,000 raised for the purpose.

In his opinion the present system of allocation of land by the inspectors was much more satisfactory than under the old Land Commission. He recognised the claims of the congests of the West and would be the first to try to relieve them, but he also had to recognise that there would be another civil war if migrants were brought into the Midlands before the claims of the local people for land had been satisfied.

Mr. P. O'Maille represented that more could be done in land distribution in Connemara; Mr. Roddy made suggestions as to changes in procedure that would lead to greater expedition; and Mr. M. Doyle urged that greater consideration should be given to the cases of evicted tenants and their representatives.

The discussion was adjourned till to-day.

The Dail adjourned till 3 o'clock to-day.

RETIREMENT OF MR. G. E. SMYTH.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS' RAILWAY SERVICE.

After a service of over 45 years at Kingsbridge terminus, Mr. George Edward Smyth, O.B.E., Assistant General Manager of the Great Southern Railways Company, to-day severs his connection with the Company.

Mr. Smyth will be widely remembered as Superintendent of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company, a position in which he was brought into personal contact with the travelling public. Later as Traffic Manager of the same Company his responsibility extended to the trading and commercial community.

Mr. Smyth's knowledge and great experience of the major railway lines in the new grouped system were of immense use in the preparation, and later in the working, of the Amalgamated Company, in which he held the responsible position of assistant general manager. He also acted for several years as Chairman of the Irish Railways' Traffic Officers' Conference, and as representative of the principal Irish railway, was a prominent member of the joint British and Irish Conference. Although he has retired, Mr. Smyth will continue to act as a member of the Irish Committee of the Railway Benevolent Fund Association.

Forty-five years of such arduous and untiring service as Mr. Smyth has just completed would suggest the possession of a physique of more than the average, so that it is hard to realise that it was really because of a breakdown in his health that Mr. Smyth took to the railway service. Too close application to study changed the promise of a literary career to a commercial one. An elder brother, the Rev. Dr. Paterson Smyth, is now Archdeacon of Montreal, from which office, by a coincidence, he also is about to retire, while his younger brother succeeded in becoming a chief officer of the Amalgamated State Railways of South Africa.

HOW THE RAILWAY HAS GROWN.

Finding it desirable for health sake to adopt a commercial career, Mr. Smyth was nominated at the same time for a clerkship in the Bank of Ireland and in the Great Southern and Western Railway. He took the latter examination and passed into a position in the chief office of the company at Kingsbridge. He acted as chief clerk to the goods manager, and subsequently was chief assistant to the company's first general manager. Later he passed from one stage to another to the responsible posts already mentioned.

Mr. Smyth devotes much of his spare time to activities connected with the Church of Ireland. He has filled most positions open to laymen, from Vestryman to Synodsman. He was a member of the Church Reform Association, and took an active part in advocating a stipend for clergy commensurate with the increased cost of living. He was specially interested in Men's Societies, Literary and Debating Clubs, and also acted on Missionary Boards.

FARMERS' OPPOSITION TO PROTECTION.

THE BURDEN OF TAXATION.

The need for reducing taxation was stressed at a meeting of the County Monaghan farmers, held in Ballybay last Saturday. The meeting was called to form a county executive of the Ratepayers' Protection Association.

Mr. Nyham, national teacher, said that farming was going from bad to worse. The Canadians were sending more and more cattle into England. Canada was coming into the English market as a big opponent, and it was up to the farmers to take heed of that matter.

Mr. Conlon, Co.C., Carrickmacross, said that he was glad to see all classes and creeds rallying to the Ratepayers' Association. In South Monaghan, at the last County Council elections, the Association returned few members, pledged to vote for a reduction of rates and against all increases in salaries. They wanted pledge-bound members all over the country. While they wanted a reduction in taxation, it was still more necessary to effect economy in Government circles from the Governor-General down. What good, he asked, was a Foreign Affairs Ministry to the people? England was their only market, and was likely to remain their only market for cattle and the other main products of the country.

Mr. McClean, Co.C., spoke in favour of long-term loans for farmers

Mr. Rountree, M.A., was satisfied that the Government was doing all they could for the country. He opposed a protection policy.

COUNTY LONGFORD FARMERS.

At a meeting of farmers at Ballymacormack, Co. Longford, a resolution was unanimously passed protesting against the refusal of the Government to reduce expenditure.

Mr. James Farrell said that the farmers of the Free State would, he was afraid, continue to carry an overburden of taxation until they elected their own representatives to the Dail.

At the same meeting it was stated that Longford Agricultural Committee had appointed delegates to attend an Agricultural Congress in Dublin this month, and the question was asked whether the Committee gave those delegates a mandate for or against a protection policy, as the matter would be discussed there.

Mr. John Belton, Co.C., said that the Committee had not given them any specific instructions on the question. Personally he was against protection, as he believed it increased cost on the agricultural producer.

He proposed a resolution, which was unanimously carried, calling on the Longford Agricultural Committee to give specific instructions to the delegates not to vote in favour of a policy of protection, as it invariably increases the cost of production, and so constitutes a handicap on the farmer.

KERRYMAN DROWNED IN LONDON.

FALL FROM SHIP'S RAIL.

Just after midnight on Friday a splash was heard from the direction of the ss. Mungret, belonging to the Limerick Steamship Company, lying at Free Trade Wharf, Limehouse, London. A boat was rowed to the spot and grappling irons thrown out, but no trace of anyone could be found.

Later it was ascertained that Maurice Reynolds (23), of Tarbert Island, County Kerry, a seaman, who formed one of the crew, was missing. The next morning his body was recovered near the steamer. The inquest was held at Stepney yesterday afternoon, when a verdict of "Accidental death" was recorded.

The theory advanced for the accident was that when standing near the ship's rail Reynolds overbalanced himself and fell into the water and was drowned.

SAVING THE LIVES OF THE YOUNG.

DUBLIN SOCIETY'S GOOD WORK.

The record of the Dublin Infant Aid Society, as disclosed in the report which was read at last night's meeting in the Engineers' Hall, Dawson street, showed that during last year 201,356 pint bottles of milk were given out free, that 47,478 bottles were sold at a reduced price, and that 1,230 garments, 1,680 pounds of Glaxo, 6,175 free dinner tickets, 116 bags of coal, and a large number of parcels of food and other necessities were distributed.

In addition, the 125 voluntary visitors paid 23,631 visits during the past fifteen months. Mr. Laurence O'Neill presided at the meeting, and Miss Nagle read the report. The Committee can only deal with one-third of the cases recommended for relief, and invite all who can subscribe to do so.

THE NEED FOR THE SOCIETY.

Senator Barniville moved the adoption of the report, saying that the necessity for a Society like the Infant Aid Society was a standing and a shameful criticism of our modern social system. It was a terrible thing that there was such a need for help in saving infant life from starvation or from a weakly and ineffective and hopeless existence. Care is bestowed on other animal life, using the word animal in a general sense; our cattle and racehorses in the first year of their life get every care. On the other hand, our human offspring are allowed to be born into circumstances in the first few years of their life that would disgrace even animals.

Dr. E. P. McLoughlin seconded the adoption of the report, which, he said, was an admirable one, in showing the extent and nature of the working of the Society. Two-thirds of the applications on behalf of dying children had still to be turned down, and one item on the treasurer's report should be altered—the amount of general subscriptions was only £101 10s. 6d., and some of that money did not come from Dublin subscribers. It seemed as if there was enough service available and that money was the only thing required.

LIVES SAVED.

Mr. E. P. McCarron moved a resolution, that the Infant Aid Society is worthy of support (in the absence of the Minister for Local Government, Mr. Burke, who was unable to attend). It was gratifying, he said, to find that the mortality in infants under twelve had fallen by about 20 per cent. It is a consolation to the active workers that their work represents a saving of young lives of 33 per thousand. There is also a saving in the damage rate through illnesses prevented. In 1915 over the whole country the mortality rate was 92 per thousand; for 1925 it was 67 per thousand. One item of interest in the balance sheet was the substantial sum from the Dublin City Commissioners, and also a sum from the Government.

The Rev. A. Gannon, S.J., seconded the resolution, and said that it was self evident that the Society was worthy of support, but did not get half the support that it deserved. If the child did not get a fair start in life on coming to manhood he breaks down. The community should be oppressed by a sense of guilt at the condition of the slums. The Society is doing a good work for the children and for the State, and if it was not worthy of support what was? He was very pleased to find that pint bottles were finding their proper use at last in carrying milk to the babies. If all our pint bottles were put to such a use it would be a great advance in civilisation. He was glad that from what Mr. McCarron had said that the Government were finding that they had hearts, but what they wanted to find was the Government's pocket.

The Rev. L. McKenna, S.J., proposed a vote of thanks to the voluntary visitors, and Mrs. Quin seconded the resolution.

Mrs. Macken proposed the adoption of the list of names put forward for the Executive Committee, and Mrs. O'Sullivan seconded.

Mr. Laurence O'Neill said that in listening to the speeches it had occurred to him that it was of little use, unless the matter got all the publicity possible. To tell each other of the distress in the city and the state of things among the poor would avail little unless it got ventilation outside the meeting and what was said was made known to all, so that the citizens of Dublin should know the need there was that they should help in the good work of the Infant Aid Society. It should become a universal society. If there was not a good healthy standard among the poor the country was not going to survive.

A vote of thanks to Mr. O'Neill was proposed by Mr. J. J. Nagle and seconded by Senator Barniville.

A musical programme was then given by Miss May Doyle, Miss Florence Howley, Mrs. John McDonogh, Mr. Joseph O'Reilly, and Mr. Albert Bollins.

MASONIC LOYALTY.

WORK FOR THE GOOD OF THE STATE.

Preaching at a special Masonic Service in St. John's Parish Church, Sligo, on Sunday, the Bishop of Tuam, in the course of his sermon, said:—We of the Masonic Order thank God that we are still members of the Commonwealth of the British Empire over which there presides a King whom it is a delight to honour, a King whose sense of duty is probably stronger than that of any of his subjects. Honour the King, then. Yes, and what is more, we of the Masonic Order are loyal to the Government of our own land. It is part of our principles that we should be so. We submit to the ordinance of man, whether it be of a king or a governor-general. We are loyal citizens, and, please God, we will remain loyal members of the State in which we are living.

Christian citizenship is a wonderful thing, and the amount of good that you and I as Christian men and women may do is tremendous. Oh, that we could get rid of party politics and really settle down to work for our country, settle down to give of our best for the land in which God has placed us and which we really love. One day, perhaps, it will be so, and, at any rate, until then we, members of the Masonic Order, will always be loyal citizens of the State in which we are living, and will continue to do, as many of us are doing—to work for the furtherance and improvement of the State.

THE BETTING TAX.

ENGLISH RACEHORSE OWNERS' PROTEST.

The English Association of Racehorse Owners, Breeders and Trainers met at the Savoy Hotel to discuss the betting tax.

The Hon. George Lambton, who presided, said that the tax was politically, morally, and financially unsound. It would almost destroy the horse-breeding industry, drive all business people out of racing, stop the smaller meetings, and almost double the cost to visitors.

On the motion of Mr. Stanley Wootton, a resolution was carried, expressing the meeting's conviction that the present betting tax proposals would cripple the racing industry, and deprive breeders of their markets, thus throwing large numbers of people out of employment and urging the Chancellor of the Exchequer either to withdraw the proposal with a view to reconsideration in a separate bill or to substitute an alternative scheme.

Mr. Wootton remarked that he did not think that a tax properly imposed would seriously harm the racing industry, but the present proposed tax was impracticable.

The resolution will be submitted to Mr. Churchill, together with an alternative scheme.

A meeting, representing the principal bookmakers and others interested in racing, held at the Victoria Club, London, yesterday afternoon, decided to request the Chancellor of the Exchequer to receive a deputation which will present objections to the betting tax proposals.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference. — The depression north-east of Scotland is moving away slowly, and a slight wedge of relatively high pressure will move eastwards over the British Isles. There is a large depression south of Greenland, and a secondary, which has developed about 800 miles west-south-west of Valencia, will deepen and approach our South-West coasts. Weather will be fair to fine for 24 hours, apart from local showers, chiefly in the North.

N.W. and N.E. Ireland. — Wind westerly, moderate to light; mainly fair or fine, but local thundery showers of rain or hail; visibility good; moderate temperature.

S.E. and S.W. Ireland. — Moderate westerly wind; fine or fair; visibility good; temperature moderate.

All Irish Seaboards.—Wind westerly, moderate or fresh; mainly fine, but local thundery showers; visibility good; sea moderate.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND LABOUR PARTY.

STATEMENT BY MR. PRINGLE.

Mr. W. M. R. Pringle, in a statement to the Press Association last night, says:—I am not surprised that Mr. Lloyd George has denied my statement, that overtures were made by him to Labour within the last fortnight. Nor is the accuracy of my statement affected by the Labour Party's disclaimer of official knowledge. Without giving all the evidence which I can produce to support my statement, I refer to a speech made by Mr. Westwood, M.P., at Peebles on the 27th May, and reported as follows in the Peeblesshire Advertiser of the 28th May:—"Mr. Westwood mentioned that he was able to provide his audience with a greater sensation than that contained in the correspondence between Lord Oxford and Mr. Lloyd George. Last week the Labour members of the House of Commons were invited to give their views on the question of Mr. Lloyd George definitely associating himself with their party. Mr. Westwood indicated that he had given his opinion to the effect that he had no objection to Mr. Lloyd George joining up with the Labour Party if he did so in the ordinary way, and if it could be shown that he was honest."

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

An inquiry was held in Dublin yesterday into the application of the Dublin Board of Conservators to the Minister of Fisheries to prohibit fishing for salmon or trout by means of nets between sunset and sunrise on the tidal waters of the Liffey to the west of the mouth of the River Dodder.—(Page 3.)

The armies of six countries will be represented at the jumping competitions of the Royal Dublin Society at the coming Horse Show at Ballsbridge.—(Page 7.)

After a service extending over forty-five years at Kingsbridge Terminus, Mr. George Edward Smyth, the Assistant General Manager of the Great Southern Railways Company, retires to-day.—(Page 5.)

Speaking on the coal crisis, Lord Londonderry, at Clandeboye, Co. Down, yesterday declared that the simplest process of rehabilitation was for the districts concerned to agree as to terms upon which the industry could best be conducted.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Government's offer of a further subsidy of £3,000,000 to aid the coal industry was withdrawn at midnight.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

Marshal Pilsudski has sent a letter to M. Ratay, Marshal of the Diet, declining to accept the Presidency of the Polish Republic to which the National Assembly has elected him.—(Page 8.)

The Kuominchun forces, after two days' fighting, have broken the Manchurian lines and compelled the Manchurian Army to fall back twelve miles in the direction of Peking.—(Page 8.)

Speaking in Washington yesterday on the cause of the world war, President Coolidge expressed the belief that over-burdened European nations cracked under the weight of maintaining competitive armaments, and in order to get relief began to pillage each other.—(Page 8.)

SPORTING.

At Proudstown Park yesterday Fighting Lights won the May Plate, Amberwave the Stewards' Plate, Tara Prince the Traders' Plate, Rapid Rose the Teltown Plate, Toy Cup the Boyne Plate, and Boss Malone the Bachelor's Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were quiet. India Stocks were a weak spot. Rubbers were lower. Armstrongs fell sharply on the heavy losses.—(Page 4.)

Loans were in strong demand in Lombard street, and up to 5 per cent. was sometimes paid, with 4½-¾ per cent. the usual charge. Discounts were unchanged.—(Page 4.)

In Dublin the market was fairly steady, but business was small. National Loan and Guinness closed lower. Provincial Tram Debs. rose sharply.—(Page 4.)

A New Phase.

Yesterday at midnight the coal dispute in England entered on a new phase. The Government's offer of a further subsidy of £3,000,000 was withdrawn, and, in theory at any rate, the Prime Minister washed his hands of the whole affair. The gravity of the situation has been obscured by the Government's victory in the general strike; but in the whole history of British industry there never has been a more serious crisis. When the general strike was defeated most people hoped, if they did not believe, that some way out of the difficulty in the coal industry would be found; but, unfortunately, they reckoned without the obstinacy of the disputants. Owners and miners alike refused to budge from their original attitudes. Mr. Baldwin then intervened, bringing forward his own proposals for a settlement. They were in the nature of a compromise, and involved the continuance of a Government subvention for a limited period of time; but they were rejected summarily, first by the miners and then by the owners. A large body of public opinion would have supported Mr. Baldwin in the strongest measures, but he decided to take the less drastic step of setting a time limit to his offer of a renewed subsidy. Throughout yesterday efforts were being made to bring owners and miners together in a last minute conference, but the peace-makers had no success, and when midnight arrived no progress had been made.

Both parties now seem to be settling down to a protracted struggle. The state of emergency which was proclaimed when the stoppage began has been extended for another month, and the protagonists seem to be content to allow the problem to be "solved" by a process of exhaustion. The Government, of course, is in duty bound to do everything in its power to maintain coal supplies for the nation's essential needs, and arrangements are being made to procure consignments from the Saar Basin and from the Upper Silesian coalfields, as well as from the United States. The miners' organisation has been trying to prevail on the railway and transport workers to refuse to "handle" foreign coal; but both these bodies of workers, having been chastened considerably by their unhappy experiences during the general strike, are unlikely to invite further trouble by sympathetic action with the miners. Although the purchase of German and American coal will ease the situation in England, even the most reactionary coal-owner hardly will be satisfied with this expedient. If the stoppage is prolonged, Germany and the United States, both of whom, even in normal times, can produce coal more cheaply than Britain, will secure on the markets that hitherto have been British monopolies a position from which they will not be dislodged without considerable difficulty. Already millions of pounds have been lost as a direct result of the stoppage. If it lasts for another month, the "overwhelming disaster" of which the Marquis of Londonderry spoke yesterday at Clandeboye will overtake the whole industry.

A policy of laisser faire would be fatal. The problem must be solved with the least possible delay. It is governed by two basic facts. In the first place, production costs must be reduced. As Lord Londonderry, who is one of the most moderate of the coal-owners, said yesterday, no industry can survive unless it makes a profit; and there is no doubt at all that, on the basis of wages and hours as they existed immediately before the stoppage, no profit can be made. The miners, therefore, must face the necessity for either a reduction in wages or an increase in their hours of toil. Mr. Frank Hodges, formerly Secretary of the Miners' Federation, already has recognised that some concession must be made. In the next place, the whole organisation of the industry must be overhauled. This is no time for face-saving. Masters and men have made almost equally foolish mistakes, and neither side can hope to escape the penalty of its folly. Mr. Baldwin is expected to make an important statement on the situation in the House of Commons to-day. His steadiness during the crisis from which the nation has just emerged has earned for him the respect and confidence of the whole British nation, and he will have the fullest support of the general public in any steps which he may be compelled to take. Much as we hope that an early settlement will be reached, it would be idle to ignore the possibility of a long and embittered struggle. For that reason we are surprised that no provision has been made by the Free State Government against a complete failure of Irish coal supplies. The Government of Northern Ireland has taken extensive precautions, and the Southern Ministry would be well advised to follow its example.

Free State Distillers.

The Free State distillers may smile a little bleakly at Mr. Ernest Blythe's concern for the reputation of their output. "It was all very well," they may say, "to dissemble your love; but why did your Budget kick us downstairs when we asked for some relief from our terrific burden of taxation?" No doubt, he would reply, "I am sorry that I cannot afford to make your whiskey cheaper, but that is no reason why it should not be good." We think that he would be right. A costly article must be of the highest quality if it is to find a profitable market; and that axiom of commerce furnishes ample justification for the Immature Spirits (Restriction) Bill to which Dail Eireann gave a second reading yesterday. The bill provides that whiskey manufactured in the Free State shall be warehoused for at least five years before it is delivered out of bond, thus increasing by two years the period of detention which was prescribed by the Act of 1915. Mr. Blythe estimates that, under that Act, some 15 or 20 per cent. of the Saorstat's whiskey has been put on the market at the age of not more than three years. When the new bill becomes effective two years hence the consumer will be assured of a beverage that will be at least five years old—not a ripe age, and still to be banned by the connoisseur, but, in the case of pot-still whiskey, containing no menace to human health. The State's guarantee to this effect ought to promote the prestige and the sales of the Saorstat's pot-still industry in all parts of the world. Major Cooper suggested that by conjoint action with the Northern Government the guarantee might receive an "all Ireland" value; but, while we should welcome this, or any other, economic rapprochement with the North, a crux presents itself in the difference between pot-still and patent-still whiskey. It is true that the Six Counties produce some pot-still whiskey of excellent body and flavour, but the bulk of their manufacture comes from the patent-still, and the Free State distillers would be the first to repudiate the suggestion that patent-still whiskey improves with age. Insult, in their view, would be added to injury if the product of the patent-still were enabled to compete with their own mellowing output under an inter-State guarantee of comparative maturity. If the Free State Government is to befriend the Free State distillers, it must protect the reputation of their pot-still whiskey not only at home, but abroad; and we are glad that Mr. Blythe recognises this necessity. The distillers themselves must advertise the superior virtues of their wares, and their Government must use its agencies in England and abroad to protect the Free State's whiskey against unfair competition. The task will be formidable; for much ground has been lost in recent years. To-day in London or Manchester a demand for "whiskey" is met almost invariably with an offer of Scotch whisky, and the more specific demand for "Irish whiskey" evokes, quite frequently, stuff that never crossed the Irish Sea. Irish pot-still whiskey of mature age is as good whiskey as any in the world. Its distillers—if they have initiative and enterprise—need not fear honest rivalry; but their Government must help them to defeat misrepresentation and fraud.

An Irish Pilgrimage.

In August a pilgrimage will be made to the Irish graves and the scenes of Irish valour and sacrifice in France and Flanders. During 1917, when earth and sky were filled with the noise and the horror of strife, the leader of the 16th (Irish) Division, Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie, designed roughly upon the battlefield the rugged cross of timber and coal which was erected in honour of the lads who had fallen. The war-time memorial stood between Guillemont and Ginchy through another year of conflict in which many another Irish life perished on those foreign fields; and there it stands to-day bearing the marks of strife. In the presence of men who fought upon that soil and of bereaved relatives of the men who fell, there will be unveiled in August two stone facsimiles of the wooden cross—one at the Guillemont-Ginchy sector and the other at Wytschaete, near Ypres, where the famous salient saw Irish blood poured out like rain. The unveiling of these permanent memorials to the dead will be a sad and proud event for those who are present. Many a soldier standing in those quiet fields will remember how once the air roared with the tumult of slaughter, and how his comrades looked and moved and spoke before they died. Men and women will be there who were children when a shell, bursting at this place, made them orphans and denied them for ever the companionship of a parent whom they can recall, now only in the dim memory of childhood. The dead who died would have died in vain if empty regrets alone were the fruit of their sacrifice. They gave their lives in the hope that the living would make better use of life in the land that those who died abroad never could see again. Every quarrel among Irishmen that hurts or degrades Ireland is a wrong done to the memory of these brave, devoted men. We regret deeply that on the same day when our columns announce this pious pilgrimage they announce also the death of that gallant Irish soldier, Major-General Sir Oliver Nugent, who led the Ulster Division in its immortal conflict on the Somme.

Protection of Game.

The vigorous measures taken by the Wild Fowl, Game and Fish Protection Society of Ulster for the improvement of stocks of game in the Six Counties are to be seconded by legislation in the Parliament of Northern Ireland. It is believed that, if compact shooting preserves could be established, Northern Ireland might be made as attractive a shooting centre as Scotland. What is true of the North is true of all Ireland, and there is no reason why Ireland as a whole should not recover her old-time pre-eminence as the sportsman's paradise. Throughout the Six Counties farmers are combining to form preserves of several hundred acres. Partridges and pheasants are being imported in large numbers, and they are found to adapt themselves readily to their Ulster home. Hungarian partridges have been introduced in County Down, and promise well. Northern Ireland thus is setting an example to the Free State which we hope to see copied without delay. The North, on the other hand, still requires to exert itself if it would catch up with the successful efforts made in the Free State for the preservation of fish. The Ministry of Fisheries in the Saorstát—thanks to an enthusiastic secretary and a competent staff—has succeeded in improving the sport on Irish rivers, chiefly by the suppression of poaching, in such degree that Southern Ireland is recovering speedily its attractiveness for the angler. These are matters for mutual emulation, and still more for co-operation. The sportsman from across the Channel thinks of Ireland as one land, and when he hears that a friend has enjoyed good shooting on an Irish moor or has made satisfying catches on an Irish river, he will not ask narrowly on which side of the political frontier the birds flew or the salmon swam.

BISHOPS' MITRES.

(BY M. L.)

In connection with the consecration last Sunday in Ross, Skibbereen, one is reminded of many curious points of historic interest and ecclesiastical etiquette. The Roman Catholic bishop has his shoes, gloves and mitre specially made. He has three mitres—the precious mitre, adorned with jewels, for the most festive occasions, the mitre of plain cloth of gold, and that of white linen. When assisting at a ceremony in a diocese, not his own, the bishop wears a simple mitre. An abbot wears a simple mitre in the presence of a bishop, and both bishops and abbots wear simple mitres in the presence of the Pope.

Mitres date from the ninth century. At that time they were much lower and flatter than they are now, and resembled a mushroom in shape. They "grew" by degrees until they reached their present considerable height, the top developing into points (horns), back and front, and the depression in the middle becoming more marked. In the Middle Ages an abbess wore a mitre and had the power of laying on hands. Only one of the older kind of mitre survives in Ireland. It dates from the fifteenth century. It is preserved in the Roman Catholic Cathedral in Limerick, to which it was presented by the authorities of the Church of Ireland in that city. It is extremely valuable, being sewn all over with real seed pearls.

The mitre that has just been completed for the Bishop of Ross has been copied from the older and lower type. The back is ornamented with a large, yellow topaz and crystals. In the front there are many amethysts. The Celtic designs are embroidered in splendid colours, golden reds being interwoven with purples and touches of green. It is the work of the Dun Emer Guild and, though they have made many beautiful Church vestments, this is the first elaborate mitre from the Guild to remain in this country.

OBITUARY.

MAJOR-GENERAL SIR O. S. W. NUGENT.

We much regret to announce that Major-General Sir Oliver Stewart Wood Nugent, K.C.B., D.S.O., died of pneumonia yesterday at his residence, Farren Connell, Mount Nugent, County Cavan.

Major-General Nugent was 65 years of age. He was the son of the late Major-General St. George M. Nugent and Emily, daughter of the Right Hon. Edward Litton.

Educated at Harrow, he entered the King's Royal Rifles in 1883, and had an active and distinguished military career. He was promoted captain in 1890 and major in 1899. He served in the Hazara Expedition of 1891, obtaining the medal and clasp, and in the Samana Expedition of the same year, being mentioned in despatches and obtaining a clasp. In 1892 he took part in the Izazai Expedition; three years later he was in the Chitral Relief Force, being present at the Malakand Pass, where he was slightly wounded, and at the engagement at Khar, where he was mentioned in despatches, obtained the D.S.O. and the medal with clasp.

In the South African War of 1899 to 1900 Major-General Nugent was dangerously wounded. Again he was mentioned in despatches, and he obtained the Queen's Medal with two clasps.

In the Great European War, 1914-1918, Major-General Nugent served with marked distinction. He commanded the 36th (Ulster) Division on that memorable 1st of July, 1916, when the men of the North won glory at the battle of the Somme. For his services in the Great War he was created Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath and was promoted major-general. He retired from the Army in 1920.

Major-General Nugent married, in 1899, Catharine Percy, daughter of the late Mr. T. Evans Lees and Mrs. Lees, of Beaucroft, Wimborne, Dorset, by whom he had one son and two daughters.

M. VLADIMIR STEKLOW.

A telegram from Yalta, Crimea, announces that M. Vladimir Steklow, Vice-President of the Academy of Sciences, the well-known mathematician, has died there, at the age of 63. The Russian Government has sent a message of regret, and has announced its intention of defraying the costs of the funeral.

SIR CHARLES H. RENN STANSFIELD.

The Times announces the death of Sir Charles Henry Renn-Stansfield, at Bromley Common, on Saturday, at the age of 70. He entered the Admiralty in 1876, and was Private Secretary to four successive Lords of the Admiralty. He was knighted in 1922.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

THE RIGHT OUTLOOK FOR ENGLISHMEN.

Sir Austen Chamberlain delivered himself of some sound doctrines on the essentials for a better instructed public opinion on foreign affairs in proposing a vote of thanks to the Prince of Wales for opening the lecture hall at the British Institute of International Affairs, London, yesterday afternoon.

Above all, he said, it was necessary that, in our criticisms of foreign nations, in our consideration of the course which it seemed well for them to take, we should show a certain modesty, even a certain humility. There had been times when, as an island nation separated from the immediate strain and stress of Continental affairs or world politics, concentrating on other objects, we had nothing but advice and criticism to offer to other people, which they had sometimes resented.

We had been apt to talk from a position of assumed superiority, and to lecture as if foreigners had only to turn themselves into Englishmen to enjoy all the benefits which nature had conferred upon us. It was essential to the successful conduct of foreign affairs to understand the outlooks of other nations.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

Yesterday afternoon in Henrietta street, Cavendish square, London, the Queen opened the new College of Nursing and the Cowdray Club, which have been provided for the nursing profession in the West End by the munificence of Viscount and Viscountess Cowdray. After the dedication of the building by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and an address from the Minister of Health, the Queen was conducted over the College and the club. Largely through Lady Cowdray's exertions, a sum of over £100,000 has been raised for the benefit of nurses in bad health or distress, and £68,000 has already been subscribed for the College endowment fund.

Princess Victoria is now settled at Coppins, her new home in Buckinghamshire. It is understood that she will give a garden party on the occasion of her birthday, Tuesday, July 6th, which is also the anniversary of the marriage of the King and Queen.

Princess Marie Louise will be present to-day at the marriage of the Hon. Edmund Colquhoun Pery, D.S.O., younger son of the third Earl of Limerick and the Dowager Countess of Limerick, and Miss Angela Olivia Trotter, daughter of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Henry Trotter, K.C.M.G., and Lady Trotter. The ceremony will take place at St. Peter's, Eaton square.

Katherine Duchess of Westminster is paying a round of visits, and is staying at Park Hall, Evesham, with Lord and Lady Henry Seymour. She will leave at the end of this week to visit the Marquis and Marchioness of Cambridge at Shotton Hall, near Shrewsbury, where she has promised to open a local bazaar. Later she will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Colonel the Hon. Algernon and Lady Mary Stanley, who are now at Crom Castle, County Fermanagh.

The Duke and Duchess of Sutherland will leave London this week for Scotland, and will make a stay of about ten days at Dunrobin Castle. The Duke of Roxburghe has arrived in London from Melrose. The Earl and Countess of Shaftesbury and their family will leave St. Giles's House, Salisbury, to-day for London, and will spend the season at Chandos House, Queen Anne street. Lord and Lady Carson returned to London yesterday from their motor trip, and will leave immediately for Cleve Court, Thanet.

Donnington House, in Shropshire, has been taken by Captain and Lady Moyra FitzGerald, who will reside there permanently. Lady Moyra is the youngest daughter of the late Earl of Portarlington, and married in 1924 Captain James Brinsley FitzGerald, late of the 4th Dragoon Guards, eldest son of Mr. Peter D. FitzGerald, and grandson of the nineteenth Knight of Kerry and first Baronet of Valencia.

Countess Jellicoe has organised the little programme-sellers for the matinée in aid of the Queen's Hospital for Children, which will be held in the Comedy Theatre, London, on Thursday. The sellers will include Lady Jellicoe's eight-year-old son, Viscount Brocas, and the sons of Sir Herbert Cayzer, Sir Walter Gibbons, Commander Morgan and Mr. Pelham Warner.

THE OIREACHTAS.

BOTH HOUSES MEET TO-MORROW.

To-day the Dail will resume consideration of the estimates for public services, and during the remainder of the Parliamentary week it is expected that the two Houses will be in session.

For the Senate to-morrow there are the second stages of the Unemployment Insurance Bill, the Local Elections (Dissolved Authorities) Bill, Civic Guard (Acquisition of Premises) (Amendment) Bill, Coroners (Amendment) Bill, Court Officers Bill, the report stage of the Damage to Property (Compensation) (Amendment) Bill, and the following motion by Senator Toal:—

"That the Senate request the Executive Council to constitute at an early date Advisory Committees composed, in whole or in part, of representatives from, and nominated by, the County Councils, for the purpose of co-operation with the Minister of Lands and Agriculture and the Minister of Education, for the development and improvement of agricultural and technical instruction."

There is speculation as to the cause of the delay in publishing the text of the Finance Bill, introduced by Mr. Blythe in the Dail last Friday. It had been expected that the text of the measure would be circulated to Deputies on the evening of its introduction, or at the latest on the following morning (Saturday). At the Clerk's office yesterday it was stated that the bill was not likely to be in the hands of members before to-day or to-morrow. The explanation suggested in the Lobby was that Mr. Blythe has found occasion to alter certain of his proposals as originally drafted and printed. The second stage of the measure is due for consideration on Thursday.

TALKING TO THE CONGO.

BELGIAN WIRELESS EXPERIMENTER'S SUCCESS.

BRUSSELS, Monday.

M. Robert Goldschmidt, of Malines, announces that for some weeks past he has been in direct wireless telephonic communication with the Congo, working on a short wave length, and his words have been distinctly heard in Stanleyville.

The distance is 7,500 kilometres, and his success is remarkable, in view of the low power used and the atmospheric conditions in the Congo. M. Goldschmidt has offered to organise free a wireless telephony department, enabling the Minister of the Colonies to converse with the Congo officials as easily as if he were using the cable.—(Reuter.)

THE KING AS A GODFATHER.

The King, represented by Lord Colebrooke as proxy, was the principal sponsor at the christening at St. Margaret's, Westminster, yesterday, of the infant son of the Marquis and Marchioness of Blandford. Other godparents included Mr. Winston Churchill. The ceremony was performed by Canon Carnegie, and the names given to the baby were John George Vanderbilt Henry.

LONDON LETTER.

THE COAL DISPUTE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

At the offices of the Miners' Association and at those of the Miners' Federation it was stated to-day that no approach was being made regarding the Prime Minister's proposals for a settlement, and that nothing was known of the possibility of any further move. Mr. Baldwin, on his return to London to-day, had a consultation with the Minister of Labour and the Secretary for Mines, and it is understood that he is willing to meet either owners or miners, or both, at any moment up till midnight. It seems unlikely, however, that any advance will now be made, and the prospect of utilising the three million pounds to carry the coal industry over an awkward period of disorganisation will be sacrificed. It is a very large sum, however, and it will not be lost irretrievably before twelve o'clock. There is much criticism to-day on the absolute poverty of imagination on the part of the former negotiators, and it is generally recognised that there must be changes on both sides. It is remarked that obstinacy has taken the place of firmness, and that neither side cares to appear to lose face by giving way. This point of view is now becoming widely adopted on both sides.

Foreign Supplies.

The Government, having made preparation for the importation of large supplies of coal from abroad, has been assured that there will be no obstacle in the handling of this coal by railwaymen; for the railway union leaders will strongly support the policy of a free passage and facilities for transit of these necessary supplies. The coal, it is understood, will be available from the Saar Basin, Silesia, and from France, while purchases from the United States also are being negotiated. Large supplies can be obtained if necessary, and Government support will be available for the making of contracts.

The Liberal Split.

The controversy between Lord Oxford and Mr. Lloyd George was not carried much further to-day, though it is thought that there may be a development before the meeting of the Liberal Party to-morrow. It is expected that this will be a letter or statement by Lord Oxford in reply to Mr. Lloyd George's last letter, and it is quite possible that it may take the form of an ultimatum. It is interesting to note that Lord Oxford has not yet summoned a meeting of the "Shadow Cabinet," and it is hinted that there will be no more meetings of this body as at present constituted. Should a new body come into existence, it will be minus Mr. Lloyd George and his supporters—that is, of course, if Lord Oxford is successful in his struggle against Mr. Lloyd George. It was rumoured to-day that there is considerable doubt whether it will be wisdom to move a vote of censure on Mr. Lloyd George at the meeting of the Liberal Party to-morrow, since inquiry has shown that it may not be carried.

Mr. Lloyd George and Labour.

An emphatic denial on behalf of Mr. Lloyd George was made to-day in reply to Mr. Pringle's story that within the past fortnight he had been in negotiations with the Labour Party. Mr. Pringle, when the denial was conveyed to him, asserted that he expected it, because Mr. Lloyd George had to deny the statement. In connection with this it is interesting that Mr. Joseph Westwood, the Socialist member for Peebles, states that last week Labour members were invited to give their views on the question of Mr. Lloyd George's definitely associating himself with the party. It would clear the air if it could be stated on whose initiative such a step was taken.

An Honorary Degree.

An honorary degree is to be conferred by the Senate of Cambridge University on Mr. Ramsay Macdonald on Saturday next, and, though the proposal has caused much discussion and aroused some opposition, there is no sign that it will be defeated. Every member of the Senate can vote against the proposal without intimation beforehand; but it is customary, if the Council of the Senate puts forward a candidate, and he is to be opposed by any individual or a group of individuals, that notice of opposition shall be given. It is understood that up to the present no such notice has been forwarded, and it is fully anticipated that the honorary degree will be conferred on the ex-Prime Minister in due course. Among those who are to be honoured at the same time are Sir Samuel Hoare, Sir Frederick Maurice, Sir Josiah Stamp, Professor Gilbert Murray, and M. Paderewski.

The Derby.

The London Press Club Derby week luncheon has become an annual fixture, and to-day it was attended by a number of well-known racing owners, such as Lord Derby, Lord Astor, Lord Woolavington, Lord Carnarvon, Sir Abe Bailey, as well as by Mr. Stanley Wootton, Mr. P. P. Gilpin and Steve Donoghue. Lord Derby, who was the principal speaker, said: "If I have luck, I shall win. Lord Astor says the same, and so does Sir Abe Bailey. If I don't win, and either of these does win, I shall be glad to congratulate him." This rather cryptic forecast caused considerable amusement. Lord Derby went on to say: "I know my horse is well, and I know he is well trained." Steve Donoghue said that Swift and Sure was his favourite, apart from Colorado, but his tip was Colorado. At the Victoria Club call-over to-day the odds against Colorado hardened from 9 to 4 to 13 to 8.

To Epsom by Road.

Railway facilities may be poor on Wednesday, but the possibility does not deter the Londoner from intending to see the Derby, and the morning of the race probably will see a repetition of the first morning of the general strike, when the workers came to town on anything that would move. The King himself will go down by road, and in doing so will receive a hearty welcome from his fellow-wayfarers. In the evening His Majesty will entertain the members of the Jockey Club to dinner at Buckingham Palace, while the Queen and other members of the Royal Family will dine with the Countess of Derby at Derby House, where afterwards the Countess will give a ball.

Polo.

There appears to have been some misapprehension regarding the conditions attaching to the Westchester Cup—the international polo trophy which is played for by teams of Great Britain and the United States—and the Polo Committee of the Hurlingham Club, the governing body of the game, is very anxious to have them removed. At the annual meeting of the Hurlingham Club last Saturday the Chairman, Sir Harold Snagge, K.B.E., laid stress on these conditions. The deed of gift of the trophy vests the right of competition and challenge solely in the clubs of Meadow Brook and Hurlingham. Any team, therefore, which is chosen to represent England has to be approved by the Hurlingham Club, and always will play technically as a Hurlingham Club team.

LONGEVITY.

Our obituary columns to-day announce the deaths of Frances Elizabeth, widow of the Rev. George Law Harkness, at Forest Lea, Sway, in her hundred and first year; of Faulkiner B. Parker, at Westport, County Mayo, in his eighty-ninth year; and of Stephen Merry, at Waterford, in his eighty-first year. The duration of the three lives aggregated 271 years.

TENTATIVE MOVES.

MINERS' OFFICIALS IN LONDON.

FROM THE LABOUR CORRESPONDENT OF "THE TIMES."

Yesterday there were clearly indicated, even if tentative, moves in the direction of peace in the coal-mining industry. The officials of the Miners' Federation—Mr. H. Smith, the president; Mr. T. Richards, vice-president; Mr. W. P. Richardson, treasurer, and Mr. A. J. Cook, secretary—met in London last night for the first time since the day when they received the Prime Minister's reply to their rejection of his proposals for a settlement.

The Negotiating Committee of the Mining Association was also in London, but met earlier in the day and was undecided as to whether the course of events would warrant the summoning of the Central Committee of the Association to meet within the next day or two. The miners had not taken the action necessary for the re-opening of negotiations which was indicated by the Prime Minister ten days ago.

It was an important day in the history of the dispute, because the Prime Minister had told the miners in his letter of May 22nd that, "in view of the great and growing burden imposed on the national finances by the general strike and the present stoppage in the coal-mining industry," it would be impossible for the Government to hold open beyond the end of the month the offer of any further subsidy.

The same letter had left the door wide open to the Miners' Federation to take within the specified time the necessary step, or steps, towards satisfying the Prime Minister's requirement that the Federation's refusal to consider any alteration of wages or hours must be revoked.

It was added that Mr. Baldwin would hold himself available to arrange a further discussion the moment he was informed that the Miners' Federation was in a position to submit suggestions of the kind required.

DEBATE TO-DAY.

MR. BALDWIN DISCUSSES THE POSITION.

FROM "THE TIMES" PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.

The Parliamentary Labour Party is meeting this morning, and will then decide whether to ask for a debate on the coal deadlock for this afternoon. It is assumed that the request will be made in view of the desire for a debate in all parts of the House, and in that case the vote for the Ministry of Labour will be withdrawn and that for the Mines Department substituted.

Strictly speaking, this occasion does not permit of a debate on new legislation, but no difficulty on the point is anticipated.

Shortly after Mr. Baldwin's return to London yesterday morning he discussed the position with Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, the Minister of Labour, and in the afternoon there was a meeting of the Cabinet's Coal Negotiating Committee.

A special meeting of the Cabinet was held late last night, but it is understood that this was not concerned with coal. It was held in order that the Prime Minister might consult his colleagues on other subjects of importance before the reassembling of Parliament.

LORD WIMBORNE'S APPEAL.

Mr. Frank Hall, the Derbyshire miners' leader, stated yesterday that Lord Wimborne on Saturday sent him the following telegram: "In men's interests, confer before expected Government announcement on crisis. Invite you, with two other leaders, to meet me on Monday."

We shall not be there, said Mr. Hall, but it shows there are men in high places who can see that something is going to happen. The Government knows that neither we nor the owners are going to accept their proposals before the time limit expires to-night.

THE PRINCE'S GIFT.

Acknowledging the receipt of a donation of £10 sent to the Somerset Coalfield Distress Fund for the Mothers and Children by the Prince of Wales, the Secretary says that the Committee very much appreciate the kind sentiments expressed by His Royal Highness, and trusts that the difference between the parties concerned will soon be amicably settled.

32nd DAY OF THE COAL STOPPAGE.

COAL DEADLOCK COMPLETE.

NO NEW NEGOTIATIONS.

BRITISH CABINET SITS UNTIL MIDNIGHT.

STORY OF SECRET MEETINGS.

THE coal deadlock is now complete. The British Cabinet met last night and remained at 10 Downing street until a few minutes before midnight, which was the time limit fixed by Mr. Baldwin for the parties in the coal dispute to take advantage of the Government's offer of £3,000,000 to assist the industry.

During the day there were many rumours of last hour efforts to bring about a peace move; but both the coal-owners and the miners stated that no meetings had been arranged. Notwithstanding these conclusive denials, it was declared (says the Press Association) that strenuous efforts were made behind the scenes throughout the day to resume negotiations.

The Prime Minister reported fully to the Cabinet on his activities in connection with the dispute. These, it was learned, included important negotiations and "feelers," in which the Prime Minister personally took part. All day long he had been alternately holding meetings with some of his Ministerial colleagues at No. 10 and making short excursions to another part of London.

Other matters besides the coal dispute were considered by the Cabinet, but one of the objects of the meeting was that the Ministers should be easily accessible should any last minute approach be made by the miners or the owners. Up to midnight, however, there had been no definite result from the talks which had been proceeding during the day.

When the Cabinet meeting concluded just before midnight a brief official communiqué was issued, stating that all the Ministers were present except Viscount Cave, Mr. Bridgeman, Sir John Gilmour, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland and Viscount Peel.

Mr. Baldwin is expected to deal with the new position when the House of Commons meets this afternoon.

LORD LONDONDERRY'S VIEW.

WHY DISTRICT SETTLEMENTS ARE NEEDED.

An important reference to the coal strike was made by Lord Londonderry yesterday at a luncheon given to the members of the Northern Senate, at Clandeboye, by the Speaker of the House (the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava). An old Irish tankard, made in Dublin, mounted on a plinth, bearing the names of the members of the Senate, was presented to Lord Londonderry, who recently resigned his position of the Minister of Education and Leader of the House.

At the present moment, said Lord Londonderry in returning thanks, they were overshadowed by a cloud cutting them off from the sunshine of prosperity and of happiness. The air was full of recriminations, of threats, of suspicions. A paralysis gripped the coalfields — a paralysis which was spreading slowly, but surely, over the whole of the industry in Great Britain and Ulster.

They had weathered one storm, with apparently magnificent ease—a storm which would have destroyed a community less balanced and trained for centuries in the arts of administration and government. So easily had they weathered that storm that perhaps they did not realise the full significance of the signs of the present situation. How earnestly he hoped that reason would prevail. Of course, reason would prevail; but the longer the delay the more slowly would be the process of recovery, and the greater would be the effort required to resume their position in the markets of the world, and to repair the ravages of the war.

Various plans were being put forward, and all postulated and demanded some sacrifice. The owners had agreed to make every sacrfice short of the extinction of the industry, in which they had spent the greater part of their lives, watching with anxiety the violent oscillations between times of prosperity and depression, hoping that whilst all engaged in the industry would reap the benefits of prosperity, they would be able to tide over the inevitable times of depression—knowing quite well that the one would inevitably follow the other, as the night followed the day.

The present depression had been aggravated and accentuated by circumstances over which they had but little, if any, control. It was the fashion to blame the coalowners, but he asked any fair-minded person what better offer could the owners make than to operate their undertakings without profit, which was the offer made in the last days of April, with the obvious desire to avert the impending catastrophe of a strike, and to enable the findings of the report to be fully considered.

Mr. Cook and Mr. Herbert Smith deliberately refused that offer, and called upon the men in the industry to come out on strike, and endeavoured by that crude and brutal method to coerce the Government into providing further sustenance out of the pockets of the already overburdened taxpayer.

What was the use of talking about the standard of living unless they were prepared to consider economic rules and laws, by which alone that standard could be maintained? They were told that Socialism and nationalisation were the panacea by which all wrongs could be righted, and through which they were eventually to reach the millennium, but whatever the system, the inexorable law that industry must show a profit or languish and die, was as true and obvious to-day as it had been from time immemorial.

The simplest and best process of rehabilitation was for the districts concerned to agree together to the terms on which the industry could best be conducted—terms which would be consistent with the well-being of those engaged in it, and to the community which all industries sought to serve.

He had no doubt that when the owners and miners and the Government (as directly representing the community) were combined, with the mutual determination to succeed, that the danger—fraught as it was with overwhelming disaster—would be averted by that sound commonsense which was inherent in the British race.

FOREIGN COAL EMBARGO.

NO REPLY TO MINERS' REQUEST.

Both the Transport and General Workers' Union and the National Union of Railwaymen have had under consideration the request of the Miners' Federation for an embargo to be placed on the handling of foreign imported coal, but neither has reached a decision.

It is realised that the matter raises very difficult and delicate questions of policy, particularly in view of the recent negotiations regarding reinstatement. It is unlikely that a strict embargo will be imposed.

MIDLETON WITHOUT COAL.

The supply of coal in all stores in Midleton (County Cork) is completely exhausted.

MILITARY JUMPING AT BALLSBRIDGE.

SIX NATIONS TO BE REPRESENTED.

It is now definitely stated that the following nations have agreed to participate in the military jumping competitions at the coming Horse Show of the Royal Dublin Society at Ballsbridge:—Belgium, France, Switzerland, Spain, Great Britain, and the Irish Free State. Italy and Holland may yet be able to send teams.

With the introduction for the first time this year of these international military jumping competitions the coming Horse Show bids fair to eclipse in spectacular display anything that has been attempted heretofore to draw visitors from every part of the world.

Special military jumping competitions have been provided for officers during the four days of the Show, culminating in the international championship on the Friday, when the fine gold challenge cup will be competed for by teams of three horses from each country, in addition to very liberal prize money. A silver replica of the cup will also be given each year to the successful nation until won outright.

On this occasion, to provide for the numerous applications, grand stand seats will be bookable for the four days of the Show.

TRINITY STUDENTS' "RAG."

AN EXAMINATION FOR "FELLOWSHIPS."

After the conferring of degrees yesterday the students of Trinity College, Dublin, indulged in the customary "rag." The display was one of the most resplendent ever staged. During the parade through the streets, however, the weather, which till then had smiled on the participants, apparently took a vicious dislike to the glowing beauty of the "Queen of Sheba," and ordering King Sol behind the clouds for flirting with Her Majesty, discharged cascades of water on the merry throng. The effect of this spiteful trick of Old Mother Weather has brought to nought by the infectious good humour of the nigger maidens, who carried on rather promiscuous flirtations with the passers-by; by the untuneful strains of the coloured minstrels in the van; by the carnival spirit of Riffians, who celebrated their recent defeat by uttering fiendish war-whoops and giving all honour and glory to their leader Abd-e-Krim for the magnificent manner in which he surrendered to the French.

Immediately after the Provost (the Right Hon. and Most Rev. Dr. Bernard) announced the names of the new Fellow and Scholars from the steps, the students set up a "Provost" at another venue, who appeared to be more to their liking in the matter of fun-making.

One by one the famous foreign visitors, whose names are enshrined in modern, as well as ancient history, were ushered into the presence of the "Provost" with due ceremony, to the accompaniment of the discordant blare of trumpets supplied by the native band of the College. Abd-el-Krim, looking none the worse for wear, strode proudly forward leading his meagre and watery-looking band of followers.

The next arrivals at the Place of Ceremonies were the two Rugby teams—one representing Trinity College for the year 1866, and the other, headed by Harold Lloyd, was the modern American "crack" team.

The Queen of Sheba, carried in a very uncomfortable palanquin, and escorted by a myriad of coloured pages, dancing girls, slaves, and an imposing looking bodyguard, was the next personage of note to enter. Close on her heels came King Solomon, whose face bore a very blank and vacant expression. His wives, slaves and trumpeters clustered round him as he entered. With a fluent tongue he gibbered for a short time in reply to the address of welcome presented to him. It was stated that when asked if he would like to be married for a day to the Queen of Sheba, the wise old man said something that sounded like "yes." The "Provost," assisted by the "Archbishop," however, performed the ceremony, in the midst of which Solomon's chief wife objected, because he had not given her time to get a divorce, although she had been married to him for fifteen years.

There followed an examination for Fellowships, the candidates for which were Sadie B. Good, of Valencia University, and Alfonso Attaboy, a typical American. The External Examiner was Professor Ukulele Ike, of Timbuctoo. After a number of questions had been put to both candidates by the examiner, Fellowships were granted to them. To show her appreciation of his generosity, Sadie B. Good fondly embraced the examiner, and asked him to take her out to tea as she was thirsty.

The Queen of Sheba received a She B.A. degree, whilst Solomon had the degree of LL.M. (Mother-in-Laws) conferred on him. Abd-el-Krim received the D.M.P. (Diploma in Materia Publica).

Tired of ceremonising, the party adjourned to the sports and pleasure grounds, where, after some dancing exhibitions by the Dancing Dervishes, a musical interlude by the Native Band, some posing by the Queen of Sheba and Sadie B. Good, and other novelties to entertain the notable personages present, a "seven-a-side" Rugby match between Trinity, 1866, and Modern America was played with a "Soccer" ball. The match concluded when all the American team had been ordered off the field by the indignant referee, who was divested of his corsets.

In the meanwhile, the soldiers of Abd-el-Krim and the maidens of Sheba were engaged in a wild flirtation, and, when things were reaching a climax, both on the field and off, a motherly cow entered the arena with milk for the players and for Felix the Cat.

The "rag," which was conducted with good humour throughout, concluded after a procession through the principal streets.

100 MILES AN HOUR IN THE RAIN.

MOTOR RACING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

INDIANAPOLIS, Monday.

The fourteenth annual 500 mile motor speed race was held up for over an hour this afternoon by bad weather. The competing cars had done 175 miles when the drizzle became so trying that the signal was given to the competitors to stop where they were, so that the race could be resumed later.

Before this B. G. Jones, driving an American car, had crashed into a retaining wall, wrecking his car, but himself miraculously escaping.

After seventy minutes had elapsed the race was resumed, and resulted as follows:—(1) Lockhart. (2) Hartz. (3) Woodbury.

The winner's time was 4 hours 13 minutes 37.78 seconds. Owing to rain the race was reduced to 400 miles.

FROM PUTNEY TO CALCUTTA.

DANISH OARSMEN'S GREAT TASK.

The two Danish oarsmen, Captain Ventegodt and his friend, Evald Tietzel, who left Putney on Thursday in a small open skiff, the Viking, for an attempted pull to Calcutta, were yesterday observed in difficulties pulling their hardest against a strong flood tide off Deal.

Deal boatmen put off and landed the men. Captain Ventegodt admitted that he had been absolutely beaten by the strong tide, but hoped to continue his journey to Dover, and will cross the Channel at the first favourable opportunity.

The members of the League of Nations Opium Mission had an audience of the Shah at Teheran before leaving for Europe.

MEMORIALS TO IRISH HEROES.

CELTIC CROSSES TO BE UNVEILED ON THE BATTLEFIELDS.

PILGRIMAGE IN AUGUST.

KING OF THE BELGIANS AND MARSHAL FOCH EXPECTED.

THE PROGRAMME.

On August 13th next a pilgrimage of Irish ex-Service men of all ranks and regiments, as well as the widows and relatives of soldiers of the 16th (Irish) Division who died in the Great War will leave Dublin for the battlefields of France and Flanders, where Celtic memorial crosses of Wicklow granite will be unveiled to the memory of those who died. The sites of the crosses have been chosen at

Wytschaete, near Ypres, a point of the famous salient made memorable by the deeds of the gallant 16th (Irish) Division; and

Guillemont-Ginchy, a sector of the line "which is for ever Ireland."

This week the crosses are to be shipped for Le Havre, whence they will be taken to the sites by road or rail.

THE GALLANT 16TH DIVISION.

UNVEILING CEREMONY PLANS.

After Mass and Divine Service at Ypres on Sunday, August 15th, the party will leave Wytschaete, where, it is hoped, that the unveiling ceremony will be performed by the King of the Belgians. On the following day Marshal Foch will unveil the second cross at Guillemont.

It is anticipated that over a thousand ex-officers and men, as well as the widows and relatives of deceased soldiers, will travel with the pilgrimage, which will leave Dublin on Friday evening, August 13th, en route for London, Dover, and Ostend.

In conversation with an Irish Times representative yesterday, Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie, who commanded the 16th (Irish) Division in the Great War, explained the arrangements which he and his energetic committee have made for the journey and the unveiling ceremonies. He pointed out that owing to the dislocation of the transport services caused by the coal dispute they had not been able to get from Messrs. Cook, who have been entrusted with the arrangements, the cost of the proposed tour of the battlefields, but it may be taken that the price of tickets will be reasonable.

THE PROGRAMME.

Outlining the route to be followed, he said: "We shall leave Dublin on the evening of August 13th, arriving via Ostend at Ypres on the afternoon of the following day, when a wreath will be laid on the Munster Memorial in the Grand Place. We shall spend the night at Ypres, and after Mass and Divine Service the next morning the pilgrimage will leave for Wytschaete, where the ceremony of unveiling the Cross will be performed, we hope, by the King of the Belgians. After the ceremony we go to Locre, where the Records of the Irish Dead will be handed to the Reverend Mother of the Community for safe keeping in the Chapel of the Hospice. The party will then proceed to Armentières, Loos, Bajaumne and Albert, to Amiens, where the night will be spent.

"On the morning of the 16th the second unveiling ceremony will take place at Guillemont-Ginchy, where Marshal Foch has been requested to officiate. After a picnic luncheon on the Somme battlefields we shall travel via Bozentin, Poziers, to Thiepval, where a wreath will be laid on the beautiful memorial to the officers and men of the 36th (Ulster) Division, who died in the war—the small tribute of Southern Ireland ex-Service men to their brave dead comrades of the North. We shall return to Amiens in the afternoon, and after lunch and dinner the party will entrain for London.

CEREMONIES IN LONDON.

"In London on the following morning, Tuesday, August 17th, there will be a number of ceremonies, including a parade at the Cenotaph in Whitehall, when a wreath will be laid on the monument. Wreaths will be laid on the tomb of the Unknown Warrior in Westminster Abbey, and a visit will be paid by the pilgrimage to the Memorial Chapel to the Irish regiments in Westminster Cathedral, at which it is hoped Cardinal Bourne will be able to attend and give his blessing. It has also been arranged that, simultaneously with the placing of floral tributes to the dead at the Cenotaph, wreaths will be laid on the tomb of the Unknown Warrior at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, at Brussels and in Washington. That night the party will return to Ireland."

General Hickie added that, on account of the transport facilities and accommodation problems facing the organisers of the tour, numbers might have to be limited. Applications for places, he pointed out, would be dealt with strictly in the order in which they were received at the Headquarters of the British Legion, 38 Kildare street, Dublin. Arrangements are being made so that those who desire to prolong their stay in France may separate from the main body at Amiens. It is hoped that the prices of tickets and other details of the tour will be announced shortly. Every arrangement for the comfort of intending members of the pilgrimage is being made, and membership of it is not confined to members of the British Legion, but is open to all Irishmen and Irishwomen.

INTEREST IN THE PILGRIMAGE.

The Irish Battlefield Memorial Committee has certain surplus funds in hands, out of which it is proposed to pay the expenses of the tour for about forty non-commissioned officers and men of the Irish regiments. Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie has communicated with the commanding officer of IRISH RAILWAYS WAGES.

CONFERENCE NEXT THURSDAY.

HOPE OF SETTLEMENT.

There is every hope of a settlement of the crisis that has arisen in Irish railway circles, consequent on the decision of the Irish Railways Wages Board recommending a reduction of the wages of all the men employed on the railways.

The proposed "cut" is to become operative on the first pay-day in June—next Friday—but there are different pay-days for the various sections of the railways.

A private conference of the representatives of the Irish railways' managements was held in Belfast yesterday. Those present included Mr. M. F. Keogh, General Manager, Great Southern Railways, Dublin, and Mr. Stevens, Manager, Great Northern Railway, Dublin. The subject of the negotiations which are to take place with the representatives of the men in regard to the reduction in wages was under consideration.

It is understood that, as the result of this conference, matters are much more hopeful than they have been during the last few days.

It is authoritatively stated that a conference between the representatives of the men and managements has been arranged to take place in Dublin on next Thursday, at 11 a.m. The Great Southern Railways and the Great Northern Railways will be represented by their respective general managers and other officials, and the workers who are affected will be represented by Mr. C. T. Cramp, Industrial General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen; by Mr. Waters, Irish Secretary of the Union; by the General Secretary of the Railway Clerks' Association; by officials of the Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, and others.

SETTLEMENT HOPES.

An Irish Times representative in Belfast was assured, last night, by a director of the Great Northern Railway, who took part in the conference earlier in the day, that there was every hope that a satisfactory arrangement would be arrived at in the course of the next few days.

Mr. M. F. Keogh and Mr. Stevens left Belfast by the evening train, arriving in Dublin at 8 p.m.

It is understood that a basis for negotiations has not yet been established, but that both parties are working at this matter in the interim before the conference on Thursday.

MEDICAL REGISTER.

TO-DAY'S MEETING IN LONDON.

It is expected that at its quarterly meeting in London to-day the General Medical Council will consider the question of the proposed new system of medical registration in the Free State. It is understood that the Council is in possession of a draft of the Free State Government's proposals, which will be officially submitted in their final form to the Council by a small deputation—consisting probably of Mr. Maunsell, Professor Dixon, and Dr. Coffey—which travels to London within the next week.

Sir Arthur Chance, a member of the General Medical Council, has gone to London to attend to-day's meeting.

TIPPERARY HURLERS IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK CHAMPIONS DEFEATED.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Thirty thousand spectators assembled at the Polo Grounds to witness the opening game in the tour of the Tipperary hurling team, champions of Ireland. The Irish team, the players in which are drawn principally from the County of Tipperary, are engaging in a series of matches with the American Gaels.

The Irish team had a brilliant send-off. They met the champion hurling team of New York State, defeating them by 37 points to 8.

The game was fast and wild, and during the proceedings several heads had to be bandaged, but the huge crowd enjoyed the sport.

FRENCH DEBT TO U.S.A.

ALLEGATIONS ABOUT A NEW LOAN.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

The majority and minority reports to the United States Congress on the question of the ratification of the French debt are made public to-day.

The majority report asserts that the condition of France is worse now than it was a year ago. It declares that Insuperable obstacles to the adjustment of her finances will be raised unless the debt settlement is ratified during the present Congress.

Senator Rainey, leading the minority faction, declares that the debt settlement is being "railroaded" through Congress, and will be followed by a three hundred million dollar loan by the Morgan and other banks to France, with commissions to the banks totalling thirteen and a half millions.

LATE NEWS

DEVELOPMENTS IN CHINA.

MARSHAL SUN AND AN INDEPENDENT STATE.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—In the absence of much fuller information it is not easy to appraise the importance of the news from Shanghai which reached us on Sunday. Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, the Governor-General of the block of five great provinces, had announced, it seems, his intention to form them into an independent State. They are the three maritime provinces of Kiangsu, Chekiang and Fukien, with Anhwei and Kiangsi by way of hinterland. They form a fairly compact geographical whole, include Shanghai, the wealthiest city of the Far East and a chief port in the trade of the world, and they command the lower reaches of the Yangtze Kiang. It is obvious that if the Marshal could carry out this project, the whole situation in China would be profoundly changed. He has shown ability and firmness of late in his administration of the provinces under his charge, and originality in the consolidation of the districts round Shanghai into a single large municipality. It is significant that he took this step with the acknowledged purpose of supporting a Chinese claim for the return to China of the foreign settlements of Shanghai.

More interesting just now is his attitude towards Peking. This, too, is a little obscure. If good government emerges in Peking—a turn of phrase which implies that it has not yet emerged, and that possibly it may never emerge there—Marshal Sun will give it his support. Should it fail to emerge, he will not interfere, nor will he brook interference from it. The last words, at all events, are clear. They are a frank declaration of rebellion against any Central Government which the Marshal does not consider "good."

CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS AND RUSSIA.

The Daily Telegraph, referring to the report of the four Conservative members who have been visiting Soviet Russia, says:—Their mission, of course, was entirely unofficial, and many of the judgments which they have formed are little likely to be welcomed in Conservative circles. It looks as if their overmastering desire for the restoration of the Russian market, which, as they say, would be of considerable benefit to our unemployed, has somewhat numbed their critical faculties. They are probably right as to the firm establishment of the Soviet power and its unassailability from without. But if "a diplomatic and commercial settlement satisfactory to both sides" is within the bounds of possibility in the near future, as their report suggests, we are bound to say that the evidence of its nearness is not to be found in this particular document.

THE LEE-STACK FUND.

SUDAN GOVERNMENT'S DECISION.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

CAIRO, Monday.

The Sudan Government has decided to utilise the Lee-Stack Indemnity Fund for the following subjects:—To build a new medical research laboratory of the same type as that of the Kitchener School of Medicine; to provide for a travelling railway laboratory, and to combat opthalmia, principally in the Northern Sudan, and to carry out improvements on the Omdurman Leper Settlement.

It is anticipated that these allotments will exhaust about half the fund. The use of the remainder is still under consideration.—(Per Press Association, copyright.)

TO END SUSPICIONS.

NEW FRANCO-GERMAN ORGANISATION.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

A number of prominent French and German business men and politicians met yesterday on the estate of M. Mayrich, an industrialist, near Luxemburg. A committee has been constituted officially under the modest name of "The Committee for Information and Documentation," which, it is said, is to eliminate all unjustifiable causes for mutual suspicion.

There will be permanent offices, both in Berlin and Paris. It is expected that the conversations begun on the estate of M. Mayrich will lead to important developments, not only in regard to special Franco-German agreements for industrial purposes, but also in a more general way. It is expected that the question of the revision of the Dawes scheme for German reparations will inevitably be touched upon in the near future by the committee.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE.

THE SPIRIT OF PEACE.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday.

Showers of rain did not damp the enthusiasm of the thousands of people who attended the sesquicentennial celebration here of the declaration of America's independence. The proceedings opened with a salute of 150 guns. Speeches were made by Mr. Kellogg, the Secretary of State, and Mr. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce.

Mr. Kellogg assured his hearers that the spirit that had animated the founders of the Republic was alive to-day; but, he added, America's reluctance to take part in war had often been shown, both by her participation in International Arms Conferences and by other ways in which she had encouraged the cause of peace.—(Reuter.)

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

CHICAGO, Monday.

The officials of the Eucharistic Congress, which is to be held here next month, to-day circulated the Papal Brief and Benediction, which will be read at the opening of the Congress on June 20th, and a message, signed by the Holy Father, delegating Cardinal Bonzano to preside over the Congress as his representative.—(Reuter.)

SENATOR BORAH'S "BOMBSHELL."

A CHAMPION OF PROHIBITION.

BID FOR "DRY" VOTE.

PROHIBITION is to be one of the main issues of the next Presidential election in the United States, and what The Times New York Correspondent describes as "a political sensation of the first magnitude" has been caused by a speech by Senator Borah, who has come out unequivocally in support of prohibition.

Senator Borah declared his belief that the liquor traffic is a curse to the human family, and attacked New York State for its failure to aid in the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

Other politicians have said these things almost as emphatically as Senator Borah, but none of them has stood in his unique position as a possible Presidential candidate. The fact that he should have made this declaration just at this time, when the "Wets" were popularly supposed to have gained great strategic advantages over the "Drys," is regarded as specially significant.

Senator Borah called the proposals for State referendums on prohibition "a peril to the Republic." Any modification of the prohibition law, he said, was an attack on constitutional government.

MAY RUN FOR U.S. PRESIDENCY.

ATTACK ON THE "WETS."

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

Senator Borah, in an address before the delegates to the Presbyterian General Assembly at Baltimore, virtually grasped the leadership of the "dry" cause, and cast his hat into the ring for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The Senator denounced liquor as a curse to the human family, and bitterly assailed the New York State for its plans for a referendum against the Volstead Act. He asserted that New York State "showed disloyalty to the fundamental principles of government" when it refused to enforce the Federal law.

His remarks are taken here as a slap at Governor Al Smith, who is looked upon as the likely winner in the Democratic Presidential nomination for the "wet" platform. Senator Borah has also been opposing President Coolidge on the World Court, and other measures and flirting with the old La Follette (irreconcilable) bloc in Congress; so that the politicians believe his "dry" advocacy is a bid for Western support, and puts him definitely in the race for Presidential nomination, even though President Coolidge runs.

BALLOON RACE

WON BY AMERICAN PILOT.

BRUSSELS, Monday (Later).

The Gordon-Bennett Balloon Race has been won by the American pilot, Mr. Van Orman, whose balloon landed at Soelvesborg, Sweden, to-day. He was forced to descend for fear of being blown over the Baltic. The seventeen competitors started from here on Sunday afternoon.

The Belgian balloon, Prince Leopold, came down at 11 o'clock last night in the Duchy of Oldenburg, Germany, owing to a snowstorm. The second Belgian balloon, Aerostiers I., landed at Tilburg, Holland. The third Belgian balloon, Belgica, landed at Ornesburg, Holland.

The British balloon, Miramar, landed yesterday evening at Deventer, Holland. The American Army balloon, S 16, came down this morning four kilometres south of the railway station at Krecow, Mecklenburg. The British balloon, Banshee III., landed at 8.15 last night at Veghel, near Boxtel, in Holland.—(Reuter.)

FRENCH FINANCE.

ANOTHER ACRIMONIOUS DEBATE EXPECTED.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

It looks as if there will be another acrimonious debate in the Chamber to-morrow. A section of the Socialist-Radical group is in revolt against the Government. It consists of some of those deputies who hold that the principles of democracy are in danger if the Government does not consult Parliament and obtain its approval at every stage.

They were indignant with M. Briand for refusing to reply to interpellations on financial questions last Thursday, and their anger was not in the least allayed when they found that a résume of the Government's intentions had been communicated to the Press on Saturday evening.

This gave them the information for which they had been asking, but deprived them of the opportunity of discussing it. They will certainly try to provoke a debate to-morrow, and there is every reason to believe that M. Briand will not refuse battle.

Two fresh interpellations have been put down to-day, emanating from the two sections of the Socialist-Radical Party. The first is from M. Hulin, one of the fractious group, and is concerned with the communiqué made to the Press on Saturday, which he and his friends regard as an insult to the rights of the Chamber.

The second, which comes from M. Jacquier, a firm supporter of the Government, deals with its general policy, and there is reason to believe that he is bringing it by arrangement with M. Briand in order to give the latter an opportunity of making a full declaration of the Government's attitude and intentions, both with regard to finance and to electoral reform.

The Prince of Wales was present at the annual dinner of the Grenadier Guards Club, which was held at the Hotel Victoria, London, last evening.

FUTURE OF ABD-EL-KRIM.

M. STEEG'S STATEMENT.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

FEZ, Sunday.

At 11 o'clock this morning Abd-el-Krim, accompanied by his uncle, Bogibar, and his cousin, Si Mohammed, arrived at Taza, and surrendered to General Boichut.

Abd-el-Krim was turned over at once to Colonel Huot, who will hold him at Taza until a decision is taken as to what shall be done with him. No ceremony marked the surrender.

M. Steeg, the Resident-General, this morning told me the French official attitude towards Abd-el-Krim. "France must neither exalt nor humiliate him," he said. "He will be treated as an enemy commander, who has been made a prisoner of war—no more, and no less. He can no longer be considered as chief of the Beni Ouriaghel, his own tribe, because yesterday they signalled their submission to France before me."

The surrender of all Beni Zeroual tribes who joined Abd-el-Krim in 1923, and hold one of the most important sections of the Riff, took place yesterday in the picturesque mountains of Amjot. M. Steeg made a speech to more than 5,000 tribesmen, declaring that France would forget all past quarrels, and would work for peace in the Riff.

The caravan of 210 mules, bearing Abd-el-Krim's wives and his gold arrived at Targuist last night under convoy. With the caravan were a number of Riffian nobles, including relatives of Abd-el-Krim. To-morrow the French prisoners held by the Riffians will arrive at Fez, where they will be greeted by M. Steeg.

General Simon, who directed the negotiations at Ujda, has arrived in Morocco to discuss the future of the Riff with the Spanish authorities. I learn from authoritative sources that the disposition of Abd-el-Krim is giving rise to difficulties between France and Spain. The Spanish are expected to start a bitter campaign against him, on the score of alleged atrocities committed upon Spanish prisoners, but I have been led to believe that the French will unofficially undertake his defence by countering with proofs of atrocities committed against Riffian prisoners by the Spanish.

CHURCHES RAIDED.

MARAUDERS AT LARGE IN KING'S COUNTY.

Clareen (Birr) Protestant church and Clareen Roman Catholic church were raided on last Friday night. Entrance was effected to the Protestant church through a broken window. The vestry was ransacked, and a safe, in which it was understood there was some money, smashed. It appears that the robber, or robbers, experienced some difficulty in opening the safe, and went to a forge in the district where they secured a sledge hammer, crow-bars and other implements.

In the Roman Catholic church a press in the vestry was broken open, and vestments, altar bread and other articles scattered about. The Catholic Truth Society collection box in the church was smashed, and the contents stolen.

On the same night the residence of the Rev. E. Purcell, P.P., Clareen, was entered, the rooms ransacked, and drawers broken open, but only a bicycle, the property of Father Purcell's workman, was taken away. The bicycle was found abandoned the next day, a shop in Clareen being visited by the marauder, or mauraders, and a better machine stolen. Father Purcell was asleep in the house at the time of the raid.

On last Sunday night an attempt was made to enter the residence of Mrs. Stanley, Main street, Shinrone. Mrs. Stanley heard a noise at the shutters, and gave the alarm. Civic Guards promptly arrived on the scene, just in time to observe two men making off through the fields. The Guards gave chase, but the two suspected men eluded them in the darkness.

Our Birr Correspondent states that there have been a number of mysterious visits to houses in South King's County during the past few weeks, including those of the Rev. J. Moloney, P.P. Dunkerrin, and the Rev. Mr. McGinley, Rector, Banagher. In all cases the object of the visitors appears to have been money or valuables.

The Civic Guards, under Superintendent Dennehy, Birr, are pursuing inquiries.

A COUNTY COUNCIL SCHOLARSHIP.

ECCLESIASTICAL STUDENT'S CLAIM.

Judge McElligott, sitting at the Listowel Circuit Court, heard a suit in which James Cremin, an infant, suing by his father, D. J. Cremin, Henry street, Kenmare, was the plaintiff, and Mr. John O'Farrell, Commissioner appointed to discharge the duties of the Kerry County Council, defendant.

It appeared that the plaintiff in May, 1925, sat for an examination for a County Council Scholarship, and took first place, which entitled him to a £70 scholarship, tenable at the National University. With the consent of the County Council Scholarships Committee, he was taking a University course in Arts in Maynooth—a recognised college of the National University. The defendant, however, held that the scholarship was tenable only at University College, Dublin, and that if the Scholarships Committee sanctioned any other course it was subject to the approval of the Commissioner, and he had refused to give such approval. The Commissioner relied on Clause 18 of the conditions, on which scholarships were offered, which, he said, showed that his decision was final, and that there was no appeal from it.

Mr. D. Downing (instructed by Mr. F. A. Downing), for the Commissioner, said that the defendant relied on that clause. The scholarship moneys claimed by the plaintiff were provided under Section 10 (2) of the Irish Universities Act, 1908, and the demand made by the plaintiff for payment was a payment devoted to religious purposes, and that payment would be illegal, and liable to surcharge.

His lordship held as a matter of law and fact that the plaintiff in pursuing his studies for a University course in Maynooth was entitled to the benefit of the scholarship, but in view of Clause 18, he adjourned the case for further consideration by the authorities.

Mr. T. O'Donnell (instructed by Mr. O'Sullivan) appeared for the plaintiff.

SHOTS FIRED INTO DUNDALK HOUSE.

OCCUPANTS' NARROW ESCAPE.

In the early hours of yesterday morning four revolver shots were fired into the house of James Cassidy, Red Barns, Dundalk. The house is situated on the Robson estate, and its only occupants were Cassidy and his wife, who were in bed at the time. The shots were fired at close range, and three of the bullets entered the bedroom and the fourth went into the kitchen. The bullets hit the wall four inches above the bed.

For some time past there has been trouble in connection with the letting of the late Miss Robson's land, and a few months ago trees were felled across the road on the morning for which a letting was advertised. It is believed that the present outrage is connected with this trouble. Cassidy had been employed as a herd with the late Miss Robson.

CLONTARF TOWN HALL MEETING

At the meeting in the Clontarf Town Hall on Sunday, regarding the new chapel of ease for the parish, it was stated that the amount collected by the weekly collectors since the beginning of the present year was £324 9s. 4d., and not £180, as appears in the report of the proceedings.

James Connaughton, publican, Athlone, was fined 21s. for allowing consumption of drink on his premises after closing hours on a recent Saturday night. A number of persons, including members of the Free State Army, were fined 10s. each for being on the premises.

DISARMAMENT.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AND EUROPE.

CAUSE OF WORLD WAR.

In the course of a speech which he delivered in Washington yesterday on disarmament, President Coolidge said that, while Americans should not under-estimate the difficulties of European nations, nor fail to extend to them patience and sympathetic consideration, they could not fail to express the conviction that those countries were in great need of further limitations of armaments.

He expressed the opinion that, to a large extent, the economic conditions of Europe drove over-burdened countries into the world war. They were engaged, he said, in maintaining competitive armaments, and cracked under the load, and sought relief by pillaging each other.

WORLD PEACE.

AMERICA'S CONTRIBUTION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

In the course of a Memorial Day address at the Arlington National Cemetery to-day, President Coolidge said that "common-sense" should be America's contribution to world peace.

"We believe," the President said, "that the other nations ought to join with us in laying aside their suspicions and hatreds sufficiently to agree among themselves upon the methods of mutual relief from the necessity of the maintenance of great land and sea forces. This cannot be done if we constantly have it in mind to resort to war for the redress of wrongs and the enforcement of rights. Europe has the League of Nations. That ought to be able to provide those countries with certain political guarantees which our country does not require. Besides this, there is the World Court which can certainly be used for the determination of all justifiable disputes.

"We should not underestimate the difficulties of European nations nor fail to extend to them in the highest degree patience and the most sympathetic consideration; but we cannot fail to assert our conviction that they are in great need of further limitations of armaments."

FOREIGN WAR DEBTS.

Referring to the preliminary Disarmament Conference, the President continued: "We have entered the Conference with the utmost good faith on our part, and in the sincere belief that it represents the utmost good faith on their part. We want to see the problems that are there presented stripped of all technicalities, and met and solved in a way that would secure practical results. We stand ready to give our support to every effort that is made in that direction."

Speaking briefly on the subject of foreign war debts, Mr. Coolidge said that they had been liquidated on a broad, moral, humanitarian basis, and added: "We believe the adjustments which have been made will be mutually beneficial to the trade relations of the countries involved, and that out of these economic benefits will be derived additional guarantees for the stability of the peace of the world."

THE WORLD COURT.

Referring to the World Court, he said that the American Government and people fully approved of the efforts to succeed in peace by endeavouring to prevent future wars. While they had consistently refrained from intervening in political relationships of other countries, they had signified their willingness to help where it could be effectively given, as in the practical plan for promoting international justice through the World Court. Such a tribunal furnished a method of the adjustment of international justice in accordance with their treaty rights under generally accepted rules of international law. Here was a forum to which the parties might voluntarily repair in the consciousness that their dignity suffered no diminution, and that their cause would be determined impartially according to the law and the evidence. That was a sensible, direct, efficient and practical method of adjusting differences which could not fail to appeal to the intelligence of the American people.

Declaring that peace had an economic foundation to which too little attention had been given, President Coolidge said that no student could doubt that it was to a large extent the economic conditions of Europe that drove over-burdened countries into the world war. They were engaged in maintaining competitive armaments, and cracked under the load, and sought relief from the intolerable pressure by pillaging each other. It was to avoid a repetition of such a catastrophe that America engaged in the effort to limit armaments, and hoped for a successful issue of the conference now sitting in Geneva.

MONAGHAN APPOINTMENT.

RESULT OF EXAMINATION QUESTIONED.

Sixty-three members attended a meeting of the Monaghan Agricultural Committee, Senator T. Toal presiding, at which the principal business was the appointment of a secretary to succeed Mr. P. McGeough, who has been appointed Secretary of the Monaghan County Council.

The Committee some time ago decided to have the appointment made by competitive examination, and the names of three candidates were sent down by the Department as having qualified. A fourth candidate, Mr. M. Boyle, Carrickmacross, issued a circular to the members challenging the result, and asking to have his papers submitted to an independent professor, pointing out that he won the County University Scholarship, and now held the degrees of B.A. and B.Com.

Mr. E. Kelly inquired if they had any report of the actual examination.

The Chairman said that they had nothing but the letter of the Department giving the names sanctioned. Knowing that there was a good deal of difference of opinion, he took it on himself to call at the office of the Department of Agriculture to ask if it was possible to get particulars of the examination to place before that Committee, but they declined to give any information. He would now like to ask the representative of the Department, Mr. Johnston, who was present, if this examination had been conducted entirely by the Civil Service Commissioners.

Mr. Johnston said that it had.

Chairman—Are you a member of the Civil Service Commission?

Mr. Johnston—No, but I was delegated by the Department for this particular examination.

The Chairman said that was what he was at. The examination was not conducted entirely by the Civil Service Commission, and one of the examiners was a man who was an inspector in that particular county, and who knew a great deal about what was going on.

A long discussion ensued, and several resolutions were proposed, but eventually a motion by Mr. T. Brennan was carried, calling upon the Department to afford facilities to two representatives of that Committee to examine the papers of the various candidates and report to that Committee. In the meantime the appointment stands adjourned.

SOLDIER DROWNED.

The body of a soldier, in an advanced state of decomposition, was yesterday picked up in Dover Harbour near the eastern arm. The deceased man is believed to have belonged to the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, as two privates from that battalion have been missing since about May 8th.

On that date a boat was missed from the Dover Rowing Club. On the beach a few days later the boat was found upside down near Folkestone. The loss of the boat has so far remained a mystery, but whether this was connected with the absence of the two soldiers may be cleared up to-day, when the inquest will be held.

Mr. James J. Coen, Athlone, Chairman of the Westmeath County Council, has been appointed a Peace Commissioner.

each of the Irish units, disbanded or existing, requesting them to nominate representatives to accompany the tour. As the funds for this purpose are limited, it has not been found possible to pay the expenses of more than two other ranks from each of the infantry corps and one from each of the cavalry and departmental units. Naturally, men with good war records are being chosen. General Hickie, who is working enthusiastically for the success of the tour, is proceeding to France next week in connection with the final arrangements.

Many representative people are interesting themselves in the arrangements, and it is probable that all the Irish Generals will accompany the pilgrimage. The Irish Club in London has expressed a desire to be represented, as has also the London Headquarters of the British Legion. Guards of honour from the French and Belgian Armies will be present at the unveiling ceremonies, as well as distinguished officers from their Headquarters General Staffs. The Belgian Army is sending one of its finest military bands to the Wytschaete ceremony, and it is anticipated that a French military band will take part in the function at Guillemont. Pipers and drummers of the Irish Guards will play national airs en route.

A NATIONAL MEMORIAL.

No detail has been overlooked by the organisers of the tour. There will be a large supply of wreaths available for those who may wish to purchase them at the sites of the crosses, and it is being arranged also that those who are unable to cross with the party may order in advance a wreath to be placed upon any soldier's grave in any part of France or Flanders.

It is fitting that the memorial project has stirred the imagination of the people, ex-soldiers and civilians alike, and it is, after all, but the just due of those who survive. Amid the welter of revolutionary upheaval and the subsequent questions of reconstruction that have had to be faced, the Irish soldiers have, perhaps, not counted sufficiently with the State. "They are now coming into their own," as General Hickie puts it. It is time, indeed. Is it generally realised that there is no national memorial to the deeds of the Irish regiments on the battlefields of Europe or the East? The 36th (Ulster) Division is commemorated in the beautiful monument at Thiepval, where thousands of officers and men of the Inniskillings, the Royal Irish Rifles and other units gallantly lost their lives. At Ypres there is a Celtic cross erected to the memory of the men of Munster who died in battle, but there is no Irish national memorial. The crosses to be erected at Wytschaete and Guillemont will serve to remind pilgrims of the scenes of fiercely-fought battles that the memory of the brave officers and men of the 16th (Irish) Division lives in the breasts of the people of Ireland.

THE TENTH (IRISH) DIVISION.

There will still be the 10th (Irish) Division, whose exploits at Suvla and in Serbia are not commemorated in stone, though they won undying fame. Soon, it is hoped, a little granite cross will be erected in Serbia to the memory of the men of the 10th (Irish) Division—the first of the three famous formations to leave these shores for active service.

The 16th (Irish) Division throughout the campaign had its ranks depleted again and again. Over 55,000 officers and men served in it, and of these the appalling total of 26,500 were either killed or wounded.

The divisional memorial scheme had a modest origin. During 1917, when the 16th Division was at Locre, a Celtic cross was designed by the Divisional Commander, Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie, on a piece of blotting paper. From this design a cross was executed from some old oak beams found in a ruined house by the Divisional pioneers out gathering wood for fire-lighting. That cross, a picture of which we reproduce on another page, was erected between the villages of Guillemont and Ginchy, and there it still stands. Twice afterwards the ground on which it is placed was hotly contested in two big battles, but, except for a few bullet marks, the wooden cross remained unscathed. There is no stone to be found on the Somme, and the base of the cross had to be made of coal, covered with several layers of cement. The cross, which has stood the test of time and the weather well, is now to be replaced by the massive Celtic cross of Irish granite. The new cross is of simple and chaste design, an exact copy in every detail of the wooden one, and similar to that which has been erected by the citizens of Longford in their Market square. The crosses are each thirteen feet high and each weighs six tons.

MEMORIAL IN SERBIA.

A third cross of similar design is to be erected at some future date in Serbia. It is somewhat smaller than the others, because, in the absence of roads or railways, it will have to be carried a considerable part of the journey into that country by bullock cart. It will be erected to the officers and men of the 10th (Irish) Division who died in the war.

The inscription on both monuments is similar:—

1914 "Do-chum Glóire Dé agus onóra na hEireann." 1918

"In commemoration of the victory of Wytschaete, June 7th, 1917; all those who fell therein and all Irishmen who gave their lives in the Great War. R.I.P."

BIG FIRE IN LISBURN.

EARLY MORNING OUTBREAK IN MILL.

Considerable damage was done by a fire which broke out at 4 o'clock yesterday morning in the winding room of Messrs. Robert Stewart and Sons, Limited, Lisburn. The fire spread with great rapidity, and, in addition to the mill and town Fire Brigades, the Belfast Fire Brigade was sent for, and by six o'clock the flames were extinguished.

Much of the valuable machinery was reduced to scrap and two engines were badly damaged.

COUNTY ARMAGH PREMISES GUTTED.

The dwelling-house and premises of Mr. James W. Whelan, M.P.S.I., Meeting street, Keady, were completely gutted by fire yesterday morning.

Constable Graham motored to Armagh for the Fire Brigade, which were quickly on the scene.

The efforts of the brigade men were confined to saving the adjoining premises of Mr. John Blackstock and Miss E. Fegan, the contents of the former being turned out into the street. Mr. Whelan was away for the week-end.

LICENSED PREMISES DESTROYED.

On last Sunday morning the licensed premises of Mr. Patrick Henry, situate near the golf links, Greenore, were destroyed by fire. Mr. Henry, who sleeps alone on the premises, had to jump through a side window to escape from the burning house. The damage is estimated at several hundred pounds.

MANCHURIAN ARMY DRIVEN BACK.

TWO DAYS OF DESPERATE FIGHTING.

KUOMINCHUN ADVANCES TOWARDS PEKING.

THE most remarkable event in China is the revival of the Kuominchun (National Army), which is reported to have broken the Manchurian Army line, after two days of desperate fighting, and has compelled the Manchurian forces to fall back on a new line twelve miles north of Peking.

Still later reports from our own correspondent at Peking say that the Kuominchun are advancing successfully against the Shansi troops at Tatung. Peking is apprehensive, in view of another possible Nationalist victory.

The flight of the Manchurian forces is intensified by the mutiny of its bandit division at Lanfeng, which has interrupted military communication and impeded general transport.

MANCHURIAN ARMY'S TROUBLE.

RETIRING ON NEW LINE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PEKING, Monday.

After two days of desperate fighting, the Kuominchun (Nationalist) Army, debouching from the Nankow Pass, has broken the Manchurian Army line, compelling the Manchurian forces to retire to a new line, twelve miles north of Peking.

The Kuominchun forces are still holding this new captured territory, and apprehension is felt in Peking that the Kuominchun forces may again occupy the capital.

The Manchurian Army, it is reported, is beset by new troubles, owing to the mutiny of its bandit division at Langfang, midway between Peking and Tientsin, which has caused suspension of all traffic. The mutineers have been disarmed, but many have escaped and are marauding and looting the countryside.

The Kuominchun Commander asserts that he has recovered possession of the railway across Northern Shansi, thus again uniting his scattered armies, and making possible strong reinforcements on the Peking front.

What adds to the mystery of the present offensive of the Kuominchun Armies, apart from the necessity of obtaining food, is the apparent inactivity of Marshal Wu Pei-fu's troops, which, thus far, have not been engaged.

The unofficial report of a break between Marshal Wu Pei-fu and Marshal Chang Tso-Lin is not confirmed, but it is certain that the Wu Pei-fu troops are remaining inactive against the Kuominchun on all fronts.

The Foreign Legations here believe that a further overturn of the Government is imminent, as not a single Minister has yet entered the new Yen Cabinet. The present situation makes it doubtful whether the scheduled final session of the Tariff Conference will be held on Wednesday.

Latest reports received here indicate that the Kuominchun Army is successfully advancing against the Shansi troops at Tatung. This circumstance and other indications of Nationalist successes are increasing the apprehension felt here at the probable outcome of another big Nationalist victory.

EXCITEMENT AT PEKING.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PEKING, Monday.

Two occurrences on Saturday caused a good deal of excitement, on the assumption that they were related and boded a new outbreak of war in this region.

A large body of troops, stationed between Peking and Tientsin, mutinied, and caused a suspension of railway traffic for thirty-six hours. Apparently order has been restored, as the trains are running again. The other event was the sudden descent of the Kuominchun (National) armies from the Nanhow Pass and the occupation of Changpingchow, twenty miles north of Peking. Part of the Allied line was hastily withdrawn to a point eleven miles north of Peking.

Heavy artillery bombardment was heard yesterday, but there were no untoward developments to-day. Shansi troops are reported to have been heavily engaged by the Kuominchun in the Tatungfu region, and both sides claim important victories.—(Per Press Association, copyright.)

CANTON NORTHERN EXPEDITION DELAYED.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

HONG KONG, Monday.

Up to the present, the Canton Northern expedition has not left the Kwantung Province, because it is given out that the transport is inadequate. Out of a total strength of approximately 100,000 it is proposed to send 50,000 to the North. Of these only 25,000 have as yet been concentrated on the Tiangsi borders.

It is stated that the reasons for delay are fears of a rising at home, and distrust of the Hunan General Tong Shang-Chi, whom Chang Kai-Shek, the Canton commander, wishes to see exhausted before the Canton forces move. The Independent General, Shen Hung-Yang, is also threatening Kweilin in Kwangsi, and the Tuchun of Yunan, Tang Chi-Yao, who still controls that province, is also expected to attack Kwangsi if an opportunity offers. Meanwhile, Chang Kai-Shek is engaged in conciliating all the Canton parties. His own troops will take part in the Northern expedition.

The approach of the first anniversary of the strike and boycott finds the Chinese banks in Hong Kong again embarrassed, owing to the falling due of last year's loans, and the difficulty of obtaining fresh security, but there are hopeful signs in Canton, where the Government has announced the cancellation of the oil monopoly, and has instructed the Foreign Affairs Department to negotiate a speedy settlement with Hong Kong.—(Per Press Association, Copyright.)

ALLEGED SHOP ROBBER.

CHASED THROUGH DUBLIN STREETS.

An exciting chase through Marlborough street, Sackville place and Sackville street, Dublin, last night ended in the capture of a man who was alleged to have stolen a sum of money, amounting to about 30s., from Mr. James Desmond's shop in Lower Abbey street.

The man entered the shop and asked for cigarettes. It is alleged that as the assistant was about to serve him the man went behind the counter and took the money. He was pursued by a number of civilians as far as Sackville street. Here Detective Officer McGillion joined in the chase and tripped up the fugitive. At Store street police station he stated that he was a temporary postman. He will be charged in the District Court to-day.

WORKERS' PARTY OF IRELAND.

Mr. John Connolly, son of the late Mr. James Connolly, was the principal speaker at a public meeting held in Delvin, County Westmeath, on last Sunday for the purpose of forming a branch of the Workers' Party of Ireland. The general principle of the organisation, Mr. Connolly said, was to join together the workers and farmers of the country in order to promote the interests of labour and to have the ranches divided amongst the landless people. The ultimate object of the organisation was the establishment of a workers' republic.

Mr. T. Kelly, a '67 man, said that the farmer could never profitably till the land unless protective tariffs were imposed on foreign goods.

COAL DEADLOCK.

THE MINERS DETERMINED.

STARVATION RATHER THAN SUBMISSION.

Speaking at Pleasley, near Mansfield, yesterday, Mr. Frank Hall, the Derbyshire miners' leader, said that it was impossible for the men to accept lower wages. They would not surrender one farthing. They might be driven to it, but they would starve before they would give in.

"If they get you to seven and a half hours," he declared, "you will never get it back." The owners had taken their cue from Frank Hodges, who should mind his own business. The Federation might refuse to pay to the International till he was cleared out if he were not very careful. The Government's proposals were too silly to laugh at, and Mr. Baldwin could not have inquired into the industry before he made them. As intelligent men they could not accept them. There might be some changes this week, but not in the men's favour. As soon as the time-limit was up pressure would be brought to bear upon the owners to open their pits, and if they did not do so the Government would.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN CONTRIBUTION.

The Russian Miners' Trade Union yesterday remitted a sum of 27,000 roubles as a first instalment from the various co-operative societies in aid of the British miners, says a Moscow telegram.

CO-PARTNERSHIP REFUSED.

Chirk, Denbighshire, miners yesterday declined the offer from the Brynkinelt Colliery Company of co-partnership if they returned to work on an eight hours' day basis and a ten per cent. reduction. Notwithstanding this decision, the company has determined to open the pit to-day.

£30,000 THEFT CHARGE.

ALLEGED ILLEGAL DEALINGS IN PALM KERNELS.

Eight men were remanded at Liverpool yesterday on a charge of conspiring to steal palm kernels, valued at £30,000, from the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board. They were Captain Arthur G. L. Large (52), manager of Porterage and Warehousing; John Joseph Smith, formerly a freight clerk in the Elder Dempster Company, and now a dealer in waste material; John William Smith, his father, in the employment of the Elder Dempster Company; Charles Cormode, head foreman; Alexander Watson, outside foreman; Richard Barlow and James Edward Huyton.

The prosecution stated that sweepings and scrapings accumulated on the quays, and the practice of the shipping companies, if no owner claimed them, was to deal with the accumulations themselves. Captain Large was authorised by the company to sell the material and clear the quays, but if it was sound and marketable it had to be submitted to the Claims Department. It was held that in this case genuine produce had been sold under the guise of sweepings. Chief Inspector Burgess had found that Smith, jun., had been dealing in palm kernels since November, 1922, and had disposed of large quantities for £35,000. The Elder Dempster Company received £7,975. That was the subject matter of the case, said the prosecuting solicitor.

POLISH PRESIDENCY.

DECLINED BY MARSHAL PILSUDSKI.

WARSAW, Monday.

On being informed of his election as President of the Polish Republic, Marshal Pilsudski sent to M. Ratay, Marshal of the Diet, the following letter, declining the honour:—

I thank the National Assembly for my election a second time in my life. My acts and historic labours, which, alas, formerly met with opposition and lack of sympathy in a rather large measure, have been legalised. Unfortunately, I am not in a position to accept election. I can but emphasise once again that I cannot live without work. Now the Constitution in force precisely keeps the President aloof from such work. I should have to suffer too much, to bend too much; another sort of character is wanted for that. I ask pardon for the disappointment I have caused, not only to those who voted for me, but also to those who, outside the Assembly, required this thing of me. My conscience, to which I have appealed a thousand times in the last few days, does not allow me to comply with these requests. Conveying my thanks once more for my election, I call for the immediate election of a fresh President of the Republic. May God prosper it.

(Signed) PILSUDSKI.

In face of this situation, Marshal Ratay at once started conferences with the party leaders, with a view to ascertaining opinions as to candidates for the Presidency, and announced later that he is calling the Assembly together again for to-morrow to elect a new President.—(Reuter.)

EVOLUTION TRIAL.

ECHO OF THE DAYTON FARCE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, Monday.

The celebrated Scopes's evolution case again figures in the day's news. It will be remembered that Mr. John T. Scopes, a young High School teacher, on July 21st, 1925, was found guilty at Dayton, Tennessee, of violating the new State law, which forbids the teaching of evolution, and was fined one hundred dollars and costs. The late Mr. W. J. Bryan appeared as witness for the prosecution.

The case has now come before the State Supreme Court here on an appeal by Mr. Neal, Mr. Scopes's counsel, who presented a carefully-prepared technical argument attacking the law, on the ground that it constituted a violation of both the Tennessee and the United States Constitutions, which guarantee liberty of conscience and religion and free speech.

Mr. Charles Strong, of New York, a prominent lawyer and President of the Unitarian Lawyers' League, who appeared for the Unitarian denomination, argued that many sincere Christians saw nothing in the theory of evolution that weakened their faith in God.

Mr. William Jennings Bryan, jun., on the other hand, submitted a written argument in support of the anti-evolution law.—(Reuter.)

AEROPLANE IN THE SEA OFF MALTA.

MALTA, Monday.

Three occupants of a Fairey 3 D aeroplane had a narrow escape here this afternoon, when the machine made a forced descent on the sea off the breakwater. Boats from the Custom House rushed to the assistance of the crew, whom they succeeded in rescuing. The seaplane was then towed alongside the aircraft carrier H.M.S. Eagle.—(Reuter.)

CRUELTY TO ROOKS.

At Enniskillen Petty Sessions yesterday, William James Crozier Conerick was prosecuted by Inspector Shore, U.S.P.C.A., for ill-treating two rooks.

The inspector said that the defendant got two rooks which had been wounded by shot and tied them up in his crop ground as "scare crows." A passing cyclist noticing them took them down, and as they were in a dying condition and unable to fly killed them.

The defendant was fined 5s. and costs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

FREE STATE TARIFFS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I read with much pleasure Mr. O'Shea's letter on the subject of protection in this day's issue of your paper. It is a reasoned and restrained rebuff to those people who are making wild statements about retaliation. There is one irrefutable fact—that farming is a sweated industry, not only here, but all over the world. Capital or labour does not get adequate remuneration out of it. I have never seen the shares of a purely agricultural company quoted on the Stock Exchange. I see the shares of tea-planting, rubber, jute and coffee companies quoted, and "going strong." If agriculture were a paying proposition, it would very quickly be exploited by financiers.

I believe that the only way to improve conditions in Ireland is by protection. As the numbers of the manufacturing population increased, so would the home market for farm produce, until it came to a point when it would be possible to levy a duty on imported food-stuffs, thereby raising the remuneration of all connected with farming. To reach that point would not of necessity mean an increase of population: all that is wanted is an increase in the purchasing power of the people. A man on the "dole" or a half-time agricultural labourer as a purchasing unit is not much use to any country.

The men who propose to resuscitate the Free State by cutting down Ministerial salaries are only fit to "dale in dilisk." Many public companies pay their managing directors, between commission and salaries, £10,000 and £12,000 a year, and it has happened times without number that those men have pulled a bankrupt business into a strong financial condition.—Yours, etc., M. M. HANLY.

Cashel, May 29th, 1926.

PAPER-MAKING IN THE FREE STATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I hope that the efforts which are being made to re-open the very old-established paper mills at Saggart may prove successful, this being the only mill in the Free State that manufactures high-grade writing and account book qualities of paper. Our Government has already "protected" various industries, such as sweets, jams, soaps, candles, boots, clothing, brushes, furniture, etc.; but the wrapping and packing paper industry, which is now "protected" in Great Britain and Northern Ireland by a 16⅔ per cent. ad valorem tariff, is left at the mercy of the foreign manufacturers, who, by reason of depreciated currencies, lower rates of wages and longer working hours, are in a position to continue to dump their products in the Irish Free State.

It is, I think, obvious that the foreigner, being confronted with a tariff in Great Britain and Northern Ireland, will devote even more attention to our Free State market. It surely cannot be stated with truth that the application under present circumstances of a suitable tariff to imported wrapping and packing paper in this country could be construed as an unfriendly act towards our "best customer." The British Government did not lightly embark upon "protection," under the Safeguarding of Industries Act, for this industry. On the contrary, they set up a commission of independent men, who took evidence for and against from all parties concerned, who reported unanimously in favour of the tariff referred to; and surely, if such a step was necessary to save British mills from extinction, the need for Government action here is all the more imperative.

The British tariff does not—very properly—extend to papers such as vegetable parchment, grease-proof and waxed papers, etc., which are not made in the British Isles and are considered as raw material for creameries, sweet, jam and biscuit factories, etc. The British Dominions have for years past imposed tariffs on the various classes of paper which compete with their own mills, and I fail to see why our Government should hesitate to adopt a similar line.—Yours, etc., JOHN IRWIN.

HOUSES FOR THE PEOPLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The leading article on the above subject in your issue of May 26th was of special interest to the citizens of Bray, who have recently, through their Housing Council, established a public utility society with a view to improving the housing conditions in the district. At a public meeting held in Bray on Thursday evening last, organised by the Bray Housing Council, a large and representative gathering assembled in support of the building scheme proposed by the Bray Public Utility Society, Ltd. This scheme, which is in the nature of an initial experiment, provides for the erection of eight four-roomed houses and four five-roomed houses on an excellent site situated on the outskirts of the town. The houses are intended for residents in Bray, and only applications from such will be considered. The estimated cost of every four-roomed house is about £470, and that of the five-roomed house about £530. The Government grant is being utilised and assistance is being given by the Urban District Council (under powers conferred by the Housing Act, 1925), both together amounting to about one-third of the total cost of the scheme. The remaining two-thirds (about £4,000) is to be raised from investors in the form of loan stock which will be issued in multiples of £10 and will bear interest at 5%.

The tenants will become owners of their houses on completion of payments spread over 15, 20 or 25 years in the form of weekly purchasing rents, varying from about 12s. to 17s. per week, according to the size of the house and the period chosen for full repayment. Every tenant, before going into possession, will be required to invest at least £10 in the loan stock of the society. The introduction of this scheme would not have been possible were it not for a growing sense of citizenship which has manifested itself among the local community. Already a promising response has been made to the appeal for investment in the loan stock of the Utility Society, and the Housing Council are confident that the amount asked for will be forthcoming before long.—Yours, etc.,

J. W. GENTLEMAN, Honorary Secretary, Bray Public Utility Society, Ltd.

MOTOR REGULATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I am taking my car over to England for a short period: I did the same about this time last year. I find, on making inquiries, that it is necessary to repeat all the formalities connected with examination in driving and obtaining a new international travelling passport. The latter appears to expire completely after twelve months without power of renewal.

Surely such regulations cause an unnecessary amount of trouble and expense. Could not a driving licence issued in Ireland be a sufficient guarantee in England and vice versa? There should be more sympathy between the two countries in this respect, and certainly associateship of the R.I.A.C. or R.A.C. should be a sufficient guarantee, without these annually recurring complications.—Yours, etc., T. C. GOFF, Major.

Dublin, May 31st, 1926.

SALMON FISHING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As a drift-net fisherman, I would like to say that we have to thank the Fishery Minister for the big improvement in the number of salmon this season in the Lower Shannon. If it goes on, it will give a lot of employment to poor men. It was not worth any man's while to wet a net years back, but we are all saying that it is time that all the owners of the Shannon salmon fisheries should bestir themselves and give a helping hand to the business. Mr. Lynch was not even told in time about the need of seal guns; so we have to pay a game licence of £2 now to shoot these destructive pests. Our nets are destroyed by them and they are doing terrible injury to the salmon.

Of course, we ought not to have to pay more than 5s. Like the farmer, we had nothing to pay before now. We cannot afford to pay a £2 licence; so we have no guns and the river is swarming with seals—a ruination to nets and fish alike. There are lots of other matters to be seen to, and we hope that every fisherman and fishery-owner will join up with those who have been moving and do their bit. If they do not, they cannot blame the Minister for what comes from their own neglect.—Yours, etc., MAURICE ENRIGHT.

Ballylongford, Co. Kerry, May 29th, 1926.

THE LUCAN TRAMWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It appears as though Lucan will not have its transit facilities restored unless a sum of £5,250 is paid for the widening of narrow and dangerous corners in the various townships. The sum is not large, and if the Tramway Company had only this sum to consider there is little doubt that they would have come to an agreement with the townships. It must be remembered, however, that the Tramway Company have agreed to expend a sum of £70,000 in acquiring and reconstructing the Lucan line, and to incur considerable expense for re-surfacing of roads, etc. I quite agree with Surgeon McArdle that these road improvements should be paid for out of the Road Fund, but I suggest that, in order to remove the present deadlock, the Tramway Company might contribute half of the amount required.

The whole question is one of national importance, and the extension of the lease to the Tramway Company would mean:—

1.—A guarantee to the city, county and townships of large annual payments for way-leaves, rates and maintenance of roads, for a further period of 30 years. At present these payments amount to almost £100,000 per annum.

2.—The development of the Lucan district by means of a through tramway service to the centre of the city.

3.—The increased value of the Tramway Company as an asset to the city, the county and the townships.

4.—The employment of hundreds of men at present unemployed and consequent relief of taxation.

The road improvements in the townships would relieve congestion to traffic and would greatly benefit the public generally. If President Cosgrave called a further conference of all concerned and suggested a compromise, there is little doubt that a settlement would be quickly arrived at.—Yours, etc., B. J. HANNAN.

BOOKSTALL GIRL'S SUICIDE

"THE BLESSED STRIKE FINISHED ME."

Winnie Cottingham (21), employed at the Haywards Heath Railway Station Bookstall, met her death last Friday by jumping on to the line. At the inquest yesterday the East Sussex Coroner read the following letter:—

"My head is so funny again that I believe I am going mad, so please forgive me for what I am going to do. I cannot stay at home, because it gets worse. I cannot eat, sleep, or do anything. It's the blessed strike that finished me. I have done nothing wrong at the bookstall. Everything seems to be in such a hopeless muddle since the strike."

A CALF WITH THREE LEGS.

A Lincoln red cow, the property of a Gainsborough farmer, has given birth to a calf with only three legs—two hind legs and one front leg on the near side. Within twelve hours it put its head in a bucket of milk and drank the lot. It is healthy and strong, and as "frisky" as the other calves. Before it steps out with its one front leg it gives the other shoulder-blade a "twist."

LIFE'S REFLECTIONS.

MR. CHARLES DORAN'S LECTURE.

Mr. Charles Doran gave a lecture yesterday afternoon in the Examiners' Hall, Royal College of Surgeons, on "Life's Reflections, with Shakesperian References." The Rev. William Anderson, Mountjoy School, presided.

The stage, Mr. Doran said, is perhaps the most searching and strenuous academy in which we can gain knowledge and experience. It is extraordinary the difference between life as it appears when we are young and what it actually is as we grow older. We are always anxious to know what is at the end of the road, what the turning will be; and that is the great incentive to progress, to it we owe all the gifts that we now enjoy, it is the reason why life has been made more possible, more graceful, as it is to-day. Life is full of shoals, and we need two pilots. The first is unquestionably Christ. Some suppose that Christ is a monopoly belonging to the clergy, something with an ecclesiastical atmosphere; that may be so, but Christ is undoubtedly the most concrete and substantial, the surest guide to conduct in every relation of life, the absolute example of perfect conduct, of the perfect attitude towards other people.

The other side of the picture, the mental exposition of the divine picture is certainly found in Shakespeare. He understood men's difficulties, and has been where we have been, and in his extraordinary revelation of life and his magnificent understanding of every individual we must join issue in recognising that he was the greatest master of philosophy, the greatest exponent of human nature the world has ever known. He lived in an age of great adventurers, and in singing his song he laid the foundation of his immortality in those difficult, uncertain times. From that age this part of the globe has substantially got the characteristics that mark it out. He sang his song surely and serenely, and made his debtors for all time by weaving romance which has never been equalled. It is impossible to imagine any other human being commanding such an audience. In his grasp of character he has left us a very sure guide for character and outlook.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

Pleasant singing, graceful dancing, pretty costumes and enjoyable comedy are outstanding features of "The Income-tax Man," a revue in eighteen scenes, by Mrs. Kimberley, which was presented last night at the Olympia Theatre. Arthur Turnbull, a comedian of no mean ability, appeared in most of the scenes, and his excellent humour and clever jokes were very much enjoyed. The vocal items, many of them with choruses, contributed by Kitty Gee, Jill Hayes, Reginald Adair and Jack Hayes, were admirably rendered, and evoked warm applause. The burlesque on the income-tax collector's office and staff provoked considerable mirth, and the skit on a German travelling band made everyone laugh heartily. The Stopit Trio of gymnasts gave a really clever and finished display of tumbling and balancing, and added much to a programme that was thoroughly enjoyed.

SHAKESPEARE COMEDY.

"AS YOU LIKE IT" AT THE GAIETY THEATRE.

"As You Like It" has more of human sweetness in its comedy than "Twelfth Night," but it lacks the vivid variety which makes "Twelfth Night" so gay an entertainment. Fine acting is needed to bring out the full charm of the story of the noble exiles of Arden. In Mr. Doran's production at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, last night, there was at least one passage which we do not wish to see done better—the pleading of old Adam (Mr. Wood) with his young master, Orlando (Mr. Young) to be allowed to follow him to the greenwood. The vibrant voice and plaintive acting of Mr. Wood won many recalls. Miss Kilburn, who has given us so many pretty and pleasing impersonations this season, was not well cast as Rosalind, for she did not quite give that high, mocking spirit which suddenly dissolves in tenderness. Miss Hutchinson gave a cordial, delightful Celia. Mr. Doran himself took the part of melancholy Jaques. His delivery of the Seven Ages speech was an excellent piece of elocution, well applauded, but he was best in passages like the "Ducdame" speech, in which the company played chorus. In these the glowing good humour of Shakespearean comedy warmed the hearts of the audience.

To-night the first performance this season of "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given.

THEATRE ROYAL.

This week's attraction at the Theatre Royal is a show of the revue species, entitled "Dancing Mad." The title fits the whole play admirably, for while there is plenty of fun otherwise, there is what one might describe as a superabundance of dancing by a troupe of girls who, to put it mildly, are not overdressed, but who, nevertheless, do their allotted work with artistic grace and neatness. The men, too, are agile gymnasts and dancers, and thus the interest of the audience never for a moment languishes.

The twelve scenes are, in the majority, picturesque—some are even brilliant. Special mention may be made of the "Nice quiet evening," which Joe O'Wray desired to enjoy at home with his newspaper, when his wife (Miss Mamie Holland) wanted him to bring her to the Palais de Dance. The entry of the comic vicar, of a few neighbours, and the dialogue that ensues, are extremely amusing. The Coster scene is highly diverting, and the singing and dancing, reminiscent of Mile End, are good in every respect. The principal actors are George Cunningham Beatty and George Dorino, Miss Elsie Chantler, Miss Mabel Marks, Lee and Tesnit, E. Arnold, V. Arnold, and Alf Alfa.

Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, the Free State Minister for External Affairs, who has been absent from Dublin for some days, returned yesterday morning via Kingstown.

Do not neglect your health—but don't experiment with it. It is your most valuable possession

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

THE DERBY CARD

COLORADO SHORTENS.

TO-DAY'S RACING.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

There was a call-over of the card on the Derby at the Victoria Club to-day, and the price of Colorado was cut to 13 to 8. A first offer of 900 to 400 was promptly taken. After this followed offers of 1,400 to 800 and then 1,300 to 800. The business done, however, was very small on the whole. Coronach was introduced at 5's and knocked to 6's, there being no desire on the part of anyone present to support him. Some money went on Swift and Sure, but the total sum wagered on all the horses who were backed would have been betted on one candidate alone some years ago without shortening his price by so much as one fraction.

Donoghue has definitely decided not to take a ride in the race, though probably were one or other of the jockeys of the prominent candidates compelled to stand down he would accept the mount. In deference to the big public, who will always back anything he rides in the Derby, he thinks it is better not to give them a chance of throwing away their money on some hopeless outsider. There is no fresh news of any of the candidates, and, so far as can be seen, those who have not already gone to Epsom will leave to-morrow morning for the course in the best of condition.

The Woodcote Stakes, one of the historic two-year-old races, and the first event for the first season horses, to be run over six furlongs this year, is the principal race of to-morrow afternoon. Mrs. Whitburn's colt, Birthright, is under orders for Epsom, so it is practically certain that he will run here instead of waiting for the Great Surrey Foal Plate on Thursday. He won his only race in the best of style, and suggested then that he was a good colt. Fourth Hand, who also runs, has won his two races, and in the last he accomplished a fine performance when he came out of the dip at Newmarket fully three lengths behind Israfil, and then, under severe pressure, got up to beat her. The best may not have been seen of Shian Mor in his race at Hurst Park last Tuesday, and he is likely to run well. Unless there is a very smart novice in the field this event should lie between BIRTHRIGHT and Fourth Hand, and I choose the former to win.

BULGER is quite likely to run for the Craven Plate as a prelude to running for the Coronation Cup on Thursday. I can see nothing in the race in the same class as Mrs. Carthew's unbeaten colt, and only in his absence would I choose Battleshaft, who had some form in Ireland last year, and has done well since coming to England.

The Egmont Plate, a five furlong event, will be an interesting race. Both Golden Clear and Golden Fairy, who each has a 10lb. penalty for winning, the one at Windsor and the other at Hurst Park, at Whitsuntide, are likely to be in the field. Both have fine speed, and both won their races with a good deal in hand. Thamyris has a big pull in the weights with Golden Clear for the beating she gave him at Windsor, but it would be hard to estimate which much she had in hand that afternoon. Bewitched has more than once shown great speed at Epsom, and she is low in the handicap. Monk's Way, who was a high-class two-year-old last season, is also being sent to run, but he has not had a race this season, and he may be better a little later. A good deal, perhaps, will depend on the draw here, and if she has the luck to get a place on the lower ground, I anticipate that GOLDEN CLEAR will win.

I believe there were excuses to be made for the failure of Marine Parade in the Irish Two Thousand, and the colt has been sent to run for the Epsom Handicap, a seven furlong event, which may be too far for the top weight, Thistle Bud. I doubt very much, however, whether Lord Glanely's colt can give 4lbs. and a year to Sweet Rocket, who was only beaten a short head by First Edition II last week. Donoghue rides Rhyolite here, and the colt is fancied, but I shall choose SWEET ROCKET to beat him.

PROUDSTOWN PARK.

AMBERWAVE'S CANTER

PROMISING YOUNG 'CHASERS.

Except for a couple of very heavy showers, the weather was fine, on the whole, for the Proudstown Park meeting yesterday. The attendance was satisfactory, if not very large, the unsettled weather no doubt keeping many people away who otherwise would have been present. It was a most interesting afternoon, so far as the racing was concerned, and some very nice young horses were seen out in the steeplechase events. Backers would hardly have had the best of the deal, although most of the winners were well supported.

For a long way South Pole looked like winning the May Hurdle Handicap, but in the end the much improved Fighting Lights, who was in receipt of 12lb. from Mr. Hartigan's gelding, beat the latter fairly comfortably and found no bidder for his possession at the auction. Mr. Hartigan's colours found more success in the maiden hurdle race for the Traders' Plate, when his four-year-old Tara Prince, a half-brother to Forewarned, scored from the well backed Tredennis filly, Spare Time.

The fact that Amberwave was in the field for the Stewards' Handicap Steeplechase added considerable interest to this event. It came as a mild surprise to find Pactolus staunchly supported to beat the Irish Grand National winner. The race, however, proved a very easy thing for Lady Helen McCalmont's fine jumper, as he finished at his leisure in front of School Girl, the only other to complete the course. Pactolus, pecking on landing over the fence after the open ditch, shot Ward out of the saddle, the rider being badly cut about the head. Mont Blanc in falling gave J. Finn a bad shaking; but both riders were able to leave the course after medical attention.

Some very promising young 'chasers were seen out in the maiden race for the Boyne Plate, for which there were ten runners. Reward, for whom Mr. Hubert Hartigan gave a large sum at the dispersal of the late Mr. McKeever's stud, made his first appearance over fences in this race. He performed creditably, but not so well as Toy Cup, who, making the whole of the running, won comfortably. Golden Bauble did extremely well for a four-year-old, and, always in the picture, finished fourth. As regards the couple of events on the flat, Rapid Rose beat the more fancied New Barn for the Teltown Plate, and Boss Malone earned the first posthumous honours for his sire by flooring the long odds laid on Bridge of Athlone for the Bachelors' Plate. EPSOM.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

There are indications that this year's Epsom Meeting will be quite up to the usual standard, in spite of the industrial troubles. The first day's card is interesting, without being in any way outstanding, and the chief event, the Woodcote Stakes, usually brings out some of the best two-year-olds in training. In recent years Cicero, Rock Sand, Ladas, and Humorist won this race before winning the Derby, and the race is always a pointer for the next season's "classic." The race this year lives up to its usual high standard, and as both Fourth Hand (H. Beasley) and Birthright (S. Donoghue) compete, the event should be well worth watching, as they are probably the two best two-year-olds seen out so far this season. I am informed that Yellow Iris colt (B. Carslake) has been well tried and that he will be a great danger. Other runners are Confrere, Carina, Posset, Osaka filly, Hasty Queen, Lemurian, and Caporal, but in selecting Birthright to win from Fourth Hand I do so because I think that Fourth Hand may have suffered somewhat by his hard race against Israfil.

The Juvenile Selling Plate should provide an excellent race. The smart Countess of Desmond colt is due to compete, and he is entitled to be greatly fancied. Square Lad led from start to finish in his race at Lingfield Park on Saturday, and if started here he will take a lot of beating if he is as quick away from the gate as he was last week. Wootton has also Modesty, Globula, and Dandenong in the race, and whichever candidate he runs, probably Globula, must be respected. I like the chance of Countess of Desmond colt, and only in his absence should I support Wootton's candidate.

The Ashtead Selling Plate provides an excellent medium for an interesting race. Unexpected is the first to catch the eye, and there is no doubt the old horse has been unlucky not to win on two occasions this season. He has been most consistent throughout his career, but it may be that he is not quite so good as he used to be. I fully expect him to be favourite, and, in the absence of Temible, he should win.

The Craven Plate will not apparently furnish a lot of runners. Bulger will be ridden by Sirett, and his last year's form entitles him to support. He has never yet been beaten. Ballynahinch, Balfour, Marterne, The Adjutant, and Red Gauntlet are also runners, but I anticipate little difficulty for Bulger, who has the appearance of a good thing.

The Egmont Plate will bring out a good field. Golden Clear (Smirke) carries her penalty, but may find others too good. Bright Maid (J. Leach) and Thamyris (or Big Ben) are sure of support, but I prefer the chance of Cynos. It is in his favour that he will be ridden by S. Donoghue. The Epsom Handicap should be won by Sweet Rocket on her Hurst Park running behind First Edition II., although Pasha is dangerous. The Norbury Handicap may be won by Skysail. Selections:—

Juvenile Plate—Countess of Desmond colt.
Ashtead Plate—Unexpected.
Craven Plate—Bulger.
Woodcote Stakes—Birthright.
Egmont Plate—Cynos.
Epsom Handicap—Sweet Rocket.
Norbury Plate—Skysail.
DOUBLE—Cynos and Birthright.

As will be seen on reference to an advertisement elsewhere, mares must be named not later than to-morrow for the Irish Breeders' Produce Stakes of 1,000 sovs., to be run at the Phoenix Park July Meeting, 1929. The race is for the produce of mares covered this season by sires standing in Ireland, to run when two years old, and it should appeal alike to those who breed to race or for sale. The entrance fee is only £1 for each mare named, and it will be noted that 100 sovs. goes to the nominator of the dam of the winner, and 50 sovs. to the nominator of the dam of the second horse.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. Frank Hartigan has sold his horse Unexpected, engaged in the Ashtead Selling Plate at Epsom to-day, to Captain R. S. H. Nurman, and the horse will run in the latter's name and colours.

H. Leader's establishment at Newmarket has been strengthened by the arrival of thirteen horses in training and eleven yearlings, all from Ireland. The yearlings have gone temporarily to Chieveley Park.

Eagle Rock, a bay colt, by Crag-an-Earn out of Plymstock, and Sledmere, a chestnut colt, by Lemonora out of Tetrabbazia, owned respectively by Lord Astor and Mr. Somerville Tattersall, split pastern joints at Manton on Saturday. Both were two-year-olds of promise.

IRISH LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP.

PRELIMINARY STROKE COMPETITION.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

NEWCASTLE, Monday Night.

For the stroke competition for the gross prize, which is the curtain-raiser for the Irish Ladies' Championship, there was a fine entry this forenoon, fifty-six taking out cards. The conditions were favourable, but late starters had to contend with rain, which set in about 3 o'clock. Taken on the whole, the scoring was fair, but the holder of the title, Miss Janet Jackson, did not make a return. There was a tie for the prize between Miss A. Gardiner, of the Killmoon Club, and Miss Hewitt, who played really good golf for their 85's. The next best was Miss Ferguson's 87, while Mrs. Henshaw, of Foxrock, had a 90. Some of the best golf of the afternoon was played by Miss May Hannan, of Hermitage, who, with little or no luck, went round in 91. There is every indication that the championship will be one of the most interesting of recent years, and there is a likelihood that the holder will have her work cut out to retain the title, for there are several competitors entered who are on their day capable of putting up a good game against the champion. So far there have been only two scratchings announced—Miss N. T. Garrett and Mrs. Knox—so that Miss E. Sims and Miss D. Ferguson will enter the second round. Practically all the best players are in the bottom half of the draw, and much interest is being taken in the meeting of Miss Jackson and Mrs. Henshaw in the first round. Appended are the leading scores in to-day's competition:—

LEINSTER JUNIOR CUP.

FIRST ROUND MATCHES.

The Leinster Junior Cup was started yesterday on the Milltown Links, when the first round was decided. This year seventeen clubs entered, and the opening round yesterday saw the elimination of Skerries and Dundalk. Grange, however, had matters much their own way against Dundalk, winning four matches to two; while the other, that between Troth and Russell, was halved.

The second round will be played to-day, the first match, that between Dun Laoghaire and Bray, starting at 2 o'clock. Details:—

HEAVY MIDDLESEX TASK.

G. T. S. STEVENS' 114.

An inspired spell of bowling by G. O. Allen yesterday made a big change in the Middlesex v. Australian match at Lords yesterday. He took 4 wickets in eleven balls for a cost of four runs. When Middlesex went in sound batting by G. T. S. Stevens enabled the county to put up a good fight against their opponents' 489, and he gained the honour of scoring the first century against the visitors. But he got little backing from the rest of the team, and with four wickets in hand Middlesex still require 107 to save the follow-on.

Wright finished off the Yorkshire innings at Sheffield yesterday in summary fashion on a pitch affected by rain, when his victims included Kilner, Rhodes, Robinson and Macaulay. Kent had a few minutes' batting before stumps were drawn and scored 7 runs for the loss of Deed's wicket.

At Colchester, Essex never recovered a bad start, and went down to Leicestershire by the big margin of 10 wickets.

At the close of the second Surrey finished up in a comfortable position, chiefly owing to the splendid batting of Ducat, Shepherd and P. G. H. Fender, who, between them, contributed 229 towards the total of 276.

Worcestershire were again disappointing at Stourbridge, and suffered defeat at the hands of Gloucestershire by 10 wickets.

After getting within four runs of their opponents' total on Saturday for the loss of six wickets, Glamorgan, at Chesterfield, secured a first innings' lead of 195. D. Davies reached 99 after four and a half hours without giving a chance, but then ran himself out.

R. E. S. Wyatt was practically unplayable at Trent Bridge yesterday, when he claimed five Notts wickets for 15, the innings closing for 182. In their second venture Warwickshire again fared badly and could only set their opponents to get 188 to win, a task which Notts started in promising style, scoring 63 for the loss of two wickets.

The following were the chief individual performances:—

LAWN TENNIS.

ENGLAND'S LOST LAURELS.

YOUNG STARS WHO MAY BRING THEM BACK.

By M. J. G. Ritchie
(English and Davis Cup International).

What is the outstanding feature of English lawn tennis at the moment? Surely it is the promise of our young players—H. W. Austin, Miss Joan Fry, Miss Betty Nuthall, Miss Eileen Bennett and others, some of whom are certain to win fame in championship tennis within the very near future.

The institution of a schoolboys' championship, as well as junior events in both girls' and boys' events in various tournaments, with age limits, has done much to bring on the younger generation of lawn tennis players all over the country. It can be only a matter of a little while before lawn tennis must be recognised in our public schools as a school game, and then the discovery of talent to carry on the good work of elevating the standard of play is sure to follow. It is not given to everyone to be a champion, but where the standard of play is high, superplayers may quite likely emerge.

THE YOUNGER SCHOOL.

The first fruits of popularising the game are already apparent. We certainly already have several more than promising young players of little over school age who, in the future, may do great things. In a short article it is impossible to mention more than a few, and I shall refer naturally to those I have more recently seen.

Place aux dames. Miss Eileen Bennett is fast reaping the benefit of her constant practice of the last two or three years, and may be said to have arrived remarkably quickly in the front rank of our women players. Incidentally it may be remarked that the lessons she received professionally at the beginning of her lawn tennis career have borne good fruit.

Miss Bennett is a stylist and makes all her strokes and service with delightful freedom. She has cultivated an all-round game, volleys forcibly, kills well overhead, and her forehand and backhand drives are made with considerable pace. Added to this, her overhead service is a real fast one of good length and well placed. A certain amount of what I should call—for want of a better term—carelessness, militates at present against the consistent success of her game, but it is one with great possibilities.

JUST OUT OF THE NURSERY.

Another very youthful player, Miss Betty Nuthall, is showing marvellously rapid improvement. Hers is another striking instance of the advantage of commencing the game when practically just out of the nursery, and in a family keen on encouraging it.

Miss Betty makes her forehand drive in a way reminiscent of S. H. Smith, and her backhand is rapidly becoming almost as strong. I do not know of any of our more experienced lady players who hit more cleanly, or with such a consistently good length, and with so little effort. It is a pleasant sight to see this young lady taking the ins and outs of the game with the greatest good humour, as well as her enjoyment in mastering its tactics, in which department she is fast becoming proficient.

Naturally, at her age, her powers of mobility are not equal to those more mature, but I can see Miss Nuthall amongst quite the foremost in the near future.

I shall now pass on to the men.

"BUNNY" AUSTIN.

First and foremost of those not long out of the schoolboy class, who have been doing wonderful things lately is "Bunny" Austin, late of Repton.

Austin is a good example of what tuition from an early age by a father, extremely good at lawn tennis and cricket, can do. "Bunny's" ground strokes, both forehand and backhand, are correctly made with excellent footwork; he gets the racket well behind the ball prior to the stroke, and as a nice "follow through" after it is made, two prime essentials to get the best results.

His service is somewhat ordinary at present, but well placed, and, at times, fast. I am inclined to think though that the step he takes when serving approaches a foot-fault—this should be easily remedied. His volleying is good and will be better, but is not at present, I think, a strong point and might be more of an asset, backed up by such accurate drives, were he to cultivate that department more. A little weakness in staying power is apparent at times, but he should grow out of this, as he gets older. Austin plays with his head as well as his hand, and exhibits a surprising knowledge of the tactics of the game.

SHARPE'S STEADINESS.

Nigel Sharpe is another young player who has "arrived," but probably with considerably more tournament experience than Austin. Sharpe has developed, under the tuition of one of our best-known professionals, an extraordinary safe and accurate backhand, which might well serve as a pattern to anyone. It is seldom I see him make a mistake on this wing, for previous weakness on the forehand has been practically eliminated by steady practice and perseverance. His service is still rather a weak spot, being laboured and without much result. Extreme activity, however, enables him to overcome the difficulties that his service lays him open to. Neither overhead play nor volleying are at present Sharpe's strong points, though he does quite nicely in these sometimes, but I think he relies more at present on his retrieving powers than on strokes to make his points. This is no bad system at all from a winning point of view, to an extent, but if the highest position is to be attained, should not be cultivated too much. Sharpe's banner device might deservedly be "steadiness."

Gregory, the young Yorkshireman, plays a hard-hitting and brilliant game, consistent with a tall and powerful physique. He drives hard and accurately on both wings, smashes well, and is severe in his volleys, putting them well away. His game is much assisted by a fast and powerful service—in fact, he has one of the best services amongst the younger players. His strokes being on the brilliant, rather than steady, side, Gregory is inclined to be erratic; but I would recommend him on no account at present to sacrifice his hard hitting for safety play. His game is one with great possibilities.

Many other young players have also come right to the front—Miss Joan Fry, Miss Sterry, Miss Dix, Hughes, Hodges, Lester, Latchford, and Wheatcroft. The list is not exhaustive; it is certainly heartening for those of us who believe that the day is not far distant when England's lost laurels at lawn tennis will be regained.

McCrea, 244 c.c. O.K. Blackburne, who won the race last year. The Duthie-Large Cup and the Jackson and Melrose Cup for second and third go to H. G. Tyrrell Smith, 249 c.c. Rex Acme, and H. Cogan, 498 c.c. Scott, respectively.

The roads are in first class order, and some clever fast riding and cornering was watched by hundreds yesterday morning.

THE IMPERIAL CRICKET CONFERENCE.

A representative meeting of the Imperial Cricket Conference was held at Lord's yesterday. The following tours were agreed to:—1928—South Africa, in England; 1928-29—England, in Australia; 1930—Australia, in England.

IRISH DEATH-RATE.

RETURNS FOR TWELVE TOWN DISTRICTS.

In his report for the week ended Saturday, the 15th of May, 1926, the Registrar-General says:—The deaths from all causes appertaining to the undermentioned areas for last week and for the past four weeks, respectively, were equal to the following annual rates per 1,000 of the population:—

Twelve town districts, 15.2 and 15.5; Dublin Registration Area, 14.4 and 14.5; Dublin County Borough, 15.2 and 14.9; Cork, 21.1 and 22.0; Limerick, 14.9 and 18.6; and Waterford, 13.3 and 14.7.

The deaths from the principal epidemic diseases recorded for the twelve town districts during last week were equal to an annual rate of 1.5 per 1,000. One of the 31 deaths from all causes for Cork was from scarlet fever, two were from whooping-cough, and one from diarrhœa and enteritis of a child under two years; of the 11 deaths for Limerick one was from diarrhœa and enteritis of a child under two years; and of the seven deaths for Waterford three were from measles and one from scarlet fever.

DUBLIN REGISTRATION AREA.

In the Dublin Registration Area the total number of births registered during the week amounted to 230—114 boys and 116 girls—and the deaths to 131—70 males and 61 females.

The deaths registered, omitting the deaths (numbering nine) of persons admitted into public institutions from localities outside the area, represent an annual rate of mortality of 14.4 per 1,000 of the population. During the nineteen weeks ending with Saturday last the death rate averaged 15.6, and was 5.9 below the mean rate for the corresponding portions of the ten years 1916-25. The rate for all deaths registered during the nineteen weeks was 17.3, and during the corresponding period of the preceding ten years 23.2.

Included in the 122 deaths appertaining to the area are one from typhus fever, three from measles, one from diphtheria, five from diarrhœa and enteritis of children under two years, and two from influenza. In the three preceding weeks deaths from measles were one, two and one; deaths from diphtheria were one, nought and two; deaths from diarrhœa and enteritis of children under two years were two, three and one, and deaths from influenza were one, three and 2. There were no deaths from typhus registered in the three preceding weeks.

Tuberculous disease caused 13 deaths (nine of which were from pulmonary tuberculosis and four from other forms of tuberculous disease), as against 19, 17 and 13 from all forms of tuberculosis in the three weeks preceding.

Six deaths were caused by cancer and 20 by diseases of the heart.

There were four deaths from pneumonia, comprising one from broncho-pneumonia, one from lobar pneumonia and two from pneumonia (not otherwise defined). Bronchitis caused 15 deaths.

One accidental death due to burns was registered, and there was also one death by suicide.

Among deaths of infants under one year old, two were due to meningitis, one to convulsions, one to bronchitis, one to broncho-pneumonia, four to diarrhœa and enteritis, three to premature birth and two to congenital debility.

Twenty-three of the deaths registered during the week, appertaining to the area, were those of children under five years of age, 14 being infants under one year, of whom five were under one month old, and 42 deaths were those of persons aged 65 years and upwards, of whom 31 were 70 years of age or over.

Of the 122 deaths recorded, 58 occurred in hospitals and other public institutions.

ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND.

The mortality among civilians for the week ended 15th May in 105 large English towns (including London, in which the rate was 10.3) was equal to an average annual death-rate of 11.4 per 1,000 of the estimated civil population.

The average death-rate for Glasgow was 14.6 and for Edinburgh 13.1 per 1,000 persons living.

BOXING.

THE WELTER-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

HOOD BEATS MASON.

Only six fights for the Welter-weight Championship and the Lonsdale Belt have taken place in a quarter of a century, and among famous holders of the title have been Johnny Summers, Young Josephs and Johnny Basham. Last night the seventh fight for the Championship and Belt was staged at Holland Park by the National Sporting Club, but the Belt was a new one, Basham having made the original trophy his own property. The contestants were regarded as very worthy challengers for a title which has not been fought for for ten years, but the better physique of Jack Hood and his proved ability as a boxer gave him an advantage over Harry Mason (the ex-Light-weight Champion), who has only recently come into the welter division. Everything pointed to a record house, for when the opening bout was staged there was scarcely a vacant seat to be seen. Details:—

SIX-ROUND CONTESTS.

Tom Hood (Birmingham) beat Gus Warman (Aldgate), the latter retiring at the end of the third round.

TWELVE-ROUND CONTEST.

TWENTY-ROUND CONTEST

(For Welter Weight Championship of Great Britain.)

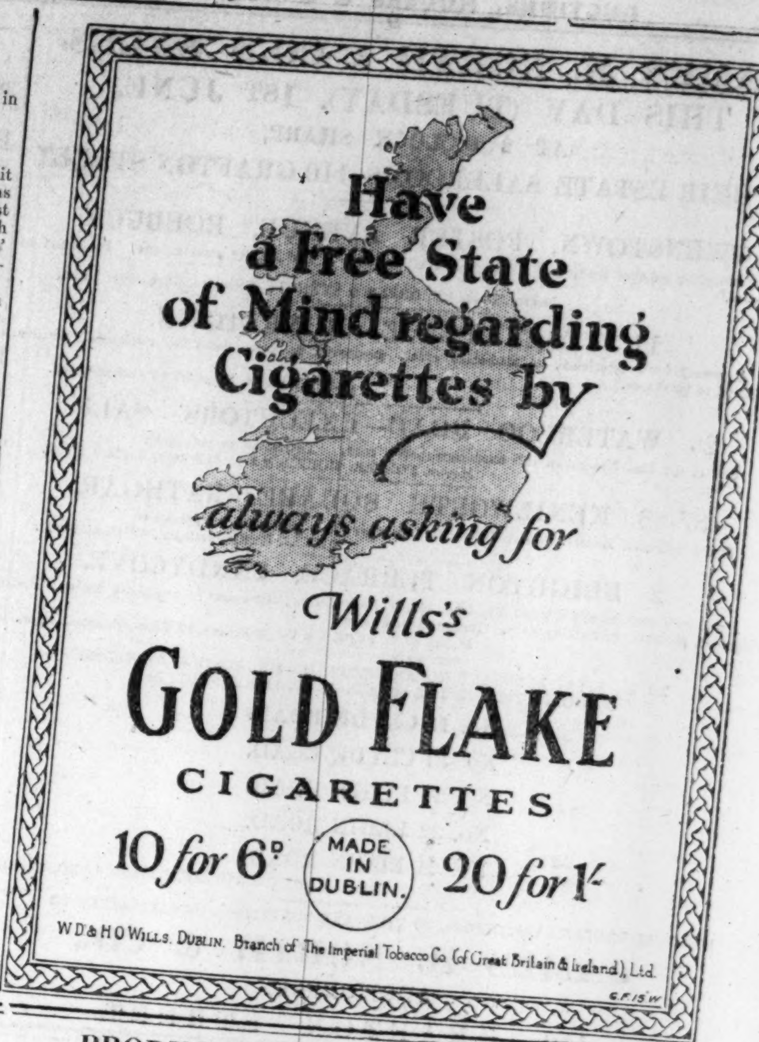

Jack Hood (Birmingham) beat Harry Mason on points. Hood had the advantage of height and reach, but Mason got under his guard, and did well at in-fighting in the earlier rounds. Hood landed a terrific right hook which floored Mason in the third. Hood appeared to tire at the ninth, and missed many openings. Mason seized every opportunity from this on, and was getting the better of things towards the end. Hood then got going, and went all out in the last round as if a knock-out were his only chance of the verdict. The crowd evidently thought the same, for when he finally received the decision there was general uproar of protest.

BILLIARDS.

NEWMAN v. SMITH.

Newman and Smith yesterday began a match of 16,000 up at Belfast. The afternoon session was devoid of any brilliant play, both displaying excessive caution, and consequently breaks ruled small. Interval scores:—Smith, 667; Newman (in play), 281.

The play at night was of a much higher standard, the champion making a fine break of 387 at his first innings. Smith countered with 314, and, after 74 by Newman, ran to his points with 241 (unfinished). Closing scores:—Smith (in play), 1,334; Newman, 736.

OILCAKES, etc.—Linseed Cakes—With a very large curtailed production on account of the continued restriction of power available for the home mills, values are fully maintained, especially for near positions. Yesterday's nearest quotation being £10 15/- to £11, while foreign makes are only sparingly offered; best brands of Argentine, Spanish and Calcutta, however, are available at £10 to £10 5/-. COTTON CAKES—Egyptians now arrived and also afloat parcels find a steady sale at £5 6/3 to £5 7/6 ex ship terms, which is also the price asked for June and July loading, while English makes are only nominally quoted at £6 10/- to £5 15/- for made from Egyptian seed, and £5 10/- for those from Bombay seed. Ground Nut Cakes—Finest white Spanish analysing 50/55 p.c. oil and albuminoids is cheaply quoted at £10 to £10 10/- per ton ex quay, while undecorticated are without change at £8 5/- to £8 10/-. Palm Kernel Cakes—A fair business is passing both for spot and forward delivery, at prices ranging from £6 5/- to £6 10/- for best English makes. Decorticated Cotton Cakes—A parcel of nutted Grecian in store may be bought at £9 10/- to £9 15/-, and some fine quality Californian 50 p.c. meal is also obtainable at the same figure. Rice Meal—Some parcels of Rangoon sell steadily at £5 5/- to £5 10/-, and there are some afloat parcels offering at £4 10/- ex ship terms. OFFALS—Best straight run middlings are, if anything, the turn easier at £6 10/- to £6 15/-, while bran is without alteration at £6 10/- to £7 10/- as to quality. Plate pollards move off quietly at £5 ex ship and £5 10/- ex warehouse. Maize Feeds—Gluten's maize gluten feed remains in fair request at £9 to £9 5/-, maize germ cake meal at £10 5/- to £10 10/-, South African maize meal at £7 10/- to £7 15/-, and maize germ meal at £7 10/- to £8.

LIVERPOOL WHITE SUGAR TERMINAL.—Morning—May 14/1½ value, August 14/8½ value, September 14/9 value, December 15/0½ value, March, 1927, 15/5½ value. Tone quiet. Afternoon—May 14/3 value, August 14/8½ value, September 14/9 value, December 15/1½ value, March, 1927, 15/5½ value. Tone quiet.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR.—The market opened with a quiet but steady tone, a moderate business doing at late prices.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.—American Futures—Values fell a few points at first on slight hedge selling, but the market afterwards was better supported, and prices improved. In the latter part of the day business was very quiet, but the tone was steady. Spot sales 4,000 (sales for export included in above 600 bales). American futures—Tendency quiet but steady. June 9.76d., July 9.68d., August 9.53d., September 9.43d., October 9.35d., November 9.25d., December 9.25d., January 9.23d., February 9.22d., March 9.23d., April 9.21d., May 9.22d., June 9.20d. Egyptian futures (basis F.G.F. Sakels)—Tendency quiet. July 15.40d., October 15.25d., November 15.05d., January 14.90d., March 14.85d.

BRADFORD WOOL.—The market is almost nominal owing to coal stoppage and opening of the London sales to-day (Tuesday). Prices are not being tested. Topmakers are cautious sellers of fine tops, and on the one hand the state of business and the uncertain outlook make users disinclined to buy. Business in piece goods is being held up.

LONDON METALS MARKET.
